REPORTS WILSON BOUND TO CARRY TREATY UNALTERED

THREAT TO LODGE AND KNOX

If Senate Forces a New Treaty They Will Be Sent to Negotiate It at Berlin.

NEW RESERVATIONS DRAFT

Lodge Said to Have Elaborated Root's, with Drastic Treatment of Article 10.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—President Wilson today made it plain to Senate Democrats that he was not ready to accept reservations to the Peace Treaty, and that he was not even considering the possibility that the acceptance of reservations might in the end be necessary.

At a conference at the White House with Senator Hitchcock, Administration spokesman in the Senate, the President left no doubt that he considered the very thought of reservations by members of his party in the Senate as premature. He emphasized to Senator Hitchcock the fact that the immediate and vital task of the friends of the treaty and the League covenant in the Senate was to accomplish the defeat of every amendment to the text of the treaty or the covenant. Until that had been done, Mr. Wilson clearly indicated, according to Senator Hitchcock, not the slightest consideration could be accorded any suggestion of reservations. They could not even be thought about.

The President's apparent fear that there was still danger of textual amendments of the treaty by the Senate came somewhat as a surprise to most Senators, for it has been rather generally accepted in the Senate for some time that the advocates of amendments cannot muster the necessary votes. President Wilson, however, as Mr. Hitchcock interpreted him, appeared to be concerned over the possibility that the Shantung provision—perhaps the most obnoxious section of the treaty in the eyes of the Senate generally—might actually be amended by the elimination of "Japan" and the substitution of "China" in the clauses transferring German rights in the Shantung Peninsula.

Another possibility of amendment feared by the President was that in respect to British voting strength in the League of Nations assembly, where self-governing British dominions each get a vote, in addition to the one given the British Empire.

Carrying out the President's idea of rallying the treaty's friends to defend it against amendment, Senator Hitchcock announced that he would address the Senate next week, earnestly urging that no consideration be given any proposition for an amendment, no matter how great the need for it may appear to be.

Germans Profit from Amendments.

In this speech, Mr. Hitchcock said he intended to point out to the Senate, as President Wilson today pointed out most emphatically to him, the fact that the slightest textual amendment of the treaty meant that it must go back to Germany for reacceptance.

If in the meantime the other great powers have accepted the treaty as it is, and as Germany has accepted it, the United States, the President pointed out to the Senator, will be in the position of going, "hat in hand," to beg Germany's acceptance of a separate peace. And in that event, the President expressed the view, Germany would use to the fullest extent the trading advantage she would have in dealing singly with the United States.

"The President and I concurred fully in the view," said Senator Hitchcock, "that a new treaty would have to be made if the present treaty was amended textually, and that the United States would then lose entirely the benefits accruing under the present treaty. Other nations, having accepted the treaty, would, of course, be enjoying those benefits all the time. In case of rejection of this treaty, or if it is amended so that it must go back to Germany, the United States would be excluded from access to German dyestuffs, which would probably be available to the merchants and manufacturers of other nations.

"The United States would have to go to Germany, hat in hand, and beg her to accept our peace terms."

According to Mr. Hitchcock, the President said that if the Senate forced the making of a new treaty he would send Senators Knox and Lodge to Berlin to negotiate it.

"The President's view of an amendment of the Shantung provision," said Mr. Hitchcock, "is that in that case Germany would have one treaty with Japan and the Allies, transferring the

Begin Jailing Germans as War Offenders

PARIS, Aug. 14.—German soldiers accused of crimes in formerly occupied regions are beginning to arrive at Lille, according to dispatches from that city to La Liberté. The men are being incarcerated in the citadel, where they will be held until they are tried.

Among those who have arrived are Lieutenant Binder, accused of swindling and robbery in connection with the requisitioning of supplies, and Lieutenant Schmitz, accused of stealing silver plate.

Two others have been arrested at Strasbourg and are awaiting transfer, while warrants have been issued against still others, among whom is General von Zolner, who is alleged to have ordered the deportation of young men and women from Lille.

ENVOYS MINIMIZE KOLCHAK RETREAT

Put It at 450 Miles Instead of 800, as Reported to State Department.

SET TOBOL RIVER AS LIMIT

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—Information of a somewhat encouraging nature regarding the situation in Western Siberia, where Admiral Kolchak is struggling to halt the Bolshevist advance into Siberia, was received from the All-Russian Government at Omsk today by the Russian Embassy. While a retreat of the Omsk Government's army is acknowledged, the total distance Admiral Kolchak's forces have retired since the commencement of the Bolshevist offensive in June is 300 miles altogether.

The dispatches from the Omsk Foreign Office state that the Bolsheviki have occupied Shadrinsk, Tchoumuliak, and Tiumen, the last-named place being the furthermost point reached by the Red Army. They assert that the total distance the Omsk Army has retired during the last two weeks is fifty miles, which military experts declare does not indicate a rout or an unduly rapid retreat. The evacuation of the territory yielded up by Admiral Kolchak's troops has been systematic and complete, and the fighting has been maintained efficiently.

The Omsk Army has not yet reached the Tobol River, which has been fortified, and where, Russian experts say, the Bolshevist drive will be definitely and permanently arrested. It is planned for the Omsk Army to fall back upon the Tobol, where the most effective resistance can be offered. It was stated by a Russian authority that the furthest point reached by the forces of Admiral Kolchak in the Omsk Army's advance toward Viatka was Glasov, and that inasmuch as the Bolshevist army, in its present drive, which began two and one-half months ago, has not penetrated beyond Tiumen, the total distance of the Omsk Army's retreat, being the distance between Glasov and Tiumen, is only 450 miles, instead of the 700 to 800 miles as variously reported in intelligence reaching the State Department.

It was said in official circles today that there had been no new movement of arms and munitions from America to Siberia, nor any change of policy by the United States involving a decision to render greater and more immediate material aid to the Omsk Government. Shipments of arms and munitions from America to Siberia, it was stated, had been progressing for several months and no extraordinary action had been taken as a result of the retirement of Admiral Kolchak's army. Shipments had been made as rapidly as transports could be furnished, but an unfavorable factor was the inadequacy of transportational facilities in Siberia, the Siberian Railway having been operated with poor efficiency.

It is suspected in some important diplomatic quarters here that the new attitude taken by the United States toward the Omsk Government, which is indefinitely postponing recognition of the Kolchak régime, is occasioned by a distrust of Admiral Kolchak himself rather than by the military reverses suffered by his army. It is known that some time ago Paul S. Reinsch, American Minister to China, cabled to the State Department a series of criticisms of Admiral Kolchak by American consular officers in Siberia. The essence of the advices was that Admiral Kolchak was distrusted by the Siberian population, that he could not exercise governmental authority because of the people's hostility to him, and that he was a reactionary.

It is understood that the State Department and President Wilson were uncertain whether to accept the report from Minister Reinsch at its face value, and decided to send Roland S. Morris, Ambassador to Japan, to Omsk to make a more personal and intimate investiga-

SOTHERN MEDIATES IN EFFORT TO END STRIKE OF ACTORS

PRODUCERS IN CONFERENCE

WASHINGTON TAKES ACTION

Mediators from Department of Labor Said to be Expected Here Today.

An attempt by Government officials to end the actors' strike, it is now believed, will be made in New York today. A report was received from Washington last night that Benjamin Squires and R. B. Mahany, commissioners appointed by William B. Wilson, Secretary of Labor, were on their way here to confer with both actors and managers. Both sides last night denied that they had asked for Government interference.

A possible settlement of the strike, which in the past ten days has all but paralyzed the theatre in New York, was believed to be in sight last night. The Producing Managers' Association, following a conference with a committee of actors, headed by E. H. Sothern, Leo Ditrichstein and Mrs. Fiske, announced through Arthur Hopkins that it was willing to issue a form of contract embodying everything for which the actors are now fighting, except formal recognition of the Actors' Equity Association.

Late last night the managers and the Sothern committee met for a second time, and it was planned to carry the proposals of the managers to the Actors' Equity Association today.

Mr. Hopkins, discussing the form of contract which the managers were willing to issue, said that it would contain the eight-performance clause, with provision for extra payment for all matinees. This is the demand for which the actors originally went to war. It would contain also, Mr. Hopkins said, a clause limiting rehearsals for musical shows to four weeks, on which the Equity has been insisting on behalf of its chorus branch.

In regard to arbitration, which is certain to be the most difficult point to settle, Mr. Hopkins said that the managers proposed that a permanent arbitration committee be appointed, to consist of three managers, appointed by the managers, and three actors, appointed by the actors, and a seventh neutral member. It was hoped, he said, to persuade a Supreme Court Justice to act as the neutral. So far as he knew, he said, the managers would have no objection to the actors on the committee being appointed by the Actors' Equity Association, but said that the association, as such, must not figure. Later, after conferring with other managers, Mr. Hopkins said that actors appointed by the Actors' Equity Association would not be satisfactory to the managers.

This board would arbitrate contract differences—that is, differences of opinion on the interpretation of the standard contract in force. It would not have power to arbitrate differences arising out of the drawing up of a new form of contract.

The visit of Mr. Sothern's committee to the managers followed a meeting called by Mr. Sothern at the Hotel Biltmore in the afternoon. Among those who attended this meeting were Fay Bainter, Leo Ditrichstein, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Coburn, Louis Mann, Ina Claire, Holbrook Blinn, Lenore Ulric, Eugene Walter, William Collier, Eileen Huban, Minnie Dupree, David Warfield, Lowell Sherman, Thomas E. Shea, Janet Beecher, Olive Wyndham, Marjorie Wood, Howard Kyle, Laura Walker, and Donald Gallaher.

Sothern Seeks Harmony.

Mr. Sothern, in opening the meeting, said that he was acting "purely in the interest of harmony," and that he had no desire to break up the Actors' Equity Association or to favor the managers in any way. At his suggestion a committee of six was appointed to visit the managers and to get from them the best contract which they were willing to give. On this committee were Mr. Sothern, Mr. Ditrichestein, Mrs. Fiske, Augustus Thomas, Lowell Sherman, and Howard Kyle.

Both Mr. Sherman and Mr. Ditrichstein are Equity members, and the latter is on the council of the organization. They visited the managers, however, as individual actors.

In response to the request of many of the actors against whom suit was brought by the Shuberts several days ago, Samuel Untermyer yesterday wrote two letters to Paul D. Turner, counsel for the Actors' Equity Association, in

60% of French Air Force Were Killed or Wounded

PARIS, Aug. 15.—French pilots and observers killed and wounded during the war aggregated 60 per cent. of the total flying personnel of slightly fewer than 13,000 men. The percentage of loss was greater than that of any other branch of the French Army.

Pilots and observers killed at the front numbered 1,940, while 1,451 are missing and are believed to be dead. There were 2,922 pilots and observers wounded at the front, and 1,927 killed in flights in the rear of the fighting area.

CANADA WELCOMES PRINCE OF WALES

GIVES COLORS TO BATTALION

Pays Tribute to Canada's Loyalty to the Empire and to Her Part in the Great War.

ST. JOHN, N. B., Aug. 15.—The Prince of Wales at 11 o'clock this morning set foot on Canadian soil for the first time. The weather was inauspicious, rain commencing as his ship, the Dragon, put into St. John, but the welcome of the people of Canada was tremendous and cordial.

The welcome started well out among the great elevators and huge derricks of the broad harbor. High against the sky the elevators carried giant signs of welcome. Motor boats came out like a swarm of dancing butterflies, twinkling with flags and packed with people, and they saw the Dragon and Dauntless all the way to the mooring points. They made an army of boats behind him, when under the crash of the salute and amid skirl of sirens his barge steamed to shore.

Again, as at Newfoundland, the people clung to every available foothold, and stood in masses against the sky on the great buildings. And on the quay there was so dense a crowd that soldiers had to join forces with the police to press back the cheering multitude.

The scene on the quay was beautiful and stirring. With the soldiers of the guard had been gathered a mass of school children in white, carrying flags. As the Prince stepped forth these children let loose their cheering with a will. The big stand in which they stood became a fluttering mass of flags, and from this fire of color the cheering spread until all the town seemed to be swelling the shouting. It was raining, but no rain could dampen their enthusiasm, and when the Prince had inspected the guard he stood before them and they sang "God Bless the Prince of Wales," following it with the Canadian anthem and "God Save the King."

While they were singing beautiful girls dressed in white and bearing shields representing each of the Provines of Canada came forward and courtsied to the Prince, and as they fell back took up a position in an attractive group. It was a delightful picture, delightfully carried out, and there was no doubt about the Prince's pleasure. Then as the Prince drove off the children let loose their enthusiasm again, and went on with it long after he was out of sight.

The Prince went by car through King Street, a broad and noble avenue which sweeps up hill from the harbor into the heart of the town. It was bright with colors and greeted the Prince at the outset with the words "St. John is proud of you." With the Prince was Sir Robert Borden, Premier of Canada, and beside him the Prince looked slight and young.

The Prince's progress through St. John was a great one. He drove through the principal streets to the armories, where he inspected the veterans gathered together to meet him on his arrival, and presented colors to the 26th Overseas Battalion. After a drive to see the reversible falls of St. Johns he visited the new military hospital, where he unveiled a tablet inscribed with the names of the New Brunswick battalions which fought in the war.

Governor Greets Prince.

ST. JOHN, N. B., Aug. 15, (Associated Press.)—Owing to a misunderstanding regarding the time arrangements the Prince landed at St. John one hour later than had been expected, as he followed Atlantic standard time, while the local program had been made on day light time. This made it necessary to defer all arrangements for an hour, but the crowd waited patiently and good naturedly.

The Duke of Devonshire, Governorr General of Canada, early went aboard the cruiser Dragon, which brought the Prince from Newfoundland. The Prince was received with great enthusiasm when he landed, accompanied by the Duke. He smilingly acknowledged the

ACCUSES CHICAGO PACKERS

HEARINGS AT THE CAPITOL

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—The Department of Justice today notified its District Attorneys in Ohio to co-operate at once with local officials in that State and take steps for the seizure and distribution of great quantities of foodstuffs which, according to a telegram received here from Governor Cox of Ohio, have been found in cold storage warehouses.

Governor Cox sent a detailed statement of the foodstuffs, which, he asserted, should be taken over for the benefit of the people, and gave the names of concerns alleged to be guilty of hoarding them. Federal officials here refused to make public the text of the telegram from Governor Cox, but intimated that if the facts squared with the data which Mr. Cox furnished, the foodstuffs seized would total the largest amount so far libelled.

It is understood that all of the food, which is said to include a great variety of meats and vegetables, is in good condition. The quantity is asserted to be large enough to make a decided effect on the present market prices, if it is distributed by the Government at what is determined upon as a fair price.

Attorney General Palmer's telegram of instructions to his District Attorneys ordered them to get into touch with the local State officials, obtain full particulars concerning the statements made in the Cox telegram, and take steps immediately under the anti-hoarding section of the food control law to put the food into circulation.

Instructions were issued also today to all agents of the Federal Government engaged in the hunt for hoarded food to speed up their work so that the results of their endeavors would be felt at the earliest moment. All reports which are being received from various parts of the nation from State and municipal authorities are being checked, and direct orders have been issued to start proceedings at once where court action is justified. The Attorney General's department is also taking in the milk situation, and has promised to extend aid, so far as practicable, to the local officials in New York State and other communities. The plea for help made by Governor Smith of New York has been referred to Judge C. F. Ames, who is assisting Mr. Palmer in law enforcement features of the campaign against high living costs.

The farmers also are taking a lively interest in the milk situation, and the National Board of Farm Organizations today issued an appeal to farmers throughout the country to "protest by petition, ballot, or other lawful and orderly means against the unfair and un-American methods being used against farm organizations engaged in the collective sale of their farm products."

The immediate cause for the appeal, the farmers say, was the arrest on Aug. 9 of seven farmers in Ohio who were acting as representatives of the Ohio Farmers' Co-Operative Milk Company in the sale of milk to the dealers of Cleveland.

The farmers alleged that the arrests were made and the men thrown into a vermin-infested jail, not because they were profiteering, but because of the "personal advancement of ambitious politicians and for the benefit of profiteering combinations operating between the farmer and the consumer."

"The National Board of Farm Organizations," says a statement issued tonight, "calls attention to the fact that if farmers shall be denied the right to do collective bargaining in the sale of their products, if they are to be branded as criminals for doing openly what all business is permitted to do unmolested, such class distinction will not always be borne with patience by the farmers of the country.

"The National Board of Farm Organizations recalls that in almost every large city of the United States within the last two years farmers from outside such cities have been caught within their boundaries and branded as felons for daring to confer with their neighbors; for joining with them in the sale of their milk or other common products; that some of these indictments are still pending, others are being threatened, and all without regard to the farmers' increased cost of production.

"The National Board of Farm Organizations believe that organization

10,000,000 Eggs Ordered Seized in Detroit; 200,000 Pounds of Sugar Taken in Cleveland

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 15.—A libel was filed here today under the Lever act for the seizure of nearly 10,000,000 eggs held in storage by the Rock Island Butter Company of Toledo and A. F. Thibodeau & Co. of Detroit, United States District Attorney Kinnane announced tonight.

Michigan has no statutes limiting storage of foodstuffs, but Mr. Kinnane declared an investigation would be made looking to proceedings against the owners under the State's anti-trust laws. Permission will be sought of the Department of Justice to place the eggs on the market immediately.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 15.—J. C. Breitenstein, Assistant United States Attorney for Northern Ohio, late today announced that a libel had been filed under the Lever act for seizure and condemnation of 200,000 pounds of sugar belonging to the C. D. Kinney Company of Baltimore and held in storage by the Canton Storage and Transfer Company at Canton, Ohio. Deputy Sheriff Walsh seized the sugar tonight. E. S. Wertz, United States Attorney, will ask Judge Westenhaver in the Federal Court here to adjudge the sugar hoarded and order it condemned. If such an order is made the sugar will be sold by the Government.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 15.—Nearly a million eggs were seized by the Federal authorities here today at the cold storage plant of Noel & Co. The eggs, which were the property of Alloway Brothers, local produce dealers, were declared by the United States Attorney to constitute a supply largely in excess of the reasonable requirements of business.

HINES SEES DANGER OF COAL GOUGING

DENIES CARS ARE HELD UP

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—In reply to a communication from the Senate asking for information concerning the coal situation, Walker D. Hines, Director General of Railroads, sent a letter today to Vice President Marshall in which he stated that legislation to meet the demands for the transportation of coal were not necessary, but that in his opinion "it is worthy of serious consideration whether Congressional action can be taken to protect the public from excessive coal prices."

Mr. Hines said frankly that he believed falling off in production was due, not to car shortage, but to the fact that unwarranted prices were being quoted to consumers. He expressed the fear that propaganda concerning a shortage, unless drastic steps were taken, might be exaggerated to "serve as a pretext for heavy increases in coal prices."

Denial that great numbers of cars are being withheld from service because of inability on the part of the Railroad Administration to arrange the financial details for their assignment, was made by Mr. Hines. He also advocated a campaign of publicity, through existing Government departments, which would acquaint the public with all facts.

"It is not believed," said Mr. Hines, "that further action by Congress will aid in meeting the demands for the transportation of the coal which will be needed during the remainder of this calendar year. The matter is largely dependent upon practical conditions which will be affected by legislation. A statement is appended showing some of the important conditions in this respect and indicating that if the demand to be supplied is as large as has been predicted by the National Coal Association, there promises to be, not only substantial difficulties in the transportation of coal, but also in the production by the mines of the coal which can be transported.

Roads Already Overworked.

"The transportation difficulties will not be principally or primarily a shortage of cars, but the fact that the entire railroad plant—locomotives, cars, main tracks, terminal tracks, &c.—will be so occupied in handling a very large business of all sorts that an abnormal amount of any particular business, such as coal, will inevitably lead to congestion and delay; nevertheless, the unified control of the railroads will admit of specializing on the transportation of coal to whatever extent is absolutely necessary to prevent actual hardship.

"The great danger that confronts the public in this matter is that any shortage, either in production by the mines or in transportation, may be exaggerated so as to serve as a pretext for heavy increases in the coal prices which in my opinion are already high. Generally speaking, it is worthy of serious consideration whether congressional action can be taken to protect the public under these circumstances from excessive coal prices. In this connection it is important to remember that the shortages in the production of coal by the mines and in the transportation by the railroads have not been exceptional in the Fall and Winter months, and any effort to stress unduly these conditions this year will probably be for the purpose of creating a pretext for increasing the prices of coal.

"I believe it will be of specific advan-

Attorney Fridiger Accuses the Brotherhood and Company of Working in Harmony.

The great burst of activity on the part of the Interborough Brotherhood apparently had its effect in dampening the campaign of the Amalgamated officials to organize the Interborough employes as they had the B. R. T. employes and there was comparatively little enthusiasm at the mass meeting called last night by the Amalgamated at the Lyceum Hall, at Eighty-sixth Street and Third Avenue.

Up to midnight about 500 persons had attended the meeting, which was to continue all night, to give all shifts of Interborough workers a chance to attend. How large a proportion of the 500 was composed of Interborough employes was doubtful. Amalgamated officials refused to give figures on the number of Interborough employes who had signed up with their organization, but asserted that several hundred had done so during the day.

Louis Fridiger, counsel for the Amalgamated Association and one of the directors of the strike in Brooklyn, asserted that the meeting was being picketed by members of the rival union and by officials of the company. The Brotherhood, as a matter of fact, had demanded that the Interborough discharge any employe who was active on behalf of the Amalgamated. Yesterday the Interborough Brotherhood sent out this circular to its men:

To All Members of the I. R. T. Brotherhood:

The General Committee will picket the meeting of the Amalgamated at Eighty-sixth Street tonight. All employes of the I. R. T. are warned to keep away from this meeting. Any I. R. T. man attending this meeting his dismissal will be demanded by the I. R. T. Brotherhood.

THE GENERAL COMMITTEE of the I. R. T. Brotherhood.

Asserting that the Interborough Brotherhood was a hand-picked organization, which was controlled by the Interborough in its own interests, Mr. Fridiger quoted from Brotherhood leaders, who said that the men were getting starvation wages, and said:

"If that is the case, why did they not show some activity on behalf of the men three years ago or at any time during the three years? Before the Interborough officials would not let them.

Accuses Brotherhood.

"If there ever was a conspiracy, that of the Interborough officials and the Brotherhood is the most damnable that ever took place in this city. It is also the greatest boost the Amalgamated has ever had. While we were holding off at the request of Judge Mayer and Public Service Commissioner Nixon, Hedley and the rest were meeting and framing up a strike which in their own hearts they never meant to go through with in good faith. Their action is taken now in collusion with the Interborough Brotherhood in the hope of checking a stampede to the Amalgamated.

"We have always held that an employe has a right to belong to any organization that he sees fit to belong to, and in joining the Amalgamated the employes of the Interborough have the benefit of affiliation with the American Federation of Labor."

Fridiger said that spies of the Interborough were all through the meeting and that officials of the Interborough were on the outside, and had refused to move when told to by the police.

CALL I.R.T. STRIKE FOR 4 A.M.

QUIT MEETING IN ANGER

WILL CONFER AGAIN TODAY

Traction and City Officials to Meet Union in Effort to Avert Tieup.

The elevated and subway lines in Manhattan will be tied up completely tomorrow morning at 4 o'clock, according to the leaders of the Interborough Brotherhood, unless they receive an increase of 50 per cent. before that time.

After the Executive Committee of the brotherhood left the City Hall yesterday afternoon, asserting that they had been repeatedly insulted by Mayor Hylan, the Mayor arranged for a meeting at the City Hall at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon, in the hope of averting the strike by a general conference of the brotherhood leaders, the Interborough officials, the Public Service Commissioners, and all members of the Board of Estimate.

As leaders of the brotherhood said, only the immediate promise of the 50 per cent. increase would prevent them from striking, and as Interborough officials asserted that they could make no further increase without going into the hands of a receiver, the only apparent solution yesterday was an agreement today by Mayor Hylan and other members of the Board of Estimate to an increase in fares. Mayor Hylan, however, denounced the strike program as "what the police call an 'inside job,'" for the purpose of compelling an increase in fare, while District Attorney Swann started at the Mayor's request an investigation to discover if there was a conspiracy by Interborough officials, Brotherhood leaders, and others to intimidate city officials into yielding to the demand for an increased fare. On this account the prospect of an amicable adjustment at the meeting today appeared to be unpromising.

According to the strike leaders, General Manager Hedley admitted that in case of strike the company would be powerless and would not attempt to operate a single train. The Brotherhood, which was organized originally with the help of the Interborough in 1916, was organized well, and includes nearly every employe in every operating department, including the power-house, the engineers, and the station force, as well as the men running elevated and subway trains.

General Manager Hedley, in denying the 50 per cent. increase demanded by the workers, said that, after granting the 10 per cent. increase, the company could only live until the last of September or the first of October.

Plans a Bus Route.

Plans for opening a motor bus route on Monday, in the event of a strike, were made last night at a conference of Mayor Hylan, Police Inspector O'Brien, and Commissioner of Public Works Joseph A. Guider of Brooklyn last night. Commissioner Guider, who provided a bus route for Brooklyn during the B. R. T. strike, said that he would bring 700 buses from New Jersey to this city on Sunday, if the strike appeared certain, to begin operation early Monday morning.

All of the Police Inspectors of Manhattan met at Police Headquarters with Acting Chief Inspector Murphy last night to discuss plans for policing Manhattan in case of a strike on the subway, elevated, and surface car lines.

While the Interborough employes are acting independently, and no strike call has been issued for the workers on the surface car lines of the New York Railways Company, it was believed that the employes of the surface car lines would immediately follow the lead of the Interborough employes. While the 10 per cent. increase recommended by Receiver Hedges of the Interborough was approved yesterday by Federal Judge Mayer, the demand of President T. M. Fazackerly of the New York Railways Company Brotherhood was for a much larger increase.

Resent Mayor's Charges.

President Patrick J. Connolly, a motorman on the Sixth Avenue elevated, said that the strike would be called this afternoon if the men received any discourtesy from the Mayor. The Executive Committee quit their meeting with the Mayor in a fury after alleged insinuations by the Mayor that the members of the Executive Committee were tools of the Interborough. After many verbal clashes with the Mayor, in which the carmen showed that they had enough wit to take care of themselves the Mayor urged that a meeting should be held, to be addressed by him, and asked Connolly to be sure that all present at the meeting were Interborough employes. Connolly took this as an timation that the meeting might be called in bad faith.

"Do you question my honesty?" said Connolly.

The Mayor was silent.

"You have made a number of assertions questioning my honesty," said Connolly. "Do I look like an honest man or a snake?"

"But the question is about holding a meeting," the Mayor began.

"No, you are questioning my honesty. Do I look like an honest man or a man who would write an anonymous letter?

This was an allusion to an anonymous letter which the Mayor had read, asserting that the Brotherhood leaders were tools of the Interborough. The Mayor remained silent. Harry Post, President of the Subway Motormen's Local, then broke in:

"I guess we had better get away from here. We have had nothing but snubs and insults since the minute we came here."

Committee Quits Room.

"I hear you, brother," said Connolly. He glared for a minute at the Mayor, whose face was very red, and then started out of the room with fourteen other members of the committee. The committee went to the Public Service Commission's offices, where they conferred with Public Service Commissioners Lewis Nixon and John H. Delaney. Here they repeated their assertion that nothing could prevent a strike except the 50 per cent. increase, which would give the motormen and employes in the Engineering Department, the highest-paid classes, approximately $1 an hour.

The men asserted that, if the rank and file of the Brotherhood knew of the insults they had received and the charges that their organization was a tool of the Interborough, the strike would occur at once. The Public Service Commissioners pleaded with them for delay. Finally Commissioner Delaney, who had received word from the Mayor, told them that the Mayor would like to see them again this afternoon together with the other officials interested. President Connolly said that they would have nothing further to do with the Mayor.

Commissioner Delaney asked them, as a personal favor to himself and out of consideration to the City of New York, to make a last effort at conciliation at the Board of Estimate meeting. This the men finally agreed to.

"I asked Commissioner Delaney," said Connolly, "if he could agree to protect us against further insult. He said that he felt sure that if we went there we would meet with no further insult or abuse.

To Strike if Snubbed.

"We finally agreed, but with this understanding: There are to be no more sneers and snubs. We will leave at the first thing of that kind from the Mayor and everything will be tied up within two hours thereafter. We estimate the time as two hours, because it would take about that time to send men to the Bronx and other parts of the line with the strike order."

President Harry Post of the motormen's local, said:

"I want to say that the city is unfortunate. When we called to see the late Mayor John Purroy Mitchel, we had a very different reception. Why, we tried to be polite to the Mayor and save him from embarrasment, when he asked us to have a meeting to address our men. We wouldn't dare to have him come before our men because they would throw him out the window."

The Executive Committee of the Interborough Brotherhood started yesterday by calling on the Interborough offices, where they formally rejected the offer of a 10 per cent. increase and demanded 50 per cent. After this was refused because of the condition of the company's finances, President Connolly announced that the strike would then be called at 4 o'clock tomorrow morning, declaring that the officials of the Brotherhood had no option in the matter because the 14,000 employes of the Brotherhood would not listen to delay.

They then called at the Mayor's office and asked for a hearing with him. They were told that he was out, but would be back in an hour. At the end of an hour and ten minutes, they were ushered into the Mayor's Reception Room, where the Mayor, members of the Board of Aldermen and a stenographer were seated, waiting for them.

Mayor Questions Men.

Immediately after the position of the men was stated by President Connolly the Mayor began a series of questions which were framed, according to President Connolly and his fellow-committeemen, for the purpose of developing the theory, which the Mayor expressed publicly in his letter to District Attorney Swann, that a conspiracy was under way to coerce him into granting an extra fare. The Mayor picked up a copy of a circular letter sent out to all members of the Interborough Brotherhood, asserting that city officials were playing politics and asking the men to be ready for prompt action.

Mayor Hylan asked President Connolly if he had really written this personally without any outside suggestion. The Mayor repeated this question in other forms, and Connolly said that he would take his oath that he had written every word of it and that nobody had suggested a line. The Mayor then asked him to read portions of it. Connolly did so, but with apparent irritation. He said afterward that the Mayor seemed to think he couldn't read.

After his examination in oral reading, Connolly was asked by the Mayor how it happened that there was no union label on the printed circular. The Mayor then asked if the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers had any members on the Interborough. Mayor Hylan used to be an active member of this organization and is now a honorary member. Harry Post of the motormen took up this question and replied:

"We used to belong to it, but when we struck in 1905 Warren Stone came here and took our charter away, saying we weren't good enough to belong to them."

Sees Fare as Object.

"Why don't you be frank," asked the Mayor later, "and tell us that the real object of your visit to us here is to demand an increased fare?"

"Absolutely, no," said Connolly. "The rate of fare is not our prime concern. We want a living wage. We are going to get it, or we are going to strike. No man with any spirit at all could put up with the present situation."

"Tell me," said the Mayor, "in what way the city officials can help you."

Connolly said that he knew nothing about financial matters, but that he understood the Interborough and the city were in a pool, and that the city could act to help the men getting something better than starvation wages, which, he said, they were now receiving. The Mayor asked several questions to ascertain if the men had got their information about the financial condition of the company solely from General Manager Frank Hedley. Connolly said that they only knew what Hedley had told them, and that they took his word for the state of the company's finances.

"Hedley didn't seem worried, did he?" asked President Robert L. Moran of the Board of Aldermen, "when you told him you were going to strike?"

"He looked the same as he always does," said Mr. Connolly. "He looked as if he was looking after Hedley."

"Did he say anything about the Mayor being able to help out?" asked the Mayor.

"No, Sir," said Connolly.

Denies Seeing Statement.

"Did you see Hedley's statement that he couldn't give an increased wage—this was before he gave the 10 per cent. increase—until fares had been increased?" asked the Mayor.

"No, Sir."

Q.—Didn't you see that? A.—No, Sir.

Q.—Didn't you hear about it? A.—No, Sir.

Q.—Why don't you frankly tell me and tell the Board of Aldermen your purpose in coming here and how we can help you?

A.—I'll tell you very frankly that I don't know what power you have got as Chief Executive of this city, nor what power these other gentlemen have. In other words, I don't care as long as I live within the law. I look upon you as the representatives duly elected of the City of New York. I tell you that if we strike the people of the city will be the chief sufferers. I can't go to every man in the City of New York and tell him about it, and so I come to you and tell you that if we don't get this 50 per cent. increase the men will strike.

Q.—How can the strike be stopped? A.—Give us the money we are looking for.

The Mayor asked how he could do that. Connolly said that he understood that the Mayor could examine the accounts of the Interborough, and if it appeared that they could pay the increase the Mayor could order them to pay it. If the Interborough could not pay it, Connolly said he thought the city could help.

"In other words," said President Moran of the Board of Aldermen, "if the company's earnings were not sufficient to pay the increase, then the city should come forward and make up the difference."

"Exactly," said Connolly.

"And the only way for the city to make up the difference," said Moran, "would be an increased fare?"

"Yes," said Connolly, "if that is the only way."

The Mayor then spoke up:

"So you are really here to ask for an increased fare?"

"No," said Connolly, "you will never get me to own up to that fact. I don't know anything about the financial affairs of the Interborough or any other corporation. That is not my funeral. I only know that for three years we have been asking for"—

Will Not Brook Delay.

The Mayor interrupted to ask Connolly how long he had been with the company. Connolly said since 1906. The Mayor asked whether, if he would agree to examine the books of the Interborough and see what could be done, the date of the strike would be postponed until such time as this could be done.

"No, sir," said Connolly. "I am not willing to put it off for a minute."

The Mayor again asked that the men accept the 10 per cent. increase for the time being and put off the strike until city officials could study the problem. Mr. Connolly said that the men could not be held any longer.

"How do you know the men won't wait?" asked the Mayor.

"They have told me so, 100 per cent.," said Connolly.

The Mayor said he had received a letter signed "An Employe," and dated Aug. 14, 1919, inclosing the circular letter, concerning the authorship of which the Mayor had previously questioned Connolly. The Mayor read this from the letter:

"This thing we call the brotherhood does not represent the I. R. T. employes. They are only tools of the company. The ex-brotherhood Chairman is now supplied with a good job in the car shops, with the promise of big money in the future."

"If a man was smart enough to write that he ought to be man enough to sign his name," said President Post of the motormen.

"And furthermore," said Connolly, "I want to say that I had as soon go up to Bronx zoo and associate with the worst reptile up there than associate with a man who would write an anonymous letter."

Denies Amalgamated Strength.

The Mayor then referred to some statement of the brotherhood to the effect that the Amalgamated had organized none of the employes of the Interborough and asked if the Amalgamated did have some members.

"They may have five or six," said Connolly.

"You don't say that they have none, then?" asked the Mayor.

"As far as we know there is none," said Connolly. "We know that they haven't got many of them."

"Absolutely no," said Connolly, "I can't do it."

William Fox, representing the conductors on the elevated, suggested a conference today, to which the Mayor replied that Saturday was a half holiday.

"I gues they would let the holiday go," said Post of the motormen. "We don't get any holiday or half holidays."

"I don't have any half holidays," said the Mayor. "I worked on Saturday night till 9:30 o'clock."

"If you men represent your organization, as you say you do," added the Mayor, "I suggest that you give the city officials an opportunity to confer with the officials of the Interborough, to the end that they may see things in a different light and obviate the trouble. You claim you will impose a strike on the public if you don't get what you ask. You say you are hungry for money and you are going to have it. You are here to say that you don't know practically what you are here for. I say I will endeavor to help you if you will give me until Tuesday morning."

"I know absolutely what I am here for, Mr. Mayor," said Connolly. "You know your business. If there is anything you can do, you know it. The city officials and the Interborough officials have had three years on this. Now we are hungry for money to buy the necessaries of life to keep our families from want."

"I am asking as the representative of the people of this city," said the Mayor, "for you to defer the strike."

"As the representative of the employes of the Interborough I have to refuse," said Connolly.

"Well, what is left for us?" said President Moran of the Board of Aldermen.

"I don't know anything about your authority or your business," said Connolly. "I don't want you to do anything. I serve notice on you of what we are going to do. You know the extent of our powers."

Mayor Asks Delay.

"I will ask you to go back," said the Mayor, "and call a meeting of the members of your organizations, and submit the matter to them, submit my request to them that they defer the strike until Tuesday to see if I can adjust the matter."

Connolly said that if he carried back such a request to the men they would strike today.

"In other words," said the Mayor, "if you present my request for a reasonable time, instead of striking on Sunday morning, they will tie the lines up at once?"

"Exactly," said Connolly.

"You and other city officials and the people have probably heard that this is a paper organization," said Fox of the conductors, "but we are going to show that, while we are employes of the Interborough, they don't hold us by the throat."

The Mayor asked the speaker if he would not go back and ask his men to defer the strike. Fox said that he was bound by the orders of Connolly, but would do so, if Connolly directed. The Mayor pointed out that the demands were new, and said to Fox:

"You haven't been here to see me before, have you?"

"No," said Fox. "I have only seen you in parades. That is the only time I have ever seen you."

The Mayor then proposed that a general meeting of all Interborough employes should be called. The Mayor said that he wanted to address them personally and present his reasons for deferring the strike. He added:

"And you won't have to rely on the Interborough for a hall. I will get the hall and come to that hall and address them and ask them to defer the strike."

This was an allusion to the fact that the Interborough Brotherhood now has quarters which are provided by the Interborough.

"I appreciate your offer of a hall," said Connolly, "but our men will never become public charges while they have the use of their limbs. If we strike on the Interborough we will leave their hall and have our own hall. I will go back with your request, but I will not guarantee that the men will grant it."

Proceedings Break Up.

For a moment there appeared to be a prospect of deferring the strike and holding a meeting. The Mayor said that he would address them on the night set, but he then went on to say that the men present must all be employes of the Interborough. It was in this that Connolly thought he discerned another reflection on his honesty and started a personal conversation with the Mayor which broke up the meeting.

Outside of the Mayor's reception rooms, Secretary M. J. Mangan of the Brotherhood, who on Thursday voiced the threat "to make 'Red Mike' walk across Brooklyn Bridge," said:

"The Mayor was under the impression that he was dealing with a lot of 'boobs.' He was actually surprised when he found that President Connolly could read. This shows his real attitude toward men who work for a living."

Before the meeting, the Mayor expressed himself on the strike threats which were made by the Brotherhood leaders in the following statement:

The next move in the program of forcing the city authorities to grant higher fares to the traction companies is scheduled to take place between tonight and Sunday morning. I am informed the motormen's division of the Brotherhood of Interborough Employes has served notice on Superintendent Hedley that unless a 50 per cent. wage increase is granted them by 6 o'clock tonight its members will go on strike on Sunday morning at 4 o'clock.

This threatened strike looks like what the police would call an "inside job." It will really be a strike by the Interborough, its officials and employes against all of the people of the City of New York.

The citizens of New York should prepare themselves accordingly. Every effort will be made by the municipal authorities, in so far as possible, to provide temporary traveling facilities and the Police Department will prevent any disorder.

If the strike is a result of a conspiracy following suggestions made to the men by officials of the company and others in authority, District Attorney Swann may be depended upon to deal vigorously with that phase of the situation.

It will be hard to convince any intelligent person that the Interborough officials and employes are not working together to tie up traffic to force the granting of higher fares. The members of the Brotherhood of Interborough Employes, which organization is controlled by the Interborough company, would hardly fly in the face of public opinion by such an extraordinary and peremptory demand if they did not have strong belief that they would not lose favor with the management in the doing of it.

At the beginning of their conference with Interborough officials yesterday, the Brotherhood Executive Committee presented this letter:

Aug. 14, 1919.

Sir: At a special meeting of the Brotherhood of Interborough Rapid Transit Company Employes, held at the above headquarters Aug. 14, 1919, the President was instructed to appoint a representative committee to take up with you the following demands and request a prompt answer:

1. A 50 per cent. increase in wages for all branches of the service.
2. An eight-hour day and forty-eight-hour week.
3. Time and a half for all overtime.
4. An agreement for prompt settlement of any minor differences of opinion which may develop in the future.

The brotherhood also insists that the management will assure this committee that in all cases of transaction of business in which the employes of this company are interested, such business shall be transacted with a regularly appointed committee, selected according to the constitution of this organization and voushed for by the regularly elected brotherhood officers.

Very truly yours,

P. J. CONNOLLY,
Acting President.

Hedley's Statement.

On receiving the letter and hearing from President Connolly, General Manager Hedley said in part:

"It was only the other day you came down here and presented to me demands for immediate increase in your rate of pay. At that time I explained to you the conditions under which the company was operating. You stated to me that unless I gave you an immediate answer that night for an increased rate of pay of at least 20 per cent. there would not be any wheels turning in the subway or on the elevated the next morning.

"At your last meeting the demand that you made on me, after giving you some of our figures, I told you that the maximum increase in wages that we could do and go would be 10 per cent., and that be effective next Sunday.

"I now understand, Mr. President and gentlemen, this document you hand me is not only a demand for 50 per cent. increase in wages but it carries with it articles which substantially increase the payrolls of the company.

"I must tell you that I cannot. It is not possible to meet these demands. It cannot be done, and under the constitution of your brotherhood, in which I understand that 95 per cent. of all of the employes of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company, which, of course, covers the subway and elevated, are members of your organization, we have up to the present moment, since your organization was created, been able to settle in a satisfactory manner all of our differences, both as to rate of pay and to your working conditions, and I am sorry we have arrived at a point where you have made demands where there is so much difference between us that the management of the company could not consent to your demands, and would have to resort to the clause in your constitution of your brotherhood of arbitration."

The brotherhood leaders rejected the arbitration idea, holding that they were not bound to it and that it was too slow a process in this emergency, when their men were clamoring for a strike, and the Amalgamated Association could make inroads in their organization if they failed to act. James L. Quackenbush, attorney for the company, called their attention to the charges that the proposed strike was a conspiracy between the company and its employes to force a higher fare.

Denying the truth of this, he said that precipitate action by the men might give color to the charge. President Connolly said that, so far from its being a conspiracy, the strike move originated in the rank and file of the men and could not be checked by the union officials.

SHONTS LETTER SHOWS PROFIT ON 5-CENT FARE

Swann Revives Communication to Morgan on Estimates of Income Available for Interest.

District Attorney Swann gave out a copy of a letter yesterday that had been written by President Theodore P. Shonts to J. P. Morgan & Co., on Aug. 31, 1918, showing the increased revenue and net income available for interest by operation of the consolidated lines on the basis of a fare of 5 cents, which was included with other information concerning the proposed sale at that time of $33,400,000 short term notes for equipment purposes. The District Attorney, who issued the letter as his first move in starting his transit investigation yesterday, asserted that the statement by Mr. Shonts showed such large earnings by the Interborough Rapid Transit Company at that time, based on war conditions, that the company has no legal justification now to seek for an increase in the rate of fare.

This letter of Mr. Shonts was published in the newspapers on Sept. 11, 1918, and Mr. Swann's revival of it brings out nothing new in the transit situation, except in so far as he is now using it in his investigation of transit conditions. The contention of the prosecutor that the situation which prevailed a year ago has not changed in so far as it affects the Interborough Rapid Transit Company is based on this statement by President Shonts:

During the ten-year period, 1907-1917, in which the older Subway was operated as a complete unit and under normal conditions, the company's gross revenue increased from $22,902,579 to $39,866,146, or 74 per cent., and the net income available for interest increased from $4,433,110 to $12,514,996, or 179 per cent. This experience of the past would justify the expectation of continuing expansion of traffic and earnings of the enlarged rapid transit system, although a period of transition is to be anticipated during which the dense traffic currents shift from old-established routes to the new ones.

Owing to war conditions, it seems probable that, with the present rate of fare, the amount of preferential earnings to which the company is entitled will not at first be fully earned, and the city would therefore receive no return upon its investment in the new subways; but the estimate of independent engineers indicates that the income available to the company will be sufficient to provide for the $11,520,000 required for estimated interest and sinking fund charges payable out of income in 1919. The estimate of the engineers on the basis of a five-cent fare is as follows:

1925	59,350,000	20,765,000
1926	61,450,000	21,910,000

The engineers state that in making the estimates full allowance has been made for the unfavorable conditions brought about by the war.

The District Attorney made this comment concerning the statement:

"If the contents of this written statement are not true, they were made for the purpose of inducing investors to part with more than $33,000,000 of money in the purchase of the Interborough's short-term notes, and would be an offense under the penal law, which makes it a misdemeanor to 'obtain property or credit by use of a false statement,' and is a penitentiary offense punishable by one year's imprisonment.

"Despite the great claims of the company just one year ago, when Mr. Shonts's letter declared: 'The engineers state that in making the estimates, full allowance has been made for the unfavorable conditions brought about by the war,' the Interborough is now warning against an impending receivership unless financial relief is given the company by increase in fares to 8 cents, and engineers and accountants predict an annual deficit to the company of almost $4,000,000.

"If the representations made by Mr. Shonts are true—and the estimates and calculations made must have been considered solidly founded or the banking firm of Morgan & Co. would not have purchased the notes—then the Interborough does not need financial relief at the expense of the public through an increase in fares. The company's own figures show that the Interborough is something in the nature of a mint in its money-making abilities. Their figures show that in the ten-year period from 1907 to 1917 the gross operating revenues increased 74 per cent. and the net income available for interest payments 179 per cent.

"The estimate of the engineers for the future is based on a 5-cent fare, and the estimated profits steadily mount from $12,440,000 in 1919, to $21,910,000 in 1926. If the representations in Mr. Shonts's letter are true then the company not only does not need an increase in fare, but it seems to me about time for the city to receive some part of the net receipts from the Interborough, especially when we consider the enormous sums the city expended in the construction of the subways and to date has not received one dollar in return."

Mr. Swann made no comment on this concluding statement in Mr. Shonts's letter: "The increased cost of operation in 1918 reflects conditions which are common to similar enterprises throughout the country as a consequence of the war, and in view thereof the company has made an application for an increase in fare, which is now pending before the public authorities. The granting of this necessary increase would enable the city to obtain sooner a return upon its investment in the Interborough subways."

At the office of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company this statement was issued last night in reply to District Attorney Swann:

"Every statement of fact made by Mr. Shonts in his letter Aug. 31, 1918, regarding the proposed sale of the notes of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company, was true. All matters of opinion in relation to the future earnings of the property were stated to be, and were in fact the estimates of independent engineers. The condition of the company at the present time is due to causes with which every one is familiar and which were not foreseen a year ago."

PITTSBURGH FORCED TO WALK

Second Strike in Four Months Ties Up Street Car Traffic.

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 15.—For the second time in less than four months Pittsburgh found itself in the grip of a street car strike today. Trolley traffic ceased at midnight last night, when a strike of 3,000 motormen and conductors of the Pittsburgh Railways Company went into effect. The carmen declare they will remain idle until the receivers of the company yield to their demands for a twelve-cent-an-hour increase in wages, while the receivers assert that they will abide by the recent decision of the War Labor Board granting the men an increase of slightly more than 5 cents an hour.

The city met the situation as best it could, and while hundreds of downtown workers who reside in outlying suburbs failed to reach their places of business, thousands of others took advantage of shuttle trains and automobile bus lines which came to life overnight.

One man was killed and five others injured, one probably fatally, when a motor truck carrying men to work on Neville Island skidded and crashed into a telephone pole at 9 o'clock this morning.

STRIKERS RIOT AT BUTLER.

Pennsylvania State Police Are Called In to Restore Order.

BUTLER, Penn., Aug. 15.—A troop of State Police arrived here this afternoon and was placed on guard at the plant of the Standard Steel Car Company, which was the scene of rioting early today between several thousand striking shopmen and 500 non-union workers.

The strikers attacked the non-union men with clubs as they were about to enter the plant. A dozen persons were injured and the situation soon got beyond control of the local police and deputies who were on guard at the plant where the strike has been in progress ten days, and the constabulary was summoned to prevent further trouble.

Upon the arrival of the State Police, the strikers withdrew from the zone surrounding the plant, but feeling was said to be running high.

STRIKE TIES UP OHIO CITIES.

Interurban Trainmen Want Wage Increase and Recognition.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Aug. 15.—Service over practically every division of the Ohio Electric Interurban Railway, operating throughout Ohio and Western Indiana, came to a complete halt this morning when 500 trainmen went on strike, demanding an increase in wages. According to an announcement at the Superintendent's office here, the company will not endeavor to run cars pending a settlement.

The strike stopped city street car service in several Ohio cities, including Zanesville, Newark and Lima. The lines between Dayton and Cincinnati and Dayton and Indianapolis were not affected, trainmen on these two divisions being unorganized.

The trainmen ask an increase in wages of 10 cents an hour, overtime pay for more than ten hours' work, and recognition of miscellaneous men as members of the union. Company officials offered to increase wages of the trainmen 3 cents an hour. They now receive 42 to 45 cents.

EAST ST. LOUIS CARMEN OUT.

Strike Ties Up Traffic in 13 Nearby Cities and Towns.

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill., Aug. 15.—Motormen and conductors of the East St. Louis and Suburban Railway Company and subsidiary lines went on strike today, tying up street car service in thirteen nearby cities and towns.

The men have been receiving from 41 to 45 cents an hour on city, and 47 cents on interurban runs, and are demanding 80 cents an hour on city and 87½ cents on intercity runs. They recently rejected a 12 per cent. increase.

NO BROOKLYN GAS FAMINE.

Clerks May Go Out, but Company Reassures Consumers.

Leaders of the striking shopmen of the Brooklyn Union Gas Company asserted yesterday that they now have 100 per cent. of the men employed in that branch of the service enrolled in their ranks, and that they may be joined soon by the office force of the company who they declare are not satisfied with the small increase in salary given to them by the company.

One of the leaders of the strikers said that if it was found necessary the men employed in the manufacture of gas would be called out but that the men were desirous of not depriving the residents of the borough of light. The leaders said that 1,800 men were now on strike. At the gas company's office it was said that the strike had not interfered with the service to the householders and that there was no danger of an immediate gas famine.

Painters Go Back to Work.

At the headquarters of the striking painters, paperhangers, and decorators of Brooklyn, at 224 Livingston Street, it was said last evening that more than fifty employers had called during the day and signed an agreement conceding the demands of the men and that more than 600 had gone back to work, leaving 2,400 still out.

NEW HAVEN SHOPMEN END STRIKE MONDAY

Action of Other Systems and Threat of Expulsion Cause Change of Attitude.

ROADS RESUME SERVICE

But Normal Conditions on the New Haven Are Not Expected Until Late Next Week.

NEW HAVEN, Aug. 15.—The 6,000 striking shopmen of the New Haven road will return to work on Monday. This was decided at a meeting of the delegates of the New Haven Road System Federation held here today, at which J. M. Burns, who was sent from Washington as a special representative of B. M. Jewell, President of the Railway Employes Department of the American Federation of Labor, urged the men to reconsider their decision to remain on strike.

N. A. Hunter, President, and Robert A. Henderson, Secretary of the System Federation of the New Haven road, announced after the meeting that it was unanimously agreed to issue orders to the men at all points to return to their places Monday. They further stated that this was decided on after official wires had been received saying that the Boston & Albany and the Boston & Maine employes had agreed to return tomorrow. Mr. Henderson added that it was hoped that the men of all the associated crafts would respond to the request from the American Federation of Labor.

Mr. Burns told the meeting that the action of the New Haven road strikers was holding up negotiations with Director General of Railroads Hines, and that he was confident the men would change their attitude so that the matter might be opened for discussion in Washington Monday.

It was reported that the New Haven workers have been ready to return to work all along, but that the trouble centred around the Readville shops, whose delegates were evidently won over during today's meeting.

The action of the Boston & Albany and the Boston & Maine strikers in agreeing to return, and a telegram from B. M. Jewell, President of the organization, threatening to expel the New Haven system from the union unless they listened to reason, were factors in the change of attitude at the meeting today.

It will take several days before conditions return to anything like normal on the system, but it is expected that before the end of next week train service will be much improved and freight shipments will be resumed.

New York Men Return.

Striking shopmen on the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad in New York will return to work Monday morning, it was announced officially last night at the Grand Central Terminal. Normal passenger service will be restored and freight embargoes revised or canceled at the earliest possible moment, the announcement added.

BOSTON, Aug. 15.—The freight embargo established by the Boston & Maine and Boston & Albany Railroads soon after the strike of shopmen and mechanics became effective a week ago was removed today. Officials announced that all classes of freight would be accepted at once.

A few men returned to work on the Boston & Maine and Boston & Albany systems today but the majority remained out and will report in a body tomorrow.

At the Boston & Maine terminal here it was said that the curtailed passenger train schedule in force the past week would be continued tomorrow. No effort will be made to resume operation of canceled trains until car inspectors and others who have been on strike have an opportunity to examine the equipment.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass.—Aug. 15.—The 950 striking shopmen of the Boston & Albany, Boston & Maine, and New Haven roads employed here will return to work tomorrow morning, it was announced after a mass meeting of the Boston & Albany men today.

IRONWORKERS VOTE TO QUIT.

CHICAGO, Aug. 15.—It was reported here today that the 13,000 members of the Allied Iron and Steel Workers' Union employed in the South Chicago mills voted yesterday by a majority of nearly 200 to 1 to authorize their national officers to call a strike if necessary to enforce their demands for higher wages, shorter hours, and improved working conditions.

Members of the National Committee on Organization will meet in either Pittsburgh or Washington, Aug. 20, to decide upon what action will be taken in regard to the proposed strike.

GETS INSURANCE FOR RIOTS.

Cleveland Railways Company Takes Out $10,110,000 Policy.

CHICAGO, Aug. 15.—The Cleveland Railways Company has taken out an insurance policy here, said to be the largest ever written, for $10,110,000, against "riot and civil commotion," it became known today. The premium is $37,110.

Insurance agents here stated that "riot and civil commotion" policies are being sought by large industries, a number having been taken out against such attacks and damages.

MOVES BRIDGEPORT PLANT.

Columbia Graphophone Carries Out Threat to 6,000 Strikers.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Aug. 15.—As their striking employes have not returned to work, the management of the Columbia Graphophone Company today announced that the plant would be moved elsewhere. The local plant was closed at noon, apparently not to reopen. It employs 6,000 persons.

The announcement was made by T. C. Roberts, assistant to the President, who said that no statement would be made as to the location of the plant elsewhere at this time.

The industrial strikes at other plants were unchanged today.

Federation of Labor Asks Connolly to Meet Technical Men.

Formal action has been taken by officials of the American Federation of Labor on the controversy that has been going on for several days between Borough President Maurice E. Connolly of Queens and members of Local No. 16,388 Union of Technical Men of this city. After a conference between executive members of the union and Federation officials a letter was sent to President Connolly yesterday. The letter said in part:

"Attention has been called to the fact that the committee of union men, who were appointed for the purpose of arranging a conference with you relative to readjusting the salaries of your technical men to meet existing living conditions, were unable to obtain an audience. We believe that you will reconsider this matter and therefore respectfully ask will you meet this committee for the purpose of a conference? If so, what date will you fix for this meeting? May we not expect an early reply?"

The letter was signed by B. L. Schneider, President of Local No. 16,388, who says that he was at the Borough Hall on Wednesday for several hours and was unable to see President Connolly.

President Connolly yesterday said he had no comment to make on the communication. He added that he did not know that President Schneider had made an effort to see him and failed.

In commenting upon conditions as they exist for technical men in the city's employ one of the members of the union said yesterday: "I have been receiving a salary of $1,800 a year for the past ten years. I have a family, and the other day I received notice that the rent of the home I am occupying in the Bronx has been raised from $27 to $50 a month. There are many men who have not received any increases within five or six years."

BOSTON POLICE FORM UNION

BOSTON, Aug. 15.—Members of the Boston police force, disregarding a recent order of Police Commissioner Edwin U. Curtis, forbidding them from joining any organization outside the department except the Associations of War Veterans, organized a union tonight under charter from the American Federation of Labor. Members of the new union said that about 1,400 members of the force took part.

The patrolmen, who met at the headquarters of the Boston Street Carmen's Union, were addressed by Frank H. McCarthy, New England organizer of the Federation; P. Harry Jennings, business agent of the Boston Central Labor Union, and James T. Moriarty, a member of the City Council. McCarthy told them that as members of organized labor they would be expected to be faithful to themselves, their brother members, and their employer.

Jennings said that the policemen would have the backing of 80,000 union members.

STONE LUXEMBURG HOUSE.

7,000 Workers Attack Parliament in Living-Cost Crisis.

LUXEMBURG, Aug. 14.—Parliament buildings were stoned by a crowd of 7,000 workmen today during a demonstration caused by the fact that the indemnity voted by the Chamber of Deputies to meet the high cost of living was deemed insufficient. Some of the manifestants succeeded in entering the Chamber but were driven out when fired upon by gendarmes.

The Burgomaster called out the Luxemburg troops, which cleared the square in front of the Parliament Building. Calm has been restored.

FEW OF I. R. T. TURN TO AMALGAMATED

conspiracy of the Interborough officials and the Interborough Brotherhood to call a strike to get an increase in fare. He continued:

"I want to serve notice on the railways now that any further intimidation or violence will not be countenanced, and I will not be responsible for what happens to men resorting to the methods employed by Interborough spies here tonight."

While the Amalgamated was making but a meagre showing of strength at its meeting, the Interborough Brotherhood had 5,000 men inside and outside of its meeting at the Star Casino, 107th Street and Park Avenue, which was called to hear the decision of the Executive Committee to call a strike tomorrow morning if their demands are refused. P. J. Connolly told of the committee's experiences during the day at the City Hall, and was interrupted with hisses, booes, and shouts of "Down with Red Mike!"

When President Connolly told of the delivery of the ultimatum calling for a 50 per cent. increase or a strike on Sunday morning, the applause and cheering lasted for five minutes.

President Connolly told the Interborough employes to use no violence under any circumstances, but to regard their walkout as a friendly protest against the refusal of the company to raise their wages. He predicted that the strike would be a short one, because he said that the New York public would not tolerate walking for any length of time.

Connolly read a subpoena, which he had received from District Attorney Swann, who is investigating at the Mayor's request the alleged conspiracy to coerce officials into granting an eight-cent fare. He said that he would not have to answer the subpoena, because his name was mispelled, his title wrongly placed and other irregularities written into the document.

tage to the public if Congress would provide for an official inquiry by the proper branch of the Government (presumably the Geological Survey in the Interior Department) to ascertain the probable demand for coal for the rest of the year, so as to determine the extent to which the predictions of an abnormal demand for coal are justified.

"It is important to emphasize that the relatively low production and purchase of coal up to the present date in this year have been due, only to a very small extent, to shortage of transportation, and have been due to a very large extent to absence of demand for the coal. It would be expedient to ascertain the extent to which the absence of demand has been due to the maintenance of high prices which discouraged the demand.

"The ability of the railroads to transport all the bituminous coal required for the rest of this year will, of course, be largely dependent upon the amount required. On that point no accurate information seems to be available. The National Coal Association, however, has advertised that 500,000,000 tons of bituminous coal must be produced in the calendar year 1919 to meet the requirements of the country. This estimate of 500,000,000 tons is just about the production of 1916.

"I do not anticipate any shortages in transportation which will be in any sense exceptional or abnormal or which will justify oppressive prices for coal."

Cars Not Held in Idleness.

The Senate asked specifically about cars which had not been assigned charges, having been informed that as many as 50,000 were being held idle without proper reason.

"The purchase of 45,000 cars available for coal loading was arranged for by the Director General for delivery to railroads under Federal control," Mr. Hines said in taking up this point. "All the cars have been or will be put in service as rapidly as practicable. Whether transferred to the several railroad companies or not, 37,000 already have been built, of which 17,000 have been put in service. The remaining 20,000 already built are being placed in service as fast as numbered and lettered.

"Of the 45,000 cars available for coal loading thus purchased, 4,750 have not yet been assigned definitely to any one or more railroad companies, 32,800 cars have been assigned to various railroad companies and definitely accepted by them. The remaining 7,450 cars have been allocated to certain of the railroad companies, but up to this time these cars have not been definitely accepted."

Mr. Hines said that there has at no time been any shortage of cars for anthracite coal loading and that the bituminous situation was well in hand. He gave detailed figures as to the car supply.

CAPITAL BOMB BLAST WORRIES OFFICIALS

Senators, Congressmen, and Others Fear Radical Outbreak When Explosion Wrecks Store.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Saturday, Aug. 16.—That the threats of radicals to destroy the Government by force, as illustrated by the attempt upon the life of Attorney General Palmer and other officials some weeks ago, has not been forgotten in official circles in aWshington, was made evident early this morning.

Soon after midnight a bomb explosion wrecked a grocery store owned by L. Bailey at Twenty-fourth and I Streets, N. W. The noise of the explosion could be heard throughout the residential section of Washington. Newspaper offices were soon being bombarded by inquiries over the telephone, made by officials, including several Senators and Congressmen, who asked anxiously if the anarchists had begun their reign of terror again. One newspaper office reported that it had a telephone call from an official every three minutes during the half hour following the explosion.

The police report that no one was injured. They say the explosion was not the work of radicals, but probably was due to a personal quarrel of some kind. Many prominent Washingtonians and Federal officials live within a few blocks of the spot.

WOMAN ASKS PLANT CASH.

Sues for $200,000—Says Commodore Promised Her $1,000 Monthly.

NEW LONDON, Conn., Aug. 15.—The estate of the late Morton F. Plant has been made defendant in a suit brought by Jennie M. Lynch of Onset, Mass., who asks for $200,000 for breach of contract, alleging that the late Commodore Plant on Feb. 17, 1908, delivered to her a written agreement to pay her $1,000 a month for the rest of her life.

The plaintiff alleges that a claim for the amount due her under the agreement has been presented and payment refused by the executors of the will. The alleged agreement states that the payments were to be "a token of gratitude and in consideration of valuable personal services rendered."

HOLD OFF BRITISH STRIKE.

Geddes Promises Railway Crews a New Offer on Monday.

LONDON, Aug. 15.—The threatened strike of locomotive engineers and firemen which would have disorganized the railway system of the whole country has been averted for the week-end. The executive committee of the engineers and firemen today received from Sir Auckland Geddes, Minister of Reconstruction, a communication regretting that it was impossible to arrange a meeting today to consider the wage question. Sir Auckland promised to communicate to the men on Monday a new offer which the Government is preparing.

The demand made by locomotive engineers and firemen upon the British Minister of Reconstruction, that their wage dispute be settled at once, is the result of a long standing disagreement. After conferences with the Board of Trade today, Sir Auckland discussed the matter with the Cabinet. The meetings will be resumed tomorrow.

The resumption of work by the striking miners in the Yorkshire district is still hanging fire, the West Yorkshire section refusing to fall into line and haggling over minor claims.

At a meeting of the labor leaders of all the port trades unions at Liverpool tonight it was unanimously decided there should be a general stoppage of all work for three days, beginning next Wednesday, to obtain the reinstatement of policemen who were dismissed prior to and during the recent policemen's strike in that city.

The quantity of food which the city authorities are going to distribute depends entirely on the amount which the army can supply. It was stated at the Commissioner's office that New York can use all the army foodstuffs it can get. So far 1,600 carloads have been ordered and some of it is already available for sale. It is not expected that all of the 1,600 carloads will be delivered for this present sale. According to Commissioner Day, the 1,600 freight cars will contain 92,656,000 pounds of food, or an allowance of 15.44 pounds for each one of 6,000,000 people. The value of the food ordered is $6,500,000.

Deputy Market Commissioner Edwin J. O'Malley said yesterday that the city markets by their prices already indicated that the avalanche of cheap food descending on New York was having a salutary effect. He warned, however, against any tendency to undue optimism since, after all, he said, no matter how much food the city got from the Government, it would be only a drop in the bucket when compared to New York requirements.

Army Food Price List.

Bacon	33c per pound
Baked beans, No. 1, tomato sauce	5c per can
No. 2, tomato sauce	8c per can
No. 3, tomato sauce	11c per can

While the Department of Public Markets was working with might and main to get ready for the gigantic task of distributing the thousands of pounds of army foodstuffs, the other agencies, Federal, State, and municipal, which are fighting profiteering, continued their various efforts to lower the cost of food and other necessities of life.

Both the county and the Federal District Attorneys were active all day long following up and inquiring into investigations of food hoarding in warehouses in the city. The army did its share in selling thousands of blankets at cost and also hawking hundreds of cases of winesap apples about the streets of the city. The Fair Price Committee held a meeting to formulate plans of campaign. Mayor Hylan injected himself into the fight by a letter to Fire Commissioner Drennan ordering the city's firemen to search buildings where it is suspected food may be stored.

The Mayor's letter follows:

> Thomas J. Drennan, Esq., Fire Commissioner, City of New York.
> Dear Sir: I wish you would have a fire inspection made immediately by the Inspectors of your department of all storage and warehouses in the city. I would also suggest that at the same time these Inspectors make an investigation of all butter, eggs, meats, sugar, and other foodstuffs stored, and obtain any other information in regard to the storing and hoarding of the necessities of life, to the end that the State or Federal authorities and prosecuting officers may be aided in every particular in prosecuting hoarders of foodstuffs. Very truly yours,
> JOHN F. HYLAN, Mayor.

The action of the Mayor follows closely on the discoveries made Thursday by Federal agents and detectives attached to the District Attorney's office of stores of food held in the city. The firemen have the right to inspect public buildings where the police are forbidden to enter. This right will be exercised in the closest sort of a canvass for hoarded food stocks.

Dooling Holds Milk Inquiry.

District Attorney Swann was away from his office all day yesterday, continuing, it was said, his personal investigations into the food situation. In his absence Assistant District Attorney John T. Dooling questioned two witnesses subpoenaed in the milk situation. Two representatives of the Federal Trade Commission also called on Mr. Dooling and inquired at length regarding the John Doe milk investigation early this year.

F. A. Grinnel, agent of the New York Central Railroad at Riga, N. Y., was also before Mr. Dooling, who questioned him regarding attempted shipments of milk in August of last year by Charles A. MacArthur of Millerton, N. Y., because, it is alleged, MacArthur was not a member of the Dairymen's League.

Assistant United States District Attorney Ben A. Mathews, in charge of the Government's food hoarding and profiteering investigation, said yesterday that he had received several specific complaints regarding overcharging for sugar. He declared that if the facts warrant action prosecutions will follow.

In a statement which he gave out for publication Mr. Mathews called attention of all licensees with the Food Administration that Rules 5, 6, 7, 8, and 10 of the general license regulations are still in force and that violations will be dealt with promptly and vigorously if such violations are brought to the attention of either the Federal District Attorney or the Food Administrator. The rules referred to follow:

> Rule 5—Unreasonable Profits Prohibited.—The licensee shall not import, manufacture, store, distribute, sell, or otherwise handle any food commodities on an unjust, exorbitant, unreasonable, discriminatory, or unfair commission, profit, or storage charge.
> Rule 6—Resales Within Same Trade Prohibited, When.—The licensee, in selling food commodities, shall keep such commodities moving to the consumer in as direct a line as practicable and without unreasonable delay. Resales within the same trade without reasonable justification, especially if tending to result in a higher market price to the retailer or consumer, will be dealt with as an unfair practice.
> Rule 7—Speculation Prohibited.—No broker or other licensee shall buy or sell any food commodity for his own account unless he is also regularly engaged in and holds himself out to the trade as conducting the business of distributing such commodity otherwise than on a commission or brokerage basis, or unless he uses such commodities in manufacturing; provided, that this rule shall not apply to sales on an Exchange, Board of Trade, or similar institution.
> Rule 8—Sales to Speculators Forbidden.—No licensee shall knowingly sell any food commodity to a broker or other licensee who is not buying for personal consumption or engaged in using such commodity in manufacturing, or who is not regularly engaged in and holding himself out to the trade as conducting the business of distributing such commodity otherwise than on a commission or brokerage basis; provided, that this rule shall not apply to sales on an Exchange, Board of Trade, or similar institution.
> Rule 10—Unfair Practices Forbidden.—The licensee shall not buy, contract for, sell, store, or otherwise handle or deal in any food commodities for the purpose of unreasonably increasing the price or restricting the supply of such commodities, or of monopolizing or attempting to monopolize, either locally or generally, any of such commodities.

Crowds Buy Government Blankets.

The two sales conducted by the Government of blankets and apples proved a great success. The blanket sale will be continued today and the sale of apples on Monday.

When William Rockstroh, in charge for the Government of the blankets opened the sale in Room 220 at the building occupied by the Zone Supply Officer at Eighth Avenue and Thirty-fourth Street yesterday, he found such a crowd of eager men and women that hardly were the clerks able to get a single order taken before a dozen others were hurled at them. Men wanted woolen blankets, woolen and cotton mixed, or plain cotton, new or reclaimed. Finally, Mr. Rockstroh decided to stop trying to sell the blankets and began to merely take orders for future delivery. Then matters went better. The same system will apply today when the sale open at 11 A. M., in the same room.

The apples, 1,200 cases of choice winesaps, were sent out in six army trucks at noon to be sold by soldiers on the streets. The price asked was $3.75 a case, each case containing 112 to 125 apples, depending on the size. By night, 260 cases had been sold, one case to a buyer. The same system will apply on Monday.

Fair Price Committee Meets.

The Fair Price Committee, which will attempt to adjust cost equitably between producer and consumer, had its first meeting yesterday. It was held in the New York State Chamber of Commerce at 65 Liberty Street and was an executive session. After the meeting, Arthur Williams, the Federal Food Administrator declared that it was only a "get together" meeting, and that nothing definite had been done.

Mr. Williams said that one suggestion made by Theodore Whitmarsh of Francis H. Leggett & Co. was approved unanimously by the committee. That suggestion was that individuals should purchase only what they needed and not try to buy supplies against the possibility of a rise in prices. Michael M. Friedsam, President of B. Altman & Co., announced that he would call a meeting of clothing dealers next week to discuss the feasibility of cutting down prices in that trade.

The following members of the committee, besides Mr. Whitmarsh and Mr. Friedsam, were present: Alfred E. Marling, President of the Chamber of Commerce of the State of New York; W. Fellowes Morgan, President of the Merchants' Association of New York City; Mrs. James Lees Laidlaw of the Woman Suffrage Party of New York State; Mrs. Henry Moskowitz; Mrs. Charles C. Rumsey, Chairman of the Committee on Co-ordination of Community Councils; Hugh Frayne, Executive Committee member of the American Federation of Labor; Jonathan C. Day, Commissioner of Markets; W. Wrightson, assistant to the President of the Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company; Edward H. Flash, Jr., President of the New York Produce Exchange; Peter H. Almor, President of the New York Produce Retail Grocers' Association, and F. C. Henderschott, Executive Secretary of the committee.

The committee will hold its next meeting either Monday or Wednesday, at which it is hoped United States Attorney General Palmer will be present.

Statement by Williams.

Earlier in the day Federal Food Administrator Williams, who got back yesterday morning from Washington, issued the following statement:

"A very gratifying conference was held in Washington yesterday on behalf of the Fair Price Committee with Judge Charles B. Ames, representing United States Attorney General A. Mitchell Palmer. Judge Ames spoke in a very appreciative manner of the work of Herbert Hoover and his organization. The Attorney General is taking an intense interest in the food and clothing question in New York City and is determined to use all of the powers of the Government to eliminate profiteering and hoarding, with their attendant evils. Appreciation was expressed of the interest and support of our people and press, and the Attorney General also conveyed his feeling of apreciation to the members of the new Fair Price Committee who have volunteered their services. Every resource of the Department will be used in ferretting out hoarding and profiteering and any other food or clothing abuse. The plan of issuing the fair maximum margin list was endorsed until a better plan can be developed. The conference was attended by F. C. Henderschott, Executive Secretary of the Committee."

Investigations made throughout the city yesterday showed that in the vast majority of cases the agreed upon price of 11 cents a pound is being charged for sugar. Some of the chain stores are asking only 10½ cents. At the markets there was little change in prices asked for various grades of meats.

COPELAND WARNS DEALERS.

Health Commissioner Says Food Profiteers' Licenses Will Be Revoked.

Health Commissioner Dr. Royal S. Copeland issued a warning statement yesterday that the board would revoke the permit of any dealer in dry eggs, liquid eggs, or frozen eggs, or the proprietor of any slaughter house, caught hoarding food or profiteering. The Commissioner explained that the Board of Health issued permits for such business and could revoke that permit for cause. His statement follows:

"The Board of Health issues permits to dealers in dry eggs, liquid eggs, and frozen eggs. It issues permits to maintain slaughter houses for cattle, pigs, sheep, and poultry, to manufacture sausages, to maintain restaurants, to maintain bakeries, and to manufacture ice cream and other frozen products."

"The Board of Health, having power to issue, has also power to revoke permits, provided it does not act unfairly, tyrannically, unreasonably, or on false information and without reasonable ground for apprehending that the public safety, health, or welfare may be in danger."

"All of our Inspectors have been notified of our intentions, and if any person or firm having a license or permit from the Board of Health is discovered hoarding, profiteering, or otherwise misusing this privilege, the person or firm will be summoned before the Board of Health to show cause why their permit should not be revoked."

CUT IN FOOD PRICES INTERESTS PARIS

HOLIDAY RUSH FROM CITY

But Unfortunates Must Stay at Home, and Expense Lessens Visitors to Resorts.

By WALTER DURANTY.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Aug. 14.—With the temperature 90 in the shade and a general holiday declared from Thursday night to Monday morning—which in many stores and business houses included today also—Paris is thinking more of cool streams and pleasant woods than of the fag-end of the Peace Conference, post-war reconstruction or even the high cost of living. Already the city is emptier than it has been since the tragic days of the first battle of the Marne. In the words of a newspaper kiosk proprietress, "it is only the unfortunates who are staying here." The railroad stations report bigger crowds than ever before the war, and every resort within fifty miles of Paris is thronged to congestion. It is noteworthy, however, that the high prices have caused a marked shrinkage in the number of visitors to the more distant resorts of Normandy and Brittany, where some hotels have been actually compelled to close through lack of guests.

In this city the publication of the Food Ministry's normal price lists has produced a ripple of interest, enhanced by the squabbles of which the markets have been the scene in the past few days. On the whole the lists have had a good reception, although it is felt that they favor the dealers more than the purchasers, which perhaps accounts for the almost universal eagerness of the former to display them. They were probably drawn up rather generously for that very purpose.

One fairly valid objection is raised by the retailers—that wholesale prices vary daily in the ratio of the stocks reaching the central markets, and, therefore, it is unfair to establish prices for the week when they may be modified from day to day. A big retailer, who voiced this grievance to me, added: "If Minister Noulens had only realized the importance of the transportation question in the high cost of living problem he would have acted differently." He was surprised to learn that the Minister had himself placed faulty transportation in the first ranks of the evils to be fought, and that, while he regarded the price lists as the best palliative available to his department, he believed that no permanent fall in food prices would be possible until transportation had been reorganized.

Considerable agitation has been caused by the attempt of the dealers to organize a "strike" to counterbalance the action of the consumers' leagues. The presence of the police prevented the violent scenes that occurred earlier in the week, and it is hoped that the consumers will not attempt to fix their own prices on a lower scale than that of the Noulens lists, which the dealers are ready to accept. On the whole, there is already from 5 to 10 per cent. decrease in prices, but the ventilation of the food question in the press has already brought a realization that general conditions are more to blame for present evils than profiteering.

RELIEF FOR PHILADELPHIA.

Lever Bill Will Apply to Retailers, Says Attorney General.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 15.—Attorney General Palmer, after a conference here today with United States District Attorney Kane, issued a statement promising vigorous prosecution of all food profiteers, large or small.

"As a result of the action considered today," said Mr. Palmer, "the price of food in Philadelphia will be decreased to a marked extent within a short time. The Lever bill will be made applicable to the smallest retailer by Congress within a week. A severe penalty will be attached to the bill which will make it dangerous business for the small dealer to charge unreasonable prices."

Before the conference Mr. Palmer said it had come to his attention that immense quantities of foodstuffs were being held in storage in Philadelphia and near-by cities.

"The various States will have to take up the rent profiteering question," he said. "We are regulating the evil in Washington, and we hope to establish a just system shortly which all the States can use as a model. Cases have come to my attention where the rentals have jumped 150 per cent. over night, even though the cost of maintenance of the property had not increased. There is no relief for tenants through Federal action. It must be done by the individual States."

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 15.—"The League of Nations Treaty should be ratified at the earliest possible moment. That and all other important steps toward the return to normal conditions should be taken as speedily as possible," said United States Senator Oscar W. Underwood of Alabama at the Hotel Traymore today.

"I am in favor of the ratification of the treaty without change of any kind. I do not share in the fears expressed by some that by adopting the treaty this country will get into complications which will be injurious. The ratification of the treaty is the first step which should be taken in order to get back on a business basis. It is necessary that the people know the basis upon which they are to continue to conduct business. So long as there is uncertainty and doubt there will be a feeling of hesitancy and fear, which will retard progress and check business. I believe the sentiment of the American people as a whole is strongly in favor of the adoption of the treaty and it is high time that we had action in the matter.

"With reference to the high cost of living, I believe that Attorney General Palmer is following the right course in the matter, and I think he and his associates should be given full support. Prices are high, and while we should prevent arbitary advances not justified by conditions, we should not forget that 4,000,000 men were taken out of productive and put into destructive work, and that production has suffered in consequence. The country as a whole is in good condition, but it is desirable that encouragement be given to men of business to go ahead with their affairs with as little interference as necessities may require. Delays and uncertainties produce doubt and losses. Action should be had at once."

and collective bargaining in the marketing of farm produce is essential if profiteering and unnecessary expense shall be eliminated between producer and consumer. These indictments by cities against milk producers, whose industry cannot survive without this right, are being justly construed as indictments against all farmers whether they be named or not in the indictments themselves. We view this widening breach between city and country with fear and alarm."

The National Board asks:

"1. That every farmer, through petition, by the ballot, or by other lawful or orderly means, make his protest known against the unfair and un-American methods so being used against him.

"2. That Congress and Legislatures by early action make clear the original purpose of our anti-trust laws that are now being misinterpreted and misdirected so that by unmistakeable terms farmers shall have the right to do collective bargaining in accord with the original intent of the law."

Cox Wires to Washington.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Aug. 15.—Governor Cox late today wired Assistant United States Attorney General Frank Davis at Washington that the Sheriff Street Market House, Cleveland, to avoid Federal penalty, was moving its meat products to Chicago warehouses and that records as to previous storage in Cleveland were being destroyed.

A telegram to Attorney General Palmer earlier in the day said Morris & Co. and Wilson & Co. were owners of part of the 2,000,000 pounds of meat alleged to be held illegally in a Cleveland storage house under Ohio laws. Brandt & Co., Cleveland, were alleged to own the remainder.

The telegram to Assistant Attorney General Davis follows:

"Under the State law, food found in storage houses of violators of the Storage act cannot be confiscated. The Federal law refers to the 'holding for a reasonable time.' The Attorney General expressed to the Governor that he would accept the expressed wish of the people which is manifest in statutes as a definition of reasonable time. The Sheriff Street Market House, Cleveland, to avoid Federal penalty is moving its products to Chicago warehouses, records as to previous storage being destroyed in the process."

Governor Cox announced tonight that today's activities were only the beginning in the State's war on food profiteering. He said many additional warrants would be issued, some probably tomorrow.

The Governor today requested the resignation of S. T. Nash, Cleveland, member of the State Board of Agriculture. Mr. Nash is President of the Cleveland Provision Company, the manager of which is charged in a warrant issued today with violating the cold storage law.

Approximately forty warrants charging Ohio food dealers with violations of the cold storage law, many of which are against local manager of the big Chicago packing companies, were issued by the State of Ohio today and arrests will be made immediately, according to Governor Cox and Attorney General Price.

Governor Cox, in his telegram to United States Attorney General Palmer, said evidence had been uncovered by inspectors of the State Dairy and Food Department that some of the big Chicago packing companies had shipped food into the State and then back to Chicago and again shipped it into the State and sold it "for the double purpose of deceiving the authorities of Ohio and Illinois and of keeping food necessities off the market in order that deficiency and higher prices might come together." On this alleged showing the Governor asked the Attorney General to bring criminal prosecutions, offering evidence gathered by Ohio officials with which to prosecute.

The warrants for the arrests of alleged food profiteers were filed in municipal courts. A statement issued by Governor Cox said the complaints were based primarily upon the operation of cold storage plants without licenses, the hoarding of foodstuffs over the period stipulated by law and the defacement of and destruction of records which would show the time the supplies were received in storage.

"In the Sheriff Street market house in Cleveland," Governor Cox said, "where there is an estimated total of one thousand tons of goods held over the time, we find unmistakable evidence of a defacement and destruction of records, and the maintenance of a policy based seemingly upon the willful purpose to defraud the public after deceiving legal authorities. Goods have been shipped from the Monarch Storage Company in Chicago to the Sheriff Street market house in Cleveland, returned to the first point of shipment and then sent back again to Ohio. Just how many times the operation was repeated we do not yet know. It will require skillful auditing to determine, but we are prepared to say that shipment and reshipment were made and repeated in order to keep meats and poultry off the markets."

CLEVELAND, Aug. 15.—A secret indictment, charging violation of the Valentine anti-trust law, was returned today by the special Cuyahoga County Grand Jury investigating food conditions here against William E. Bigalow, Harry J. Bigalow, and Albert C. Blair, officials of the Consolidated Fruit Auction Company of this city.

The indictment followed testimony furnished the Grand Jury yesterday by Austin Estabrook, Manager of the company. While the specific charges were not made public, it is understood that the true bill alleges combination for the purpose of regulating prices of foodstuffs.

This is the second indictment returned by the special Grand Jury, seven officials of the Ohio Farmers' Co-operative Milk Company having been indicted on Aug. 7 for alleged violation of the Valentine anti-trust law.

COMMITTEES HEAR ARGUMENTS

Amendments to Food Control Act Supported and Opposed.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—Action on amendments to the Food Control act suggested by Attorney General Palmer as a means of reducing the high cost of living was blocked in the Senate Agriculture Committee today. Chairman Gronna hopes the committee will act finally Tuesday. The House Agriculture Committee proceeded with its hearings with a view to an early report on the amendments.

In the Senate committee Senator Harrison, Democrat, Mississippi, urged that the committee act immediately, but his motion was defeated, 4 to 2. Senators Smith, South Carolina; Smith, Georgia; Ransdell, Louisiana, Democrats, and France, Republican, Maryland, voted against the motion, and Senators Harrison and Capper, Republicans, Kansas, voted for it.

In opposing the amendments, Senators Smith, Georgia, and Smith, South Carolina, as well as Senator Ransdell, held that sufficient power now exists to meet the situation.

Chairman Gronna announced that a joint meeting of the House and Senate Agriculture Committees would be held tomorrow to hear witnesses representing the National Grange and milk producers regarding the high cost of living.

John D. Miller of New York, representing the National Board of Farm Organizations, urged that farmers' organizations be exempted from the provisions of all laws regulating prices or controlling the distribution of foodstuffs.

In the Senate Senator Reed, Democrat, of Missouri, opposed the amendment for the extension of the Food Control act, declaring unnecessary the proposed penalty for the hoarding and profiteering action.

"The high cost of living," he said, "is the result of the operation of fundamental and immutable laws and lower living costs will come, to a large degree, only from operation of these natural laws. Many of the remedies being proposed to reduce living costs are futile because they are artificial and designed to disturb operation of natural economic tendencies. Increases in production would be the greatest factor toward reducing prices.

"There are two great principles in economics and finance which cannot be disregarded and which no amount of legislation can effectively control. First, whenever the demand for any great necessity materially exceeds the supply, an increase in price is inevitable. Conversely, when the supply exceeded the demand, a decrease in price follows. The latter condition may be temporarily effected by combinations artifically withholding the supply and controlling the market. But no combination of men and no decrees of government have ever been able to transmute a deficiency into plenty or to remove the natural longings for a necessary article which cannot be obtained.

"Second, a radical increase in the number of dollars in circulation results in a decrease in the purchasing power of the dollar.

"Any device, plan, or scheme, therefore, which will have a tendency to lessen production, to discourage enterprise, or to arrest industry will, instead of bringing lower prices, increase present excessive prices by underproduction."

When Senator Reed ended Senator Williams, Democrat, Mississippi, discussing briefly the high cost of living, asserted that in his opinion living conditions would never return exactly to what they were before the war, but he said he would vote for everything which would bring about the punishment of profiteers. He said that the people of this country were more extravagant than formerly, and that thrift and economy must be practiced.

While Government action to force Swift & Co. to place on the market products now held in cold storage might give temporary relief, it would result in scarcity and higher prices of poultry, dairy, and meat products next Fall and Winter, the House Interstate Commerce Committee was told by L. D. H. Weld, manager of the company's commercial research department.

Mr. Weld told the committee that the total supply of meats ready for the market on June 1 was sufficient to last the country only ten days, and that the 54,000,000 pounds of poultry in storage at that time amounted to only 3 per cent. of the total annual production, and would have lasted the country less than ten days.

Assistant Attorney General Ames appeared before the committee to urge the amendments suggested by Mr. Palmer. He said the act should be extended to include wearing apparel and containers for food, feeds, and fertilizers.

DENY COFFEE HOARDING.

J. Aron & Co. Tell of Supply Stored at St. Louis.

J. Aron & Co., Inc., of 95 Wall Street, in reference to the reported seizure of coffee at St. Louis by the Federal authorities under the charge of hoarding coffee, said last night:

"The 2,000 bags of coffee referred to in the St. Louis dispatch were stored there because of the congestion of warehouse facilities in the port of New York, and are a small part of the original consignment, the greater part of which has heretofore been sold. Every consumer and dealer knows that all wholesalers as well as retailers must keep a margin of reserve to protect their trade. As a matter of fact, we have a smaller reserve of coffee than the Food Administration permitted us to carry during the war."

DENIAL FROM SWIFT & CO.

Have Never Stored Food for Speculation, Says President.

CHICAGO, Aug. 15.—Louis F. Swift, President of Swift & Co., in replying to the charges made in Ohio against the Chicago packers, said:

"Swift & Co. have never stored food for speculative purposes, but only to meet the public demand for certain commodities throughout the year. When the Federal food regulation law was adopted by Congress in August, 1917, the Washington authorities interpreted it to mean that certain foods could be stored for a period not exceeding twelve months, even in States where shorter periods were provided by State laws.

"We have followed the rulings of the Food Administration in every respect. We have never at any time shipped food from Cleveland to Chicago or vice versa to manipulate prices, deceive people or to keep food off the market."

Officials of the Monarch Cold Storage Company in Chicago denied that foodstuffs had been shipped from their plant to a Cleveland cold storage warehouse, reshipped to Chicago and then forwarded to the Cleveland house again.

SHANTUNG'S RETURN RESTS WITH CHINA

DISCUSSES OUR ATTITUDE

Hopes Explanation Will Dispel Suspicions Against Japan—Militarism Deplored.

TOKIO, Aug. 12, (Associated Press.)—Restitution of Shantung and also Kiao-Chau to China by Japan will be made without unnecessary delay, but the time required will be dependent upon the attitude of China, according to a statement made today by Takashi Hara, the Japanese Premier, in answer to a question as to when the actual restoration would take place.

The Premier said to The Associated Press correspondent:

"My colleague, Viscount Uchida, Minister of Foreign Affairs, issued a statement on Aug. 1 in explanation of our policy respecting the Shantung question. That statement represents the considered opinion of this Government, and I have little to add in dealing with the same subject.

(Viscount Uchida, in his statement which was referred to by the Premier, said that Japan was willing to restore Shantung to China and would enter into negotiations with the Peking Government as soon as possible after the Versailles treaty should be ratified by Japan.)

"The question is often asked as to when Japan will return Kiao-Chau to China. I would point out in reply that for the restitution of Kiao-chau, detailed arrangements should be worked out beforehand in common accord between the Japanese and Chinese Governments, and that the length of time required for such arrangements depends largely upon the attitude of China. In any case, we fully realize that it is as much in our own interests as in the interests of China to accelerate the conclusion of all needed arrangements and to effect without unnecessary delay the restitution of leased territory which we have solemnly undertaken."

Premier Hara and high officials of the Japanese Government discussed frankly with the correspondent what was called the "wave of anti-Japanese feeling" in America. They were plainly disturbed by reports received here showing uneasiness as to Japan's attitude relative to Shantung as one cause for the sentiment of discontent among the friends of Japan, but felt that Japan's repeated assurances as to restitution, with the Premier's statement to The Associated Press today, should clear the air and prevent any deplorable misunderstanding.

It is frankly admitted here that Japan's so-called militarism is responsible for much uneasiness abroad, but the opinion is expressed that foreign critics who call Japan the "Germany of the Far East" neglect to take into consideration the internal and historic reasons which led the Japanese people to venerate the army and navy, including the historic roles played by the Choshu and Satsuma clans, which are, respectively, behind the army and navy, in the restoration of the Imperial dynasty and in the wars with China and Russia. Nevertheless, the Japanese insist there is a distinct movement under way to curb any excessive influence held by the militarists which might be calculated to be harmful to the legitimate development of the nation and inimical to Japan's relations with America.

Japanese Liberals are deeply interested in an article written from America by Dr. Inaso Nitobe, of the Imperial University of Japan, to the Japan Magazine, in which he enumerates the causes he has found to be responsible for the anti-Japanese feeling in America and also points out the danger of Japanese militarism. The causes of sentiment adverse to Japan are given by Dr. Nitobe as follows:

> Chinese anger against Japan; Korean hostility; anti-Japanese feeling in California; anti-Japanese propaganda by British traders in China; party tactics by opponents of President Wilson; German propaganda; the idea that Japanese militarism is a menace to democracy.

In elaborating the last named point, Dr. Nitobe said a reason for the unpopularity of Japan among Europeans and Americans was found in the activity of Japanese militarists, the writer adding that it was the opinion that "because of her Japanese elements, Japan is regarded a dangerous nation to humanity, democracy and freedom."

"Nothing can be more harmful than to be ignorant of the general trend of the world and to be blinded by ambition and narrow-minded patriotism," Dr. Nitobe writes. "The militarists of my country are not only unable to appreciate the spiritual meaning taught by the great war, but are, so to speak, unconscious traitors to the empire. Regardless of the great truth that the warrior's sword sooner or later will put a country in peril, they have copied everything German, with the result that my country is isolated. I do not mean to disparage the army and navy, but would not tolerate for a moment their interference in politics and diplomacy."

In addition to the Shantung question, negotiations concerning the encounters at Tien-tsin between Japanese and Americans and Japan's entrance into the consortium by which the United States, Great Britain, France, and Japan are to play a dominant part in Chinese finances remain unsettled. Here again, the Japanese contend that if the questions are examined impartially their attitude would be accepted as justified.

In the case of the Tien-tsin incident, Japan holds that the fundamental cause of the collision was the fact that American troops entered the Japanese concession in that city on the night of March 12, and that America should recognize the truth of this assertion.

In connection with the consortium, it is understood that the United States recently called Japan's attention to the tardiness of the Japanese in reaching an agreement with the United States, Great Britain, and France concerning the details of the agreement. It is pointed out here that business interests are insisting that Japan should not abandon the preferential loan rights already acquired in Manchuria and in Eastern and Inner Mongolia, and that any arrangement should be based on this consideration. Officials have assured the correspondent that they favored the consortium in the interests of China, and confidence is universally voiced that the matter will eventually be settled amicably.

Newspapers, which are reappearing after the recent shutdown due to the printers' strike, attack the statement made by Viscount Uchida on Aug. 2 as an abandonment of an exclusive Japanese settlement of the Kiao-Chau matter and the substitution of an international agreement. They say that it indicates a weakness on the part of Japanese diplomacy, and declare that the rights won by the sacrifice of the army at Tsingtao should be tenaciously held.

LODGE AND KING PRAISED.

Hellenic Association Approves Their Stand on Thrace.

The American-Hellenic Liberal Association wrote yesterday to Senators Henry Cabot Lodge and William H. King, expressing its appreciation and thanks for the attitude taken by them against the ceding of Thrace to Bulgaria. The letter to Senator Lodge reads in part:

"The American-Hellenic Liberal Association has noted with keen interest your reference in the Senate a few days ago to the effect that to those familiar with the participation of Bulgaria in the late war, it is unbelievable that Thrace should be given over to Bulgaria. The cession of Thrace to the Greek nation would have marked the realization by Greece of her legitimate rights and aspirations to which she had looked forward for centuries. I feel assured that the American delegates at Paris will ultimately recognize the justice of the truth you have asserted."

The communication to Senator King applauds his action in introducing in the Senate a resolution favoring the annexation of Thrace to Greece, and deplores the unexpected attitude of the American delegates at Paris, "who alone favored the cession of the province to Bulgaria."

PUBLICITY ASSURED IN WHITE HOUSE TALK

President Will Furnish Stenographer and Invites Senators to Bring Another.

LOOK FOR FORMAL PARLEY

Opponents of President's Policy Expected to Attend and to Ask Him Many Questions.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—There was endless speculation in official circles today as to what the future held in store in connection with the meeting between President Wilson and the members of the Foreign Relations Committee of the Senate at the White House on Tuesday morning, to discuss the treaty of peace and the League of Nations covenant.

That it would serve to clear the air as regards many phases of the treaty of peace was generally accepted, especially in view of the fact that the President not only acquiesced in the committee's request that nothing be considered confidential, but went one step further by announcing that he would have a stenographer present so that the public might have a transcript of every word said on either side.

The next point which was under pretty general discussion here today dealt with the "atmospheric conditions" which might prevail when the President and some of the members of the Senate Committee, counted as among the most sturdy opponents of the League of Nations, entered into a free discussion of these subjects.

The publication today of the letter sent to President Wilson by Senator Lodge on behalf of the Foreign Relations Committee, and the President's reply, shed little light upon the state of mind which existed on either side. The President's message was couched in the most reserved and dignified language of welcome and did not even contain reference to the "unprecedented condition" concerning publicity, made by Senator Lodge, which found its way into the statement issued last night by Secretary Tumulty after his dinner with the President to discuss the Lodge letter, which arrived at the White House late yesterday afternoon.

A report was carried to some of the Senators this afternoon that the President was in a frame of mind, as a result of the nature of the request which was contained in the Lodge letter, to read a lecture to the committee members. One of the Senators expressed surprise, saying that no such news had reached him and indicating that nothing but the most formal discussion of features of the treaty was expected.

Another Senator said that no definite plan had been made as to questions which would be put to the President, but that a great many of the points concerning which it had been impossible to obtain information from Secretary Lansing would naturally be in the forefront of the Senators' thoughts.

As to the publicity which is to be given to the meeting, it promises to be complete and satisfying. The President in his letter to Senator Lodge today says that he will have a stenographer present and that he would be pleased if the Senate committee saw fit to bring one along. In fact, it is probable that at least two, and perhaps three, White House stenographers will be on hand, so that a stenographic report of every word that is spoken may be placed in the hands of newspaper correspondents with as little delay as possible. If the Senate committee sees fit to have more than one stenographer and make public its transcript of the testimony, there will be no objection on the part of the White House, it is understood.

It is understood that the Foreign Relations Committee will bring but one stenographer and will not issue its transcript of the meeting, taking the position that as the members of the committee are under the President's roof it is for the President to determine what shall be made public during the proceedings. Senator Lodge, it is said, is in favor of the most complete publicity and would have no objection if newspaper correspondents were admitted to the conference.

The meeting will probably be held in the Blue Room of the White House, and it will begin promptly at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning. Members of the Senate committee believe that it will be possible to complete their preliminary questioning at the one session if the President answers all questions freely. In other quarters it is suggested that the meetings may occupy two or three days.

When this question was discussed with members of the Senate committee it was said that at the conclusion of Tuesday's conference the President might be requested to grant another meeting at a later date, when the committee would have had time to consider carefully the transcript of the first session.

The text of the letter which Senator Lodge sent to the President yesterday, requesting that the conference be arranged with full publicity as a feature of the proceedings, was made public today. Here is the text:

"Soon after the treaty of Versailles had been laid before the Senate, Senator Hitchcock informed the Committee on Foreign Relations that if the committee desired at any time to see you for the purpose of discussing the treaty you would be glad to receive them if you were given twenty-four hours' notice. Taking advantage of this suggestion, the committee this morning instructed me by vote to say to you that they would be glad if they could meet you for the purpose of asking certain information in regard to the treaty at such time and place as might be convenient to you. Owing to the necessary absence of one or two Senators, I take the liberty of saying that it would be more convenient to the committee if the appointment could be made for some day subsequent to Monday next.

"It was the general desire of the committee that I should say to you that it was assumed that nothing said at the meeting would be considered confidential.

"The Senate has ordered the treaty to be considered in open executive session, and in consonance with this order the committee feels that any information in regard to the treaty which comes into their possession should not be withheld from the public."

Following is the President's letter to Senator Lodge:

"I have received your letter of yesterday and in reply hasten to express the hope that the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations will give me the pleasure of seeeing them at the White House on Tuesday morning next, the 19th, at 10 o'clock.

"I also welcome the suggestion of the committee that nothing said at the conference shall be regarded as confidential. In order that the committee may have a full and trustworthy record of what is said, I shall have a stenographere present and take the liberty of suggesting that if you should wish to bring one of the committee's stenographers with you, that would be entirely agreeable to me. The presence of the two stenographers would lighten the work.

"It will be most agreeable to me to have an opportunity to tell the committee anything that may be serviceable to them in their consideration of the treaty."

The conference which President Wilson held today with Senator Hitchcock, ranking Democrat on the Senate Foreign Relations committee, and the statement by Mr. Hitchcock that the President was in a frame of mind to send Senators Lodge and Knox to Europe to make a new treaty in the event that textual changes were insisted on by the Republican majority in the Senate, was accepted by some as giving strength to rumors that there might be a more or less exciting time at Tuesday's conference when the Republican opponents of the League of Nations unlimbered their guns.

It is understood that Senators Borah, Brandegee and Fall, who have been among the bitterest opponents of the President's idea of a League of Nations, will attend the conference and are preparing to ask many questions about features such as the Shantung agreement, the British vote in the League, and Article 10 of the covenant, which promise to bring matters to a sharp issue.

BERLIN BALKS AT DEMAND.

REPORT WILSON FOR TREATY UNALTERED

German rights in China to Japan, and then would be asked to sign another treaty with the United States transferring those rights to China.

"In the opinion of the President, no compromise issue is now before the friends of the treaty and the League. This is not even the time to think of a compromise, much less to discuss it or negotiate for it. The time for reservations to the treaty is still far off. There may have to be a compromise in the end, but at the present that bridge is not being crossed.

Bound to Defeat All Amendments.

"Both the President and I agreed that the immediate task is to see to the defeat of the proposed amendments. We've got to remove absolutely any probability of the dotting of an 'i' or the crossing of a 't.'

"As to reservations, the President has not changed the position he has always occupied, that even mild ones would prove tremendously embarrassing. They would, in his opinion, create in Europe the feeling that the United States entered the League of Nations and accepted the Peace Treaty without confidence in either, in a half-hearted and suspicious spirit."

The President also discussed the importance of expediting as much as possible the report of the Foreign Relations Committee which will bring the treaty directly before the Senate. When asked how much longer he though the committee would keep the treaty, Senator Hitchcock said he hoped it would be out in about ten days. He declined to state whether he had discussed with the President measures to force it out of the committee's hands if it has not been reported within that time.

Mr. Hitchcock laid before the President such information as he had concerning the Senate's demand for reservations. Just before going to the White House Mr. Hitchcock conferred with Mr. McNary, leader of the group of "mild reservationists," who for several weeks have been trying to work out a middle ground program to which it was hoped Democratic Senators might assent in the interest of ratification.

Senator Hitchcock asked Senator McNary how many Republicans now favored the mild reservation program. Mr. McNary said that from twenty to twenty-five had come over to it. He also informed the Democratic leader that Senator Lodge had a new set of reservations, somewhat different from those drawn up by the McNary group, which had not yet been passed upon by Republican Senators generally.

After having gathered this information Senator Hitchcock stated that his estimate of the situation showed that forty-odd Senators were standing for unqualified acceptance of the treaty, twenty-five wanted reservations, and the remainder, about thirty, wanted the treaty killed. He intimated that this was the view he intended to lay before Mr. Wilson.

He also carried with him the warning, given him about the same time, by one of the treaty's stanchest Republican friends, that ratification without reservations was an impossibility.

This Republican Senator declared today that in the event of a "showdown"—a vote on acceptance or rejection of the treaty as it now stands—only three Republican votes could be counted on in favor of ratification. An equal number of Democrats, this Senator said, might vote against the treaty. Therefore, he said, a two-thirds vote for ratification was impossible unless the safeguarding reservations were made.

Senator McNary promptly denied a report that Senator Hitchcock had asked him whether twenty Republican Senators would unite with the Democrats to take the treaty out of the Foreign Relations Committee's hands and put it before the Senate, if the delay in reporting it lasted much longer. Mr. McNary said Senator Hitchcock did not in any way suggest such a course, nor would Republicans support any such move at this time.

Against Discharging Committee.

From another Senator it was learned that word was carried to Senator Lodge recently that five Republicans were ready to unite with the Democrats to discharge the committee, but on investigation Senator Lodge learned, it was stated, that not only were the Republicans not willing to do that, but many Democrats would oppose it, as an affront to the committee and a wholly unwarranted interference with the orderly and regular machinery of the Senate.

The mild reservationists today were awaiting a copy of the so-called Lodge reservations, which the Massachusetts Senator is understood to have drafted from ideas and suggestions presented from a number of sources. Senator Lodge today notified Mr. McNary that he had the reservations and would furnish him a copy, at the same time expressing the hope that they would prove acceptable to Senators McNary, Kellogg, McCumber, Lenroot, and others of the "mild" group. Senator Lenroot alone of this group has seen the Lodge proposals. When the others of the group have read them they will hold a conference to determine how far they will concur in them. From what they have been told of Senator Lodge's reservations some of the mild reservationists said they were doubtful regarding his treatment of Article X. Senator McNary said that, while he had not seen the reservations, he understood that the one referring to Article X virtually nullified its provisions.

Senators close to Mr. Lodge said that he was not the author of the new reservations. They implied that Elihu Root's program was the groundwork of the so-called Lodge reservations, and that some ideas suggested by others, in and out of the Senate, were embodied in them.

Mr. Lodge himself said today that if it became apparent that a majority of the Senate favored ineffective reservations he would be forced to vote against the whole treaty, although he wished it ratified, and favored strongly the creation of a League of Nations. But he would not assent, he intimated, to present provisions which he regarded as certain to prove extremely dangerous to the perpetuity of American institutions.

The Foreign Relations Committee today met to consider proposed amendments, and later in the day the Republican members conferred with regard to the questions to be asked of witnesses who had been notified to appear next week.

Discussing Fall's Amendment.

At the morning session the first amendment to be offered was discussed. It was presented by Senator Fall of New Mexico. This amendment would change the wording of Article 34 of the treaty, which provides that Germany shall renounce in favor of Belgium the kreise of Eupen and Malmédy. A plebiscite is provided for, the result of which is to be reported to the League of Nations.

Mr. Fall's amendment provides for the striking out of the words "League of Nations" and the substitution of "A commission appointed by the Allied Powers." This would entirely eliminate the United States from any part in determining the sovereignty under which the territory is to remain permanently.

Senator Fall has nearly 100 similar amendments, each designed to prevent the appointment of Americans on commissions and boards dealing with purely European affairs. The next he will offer will be to Article 35, which places Eupen and Malmédy until the plebiscite under supervision and control of the "principal allied and associated powers." The Fall amendment consists in striking out the words "and associated," which he reads as referring to the United States.

No other amendments were considered at today's formal session, and no vote was taken on the one discussed. The committee decided that it would resume its open hearings on the treaty Monday, with Thomas F. Millard, an expert on China and Japan, as the witness. Tuesday the committee will go to the White House to question President Wilson, and Wednesday Dr. John C. Ferguson, another Oriental expert, will appear before it. A message has been sent to the Maine woods, where William C. Bullitt is spending his vacation, that the committee desires him to interrupt his holiday long enough to answer questions concerning his trip to Russia for the American Peace Commission.

Republican committee members said today that they regarded Mr. Millard as one of the most important witnesses summoned. Their understanding is that he was employed by the Chinese peace delegation in Paris, and that he therefore knows China's attitude regarding Shantung as no other white man knows it.

At an informal conference this afternoon in Senator Lodge's office, these Republican members of the committee mapped out the questions they would ask Mr. Millard. They wanted to know, they said, if the Chinese asked permission to hire American counsel to plead their cause, and if that right was refused; whether the Chinese were told that they did not need to provide themselves with counsel at all, and whether other requests they made were summarily refused by the Peace Conference.

Committee members have received much information regarding the Chinese position and the treatment accorded China from Chinese peace delegates who recently visited Washington. They wish to obtain verification or denial of this from Mr. Millard.

The Shantung decision, Senators said, would probably be one of the first matters touched upon when the committee sat down in the White House at 10 A. M. next Tuesday with Mr. Wilson. In view of the definite testimony of Secretary Lansing that the Shantung decision was President Wilson's own, the committee feels that it can get from him enlightenment that could come from no other source. The questions along this line probably will be numerous and very searching. The Senators want to know, they say, why Mr. Wilson, left alone to decide the question, did not decide differently and tell Japan that he would withdrawal from the conference and leave the American people to pass judgment on his course, if, as has been indicated, the decision he did make was offensive to his sense of justice.

The question of British voting power as compared with that of the United States in the League of Nations, of Irish independence, of the disposition of America's one-fifth share in German overseas possessions, of Article X., withdrawal, the Monroe Doctrine, and domestic questions in the League covenant and of the disposition of reparations are also to be thoroughly gone into, it is said.

It was learned today that a reservation designed to cover the case of Ireland had been almost agreed on by the Senate advocates of Irish freedom. The proposed reservation, it was stated, had been rendered "unobjectionable" by leaving out of it any direct reference to Ireland. As proposed, it would simply state the Senate's understanding that nothing in the treaty should prevent any nation from obtaining its independence and would recognize the principle of self-determination as paramount.

In preparation for a great deal of activity next week, many members of the Foreign Relations Committee left Washington tonight for a week-end rest in the mountains, at the seashore or in the country. The committee, therefore, will not meet on Saturday.

PROBLEM OF THRACE NEARS SOLUTION

MAY CUT GREEK CLAIMS

By CHARLES A. SELDEN.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Aug. 14.—Two of the difficulties of the Peace Conference seem to be on the way to straightening themselves out simultaneously—the Hungarian and Thracian questions. In each case something like a middle course is being taken between the two extremes for which different groups of the Supreme Council have been holding out for several weeks. It is also true that in each case America seems to be yielding more than the other side; but the statement frequently heard that Polk and the other American delegates have completely reversed themselves is not fair to those men or in accord with the facts. They have fought as long as possible for what they considered solutions in the spirit of the sort of peacemaking we heard so much about before the Peace Conference began. Now they are trying to get the best settlement possible, even if it is not all they hoped for. But they are receiving as well as making concessions.

The compromise toward which the Supreme Council is now headed in the Thracian difficulty is based on the middle-course plan suggested by Captain André Tardieu. As is well known, the extreme plan which America held alone after Italy changed her mind was to give Western Thrace to Bulgaria, on the double ground that the population there was not predominantly Greek and that the territory had been ceded to Bulgaria in 1913. The other extreme was that all this territory should go to Greece. Captain Tardieu, who, with the other French delegates, espoused the full claims of Greece, now suggests that a small section in the southwestern part of Western Thrace go to Greece; that the middle part of the debatable territory be set up as an internationalized State under the League of Nations, and that Eastern Thrace be given to Greece, with the exception of a very narrow strip on the northern coast of the Sea of Marmora, which it is proposed to retain as a hinterland for the power taking the mandate to administer Constantinople. The population of Eastern Thrace is almost wholly Greek.

Apparently America is willing to set up this central section of Thrace as an internationalized State, and, as France suggests this solution, this particular Peace Conference problem seems nearer settlement than at any time since it was tackled.

Needless to say, Premier Venizelos is bitterly disappointed with the proposed compromise, and will continue to fight for the original Greek claims. The sympathy of Americans in Paris is entirely with Venizelos, but nevertheless they fear that to take from Bulgaria now what was given her in 1913 and hand it over to Greece would precipitate another Balkan war.

Venizelos and Polk Confer.

PARIS, Aug. 15, (Associated Press.)—Frank L. Polk, head of the American peace delegation, had a long conference today with Premier Venizelos on the Thracian question. They discussed various plans to adjust the situation, but the conference ended with the question apparently no nearer a settlement.

The effort to provide Bulgaria with an outlet to the Aegean Sea by means of an internationalized railroad to Dedeagatch does not seem to be meeting with success. American delegates believe it is impossible to internationalize the railroad without granting the surrounding territory to Bulgaria.

The Council is industriously studying various plans suggested for a division of Thrace in such a manner as to be acceptable to Greece and Bulgaria as well as England and France, which are vitally interested in the disposition to be made of European Turkey.

Uncertainty as to what country will receive the mandate for Constantinople and the surrounding country complicates the situation almost hopelessly, as interested powers are all striving to protect their own interests, regardless of who gets Constantinople.

Italy and Greece have apparently reached an understanding, so that the United States stands virtually alone in supporting Bulgaria's claim for an outlet to the Aegean Sea, so that another Balkan war can be avoided.

A dozen different plans for the dividing and disposing of Thrace have been considered during the past week, but the one most likely to be accepted as a compromise, although opposed by Greece, contemplates an international zone extending from the Bulgarian border to Dedeagatch, on the Aegean Sea. Western Thrace would go to Greece, and she would also receive a strip eastward from Dedeagatch extending from the Aegean to the Black Sea, including the port of Midia. The territory immediately about Constantinople would go to the country receiving the mandate there. This internationalized zone would be under the administration of the League of Nations.

This plan violates the rights of majorities and separates districts to be given to Greece, but it is apparently impossible to reach an agreement on any plan which would make this region less of a crazy-quilt. The plan gives Adrianople to Greece, which is regarded as unsatisfactory, as that city is considered sacred by the Mohammedans. There is a great difference of opinion regarding the exact size of the proposed internationalized zone, and new suggestions are offered at every meeting of the Council.

The Supreme Council did not meet today and will not be in session tomorrow. Mr. Polk will accompany Tomasso Tittoni, the Italian Foreign Minister, on a visit to Lens, Arras and other points in the devastated area of France. They will return to Paris Monday.

FINDS CREW IN MUTINY.

British Tanker Takes Steamship Away from Drunken Sailors.

LONDON, Aug. 15.—A wireless dispatch received at Queenstown from the British tank steamer War Khan said that she had picked up another steamer in mid-ocean, finding the crew drunk, the Captain incapacitated from injuries, and some of the other officers in irons. The crew of the War Khan arrested the mutinous crew of the other steamer and supplied enough men to take her to Brest, where she was bound. The name of the steamer could not be deciphered from the wireless dispatch sent by the War Khan.

Special dispatches from Queenstown say that the ship taken to Brest by the War Khan was the "American steamer Marisya." They add that her negro stokers mutinied and imprisoned the officers. The ship carried several thousand casks of whisky. The crew of the War Khan, it is added, found the fires out and the steamer drifting.

Available shipping records do not contain the name of an American steamer Marisya. The British steamer Mariska sailed from Baltimore on July 22 for Brest.

BERLIN WOMEN ANGRY AT PRISONERS' PLIGHT

BERLIN, Aug. 15, (Associated Press.)—A women's demonstration for the speedy return of German prisoners of war, held in Philharmonic Hall yesterday, ended when the women were dispersed by the police after they had marched to the Chancellory, where they gave the soldiers a tongue lashing.

The meeting in Philharmonic Hall was noisy. Women screamed, some tore at their hair and others fainted. Some of the speakers on the program gave up their efforts to talk to the audience. Dr. Döring, former Court Pastor, finally re-established order. Sister Monika, a nurse for many years, defended the Government's efforts to have the German prisoners released, but her voice was drowned out by those of the audience who began weeping and shouting that the only solution of the question was the displacement of the Government.

Some of the more excited women proposed the organization of a crusade to cross the frontier and bring home the prisoners by force, and similar schemes. One woman caused intense excitement by reading an account of the prisoners' alleged sufferings.

During a quiet period of the meeting, it was voted to address wireless messages regarding the release of prisoners to Japan and the United States.

FIRE ON SILESIAN RIOTERS.

Many Wounded in Clash with Food Demonstrators.

BERLIN, Aug. 14, (Associated Press.)—Riots took place in Kittowitz, Silesia, today, and many persons were wounded when troops fired on a crowd of demonstrants. The crowd was protesting against the high price of food.

Many market dealers were maltreated, shops were plundered, and windows smashed.

Between 85 and 90 per cent. of all workers in Upper Silesia are said to be on strike. The strikers include the miners, electrical workers, and railway employes.

The demands of the men include the immediate reinstatement of discharged workmen, the reopening of plants that have been shut down, the lifting of martial law, the release of political prisoners, the granting of bonuses, and the opening of the borders in order to regulate food supplies.

The United States Distinguished Service Medal has been conferred on General Dupont of the French Army, Commander of the Inter-Allied Military Commission here, by Brig. Gen. George H. Harries, commander of the American detachment.

BERLIN, Aug. 14, (Associated Press.)—Karl Radek, the chief Bolshevist propagandist in Germany and one of the leaders of the Soviet Government, was released from the Moabit Jail today and will be expelled from Germany under an understanding that the Moscow Government will not resume its propaganda in this country.

Radek, who has been in jail since last Spring, will be under military supervision pending his transfer to Russia.

BERLIN, Aug. 14, (Associated Press.)—President Fehrenbach announced to the National Assembly at Weimar today that the Government had agreed unanimously to the recommendation of a committee that the Assembly should retain its name of the Constituent German National Assembly.

The rights and duties given to the Reichstag by the Constitution are to become those of the Assembly.

SAY CZECHS ASK MONARCH.

Socialists Choose Duke of Connaught, Is Unofficial Report.

GENEVA, Aug. 14.—A Prague dispatch received here quotes the Pravo Lidu, the organ of the Czech Socialists, to the effect that a large section of Socialists, under the leadership of Deputy Durios, is working for the creation of a monarchy in Czechoslovakia, and that the choice for a monarch has fallen upon the Duke of Connaught, uncle of King George of England. The dispatch adds that the Duke is "probably unaware of the honor," and that no official negotiations have as yet been opened.

It is said that the movement has been encouraged by the accession of Archduke Joseph to control in Hungary, replacing Bela Kun, the head of the Communist Government there.

REPORT LUIS IN BRAZIL.

Grandson of Dom Pedro II. Braves Royalist Ban, Says Rio Paper.

RIO JANEIRO, Aug. 14.—Local newspapers print a dispatch from Portalegre, Portugal, to the effect that Prince Luis, grandson of Dom Pedro II., last Emperor of Brazil, is travelling in the State of Rio Grande de Sul, in the southern part of the country. The dispatch says that the Prince, who was a Captain in the French army during the war, is travelling incognito and declares that he came to Brazil to visit friends and that his presence has no political significance.

The decree of banishment against royalists is still effective in Brazil. The news has created widespread interest, many doubting its credibility.

FRENCH STUDY THE TREATY.

PARIS, Aug. 14.—French Cabinet members and other authorities were heard today by the Senate Foreign Affairs Commission, which is examining the German peace treaty in preparation for its ratification.

Stephen Pichon, Minister of Foreign Affairs, appeared before the commission and discussed political clauses of the treaty; Captain André Tardieu, French member of the Commission for the Execution of the German Treaty, discussed the effect on Alsace-Lorraine, matters connected with the administration of the Sarre district, and the occupation of the left bank of the Rhine; and Etienne Clementel, Minister of Commerce, pointed out the economic advantages given France by the treaty.

RUMANIA TO ACT FOR ALLIED COUNCIL

GENERALS TO DELIVER THEM

Agreement to be Reached Concerning Disposition of All Material Taken by Army.

PARIS, Aug. 15, (Associated Press.)—Full satisfaction is given to Rumania, in regard to the exercise of authority at Budapest, in the reply made by the Supreme Council to the Rumanian note, according to The Temps.

The commission of four allied Generals at Budapest, the Supreme Council's answer was said to have stated, will deliver the Peace Conference's instructions to Rumanian civil, commissary, and military commands at Budapest and these Rumanian commands will be charged with the execution of these directions.

An agreement concerning the disposition of all the material taken in Hungary by the Rumanians, according to the newspaper, will be reached by the Rumanian Government and the Allies.

The Rumanian communication which the council has been considering said that the army arrived in Budapest before the Bucharest Government had received the note from the Supreme Council, asking that troops be not allowed to enter the Hungarian capital.

The Rumanian Government added that it still regarded itself as an ally of the Entente and as a member of the Peace Conference.

It was contended by the Rumanian Government that the Rumanians in their confiscations in Hungary were merely getting back their own property. It was insisted also that the armistice of November, 1918, no longer existed.

M. Pachitch of the Jugoslav peace delegation, according to the newspapers, told Frank Polk, head of the American delegation, that the Jugoslav Government and people were firmly opposed to the restoration of the Hapsburgs in Hungary. Mr. Polk is said to have answered that the American delegation was of the same opinion.

The Czechoslovak Government also has protested against the danger of a Hapsburg restoration through the elevation of Archduke Joseph to the head of the Hungarian Government.

PARIS, Aug. 14.—The latest factor in the development of the Rumanian-Hungarian situation is the arrival here of the Rumanian reply to the Allies' remonstrance against the occupation of Budapest.

Enough is known of its contents to enable one to describe it as showing a realization, without a direct admission, on the part of Rumania that she has gone too far in defying the Supreme Council. Even France, which has been defending Rumania against American condemnation, admits that she has gone too far. But, on the other hand, some things which Rumania has done in defiance of the council will have to stand temporarily, as they cannot be undone summarily without running a grave risk of making the Hungarian situation worse than it is now. This, however, does not mean that America now condones the Rumanian occupation of Budapest. It is not at all certain that Hungary would not have been better off today if Rumania had kept her hands off and given the Piedll Government a chance to establish itself. At any rate, no Entente power is satisfied with having Archduke Joseph in control.

What is now expected is that the Rumanians will get an ex post facto approval from Paris of their being in Budapest, but will be told that they must act there as allied representatives, and do everything possible to enable the Hungarians themselves to establish a government stable enough for the Allies to deal with. But at the same time Rumanians must understand that they are not to make use of their temporary presence in Budapest for purposes of revenge, that they must cease removing Hungarian cattle and food supplies, and that the terms in force are those laid down by the Allies in the armistice, and not those contained in Rumania's ultimatum of a week ago.

SAYS HE IS STILL KING.

Charles So Writes Archduke Joseph, Reports to Berlin Say.

BERLIN, Aug. 15, (Associated Press.)—A courier has arrived in Budapest, according to reports received here, with a letter from former Emperor Charles to Archduke Joseph, in which Charles declares he is still the crowned King of Hungary and commissions Joseph to take over the sovereign power until he returns. The reports add that the letter thanks the Archduke for the services rendered the dynasty.

Count Michael Karolyi, former President of Hungary, is reported to have told a well known political personage whom he met at Karlsbad that Austrian court circles supported the "Entente plan" of placing young Archduke Otto, the eldest son of former Emperor Charles, on the Austrian throne. The plan, Karolyi is reported to have said, is supported by the Clericals and Christian Socialists.

Count Karolyi, the reports add, said that Stephen Friedrich, Minister of War in the new Hungarian Cabinet, when in his Government was very radical, and that when the castle in Budapest was stormed in November, Friedrich would not desist from a personal attack on Archduke Joseph, declaring that all the Hapsburgs must be driven out.

The Budapest correspondent of the Tageblatt calls the new Hungarian Cabinet "a victory for reaction." It says that Moderate and Conservative circles have taken coldly to the announcement of the new Government.

Baron Perini, the new Minister of the Interior, the correspondent says, is disliked because of his relations with the late Count Tisza. Herr Huszar, the Minister of Education, and Herr Peidll, the Minister of Public Welfare, are strongly Clerical. Julius Rubinek, the Minister of Agriculture, is the head of the Hungarian Landowners' Association, and his appointment, it is declared, is taken to indicate that the interests of the landowners will be protected. Herr Heinrich, the Minister of Trade, is a member of one of the largest business families in Budapest. Koloman Hegedus, the Minister of Finance, for a long time was a member of the Hungarian Lower House, and is considered a good financier and politician.

Premier Lovassy, the correspondent goes on to say, agreed to enter the Cabinet in order to prevent the representatives in it of Archduke Joseph from controlling both the internal and foreign policies of the Government. The Christian Socialists are said to be the principal supporters of the new Cabinet.

One of the first things taken up for discussion by the new Hungarian Cabinet was the question of what should be done concerning the money issued while the Communists were in power.

The Soviet money, dispatches from Budapest say, will either be declared false or a temporary value will be given to it, so that the Hungarians who were forced to accept it from the Bela Kun régime will not lose everything. It is said to be probable that the Communist or "white money" will have an arbitrary value of one-fifth of the "blue money," the name by which the almost worthless Austro-Hungarian crowns are known.

Some Hungarian industrial leaders maintain that the "white money" is almost entirely in the hands of speculators, and the general public principally holds the notes issued by the Karolyi Government, which are being redeemed by the Hungarian State Bank.

MAGYAR CABINET OUT, NEW ONE FORMED

London Hears by Way of Berlin That Ministry Is Ultra-Conservative.

LONDON, Aug. 15.—Dispatches received in London by way of Berlin say that the new Hungarian Cabinet headed by Herr Lovassy has failed.

One dispatch, credited to the Budapest correspondent of the Berlin Vossische Zeitung, declares that another Cabinet, which is ultra-conservative, has been formed.

TO STOP TAKING FOOD.

Rumanians Warned by Allied Relief Official for Central Europe.

BUDAPEST, Aug. 13, (Via Vienna,) (Associated Press.)—As a result of the first day's conference between the Interallied Commission, Constantine Diamendy, and General Marghasou, commander of the Rumanian troops here, a promise was made by the Rumanians that they would cease requisitioning food in Budapest and certain other localities.

Captain Thomas C. Gregory, Chief Allied Food Administrator in Central Europe, appeared before the conference and said he would not assist in sending food to Hungary if the Rumanians were going to requisition it.

"If the Rumanians will not leave, I am going home," he declared during his address.

Many roads leading from Budapest to the frontier are lined with families fleeing from the city. The Rumanians are charging 5,000 crowns for issuing passes to leave Budapest.

COPENHAGEN, Aug. 15.—The military command at Budapest has ordered the rounding up of the dispersed troops of the Communist Government, who have taken to wooded sections of Hungary in small parties, according to advices received here from Budapest.

AUSTRIA MUST HOLD KUN.

Allies Said to Hold Her Responsible for His Delivery for Trial.

GENEVA, Aug. 14.—The allied Governments have informed the Austrian Government that it will be held responsible for Bela Kun, the Hungarian Communist leader, and for his delivery later for trial by an allied tribunal, according to a dispatch from Innsbruck. It is added that he will be tried for hanging and shooting Hungarians during his reign in Budapest.

Extradition will be resisted by Bela Kun, it is said, it being added that the former Hungarian Foreign Minister desired to go to the United States, taking with him the money his wife and himself carried out of Budapest.

tion of conditions, both political and military. It is said that Ambassador Morris's preliminary reports have all been unfavorable to the recognition of Kolchak and that the Ambassador confirmed the report submitted by Minister Reinsch.

Ambassador Morris's conclusions are believed to be skeptical of the possibility of Kolchak rallying to his support the strong elements of Siberia, to indicate that he lacks capacity to lead the regeneration of Russia, and to emphasize the essentially military character of his Government.

MOVE ON PETROGRAD BY ANTI-REDS BEGUN

Judenitch Leading the Russo-Esthonian Army—Northwest Russian Cabinet Formed.

COPENHAGEN, Aug. 15.—An advance on Petrograd by anti-Bolshevist forces which, it is hoped, will be decisive, is announced in messages received here from Helsingfors. The attacking forces are commanded by General Judenitch, whose Russian volunteer troops will be supported by Esthonians.

A government for Northwest Russia, including Esthonia, is being formed at Reval, according to other dispatches received here today. The Cabinet, so far as the formation has proceeded, is composed of Premier Lianozow, Minister of War Suvorow, Minister of Food Maximow, and M. Alexandrow as Minister of Home Affairs and Communications.

LONDON, Aug. 15.—Bolshevist forces along the south coast of the Gulf of Finland in the neighborhood of Narva have suffered a reverse in fighting against Esthonian and anti-Bolshevist troops, according to a Bolshevist wireless dispatch received here, which admits that the Soviet army in that region has been driven back to the Luga River.

Further Bolshevist retirements in Volhynia, where the Red forces were driven from Lutsk and Dubno on Wednesday, are announced in a later Soviet Government wireless dispatch dated Aug. 14.

In the direction of Borisoff, the message said, the Bolshevist troops retired to new positions, and after three days' fighting they abandoned Rovno, Sarny, fifty miles north of Rovno, and the town of Mirgorod.

But in the Troitsk region, where the forces of Admiral Kolchak have been retiring, it was said that the Soviet forces had advanced fifty-six miles.

WARSAW, Aug. 15.—An official communication dealing with the operations of the Polish forces against the Bolsheviki in the Minsk region of Russia, says:

"We are pursuing on the whole front the enemy, who is retreating. We have reached a line twenty-five kilometers north of Minsk, where the population gave us an enthusiastic welcome."

OMSK, Aug. 10, (Russian Telegraphic Agency.)—Anti-Bolshevist forces operating on the southern front of Russia are being aided by peasants' revolts, it was stated here today by military authorities of the All-Russian Government.

Peasants who rose against the Soviet Government in the Tambov region, about 300 miles southeast of Moscow, joined the Don Cossack forces. On the left bank of the Volga River, east of the Tambov district, peasants also revolted against the Bolshevist rule and joined the Kuban Cossacks.

EXCUSE FOR CADORNA FOUND BY FRENCH

Feeling That the Caporetto Commission Underestimated Prime Cause of Defeat.

MET NEW FORM OF ATTACK

Von Hutier Method That Later Overwhelmed Defense in France Used for First Time.

By WALTER DURANTY.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Aug. 15.—Considerable interest has been aroused in military circles here by the severe censures meted out by the Italian Commission of Inquiry into the Caporetto disaster to Generalissimo Cadorna and other chiefs.

The French do not hesitate to admit the importance of lowered morale due to defeatist propaganda and to injudicious conduct on the part of the army leaders, but there is a feeling that the Caporetto commission underestimated the prime cause of the defeat, namely, the unprecedented and unexpected form of attack launched by the Germans, which subsequently became known as the von Hutier manoeuvre, from the General who first developed it against the Russians before Riga. This method of attack was used by the enemy in all their great drives on the western front in 1918 and proved well-nigh irresistible until Gouraud employed "depth defense" against it on July 15—or, in other words, simply abandoned to the Germans the advanced area four or five miles deep which the von Hutier attack rendered absolutely untenable. In so doing Gouraud gave the enemy positions—notably the famous hills of Champagne—for which the French had battled desperately, but the German wave was smashed against his "battle zone" behind them.

I heard the von Hutier manoeuvre discussed hundreds of times last year by French experts both on the General Staff and at army headquarters. Before the Summer ended all agreed it was practically irresistible and that it was at Caporetto it first appeared on the western front. At the same time it was curious to see the gradual change of tone as the German offensives continued.

French Convinced at Chemin des Dames.

At first there was a tendency to consider that new as was the German attack the Italians and British were somewhat to blame for not resisting it. Then after its success against the French troops on the Chemin des Dames and on the Plemont front on June 9—that latter drive checked by Mangin's counterattack on the eleventh did not alter the initial enemy victory—the French were willing to admit that the Germans owed their gains to the value of the method. Indeed subsequent allied attacks adopted many of von Hutier's points, especially those conducing to the factors of surprise and concealment—smoke clouds, &c.

After his victory in July General Gouraud gave the correspondent a brief outline of the manoeuvre, adding at the time that with slight modifications the Germans had used the identical method successfully at Caporetto against the British in March and later against the French. He said:

"The von Hutier system broke the trench warfare deadlock in the German favor by two factors: First, the element of surprise—that is, development of unexpected strength both of men and guns at a given point—and secondly, by neutralizing the land or trench defenses by a brief bombardment of tremendous volume, followed by a smoke screen against which the defenders that escaped destruction were virtually powerless.

"Beginning usually four hours before the zero hour, fixed around dawn, the enemy would open fire with four or five times as many guns as the defender thought he possessed in that sector. During the preceding weeks they had been 'registering' on every worthwhile objective, but taking care to space the registering shots so as to conceal their great strength. The bombardment would contain a fixed proportion of gas and high explosive calculated to render the defense positions untenable for a considerable depth. During the final hour smoke shells at the rate of about two to one would be added. Then at the zero hour the infantry, masked and lightly equipped, would charge forward at full speed through the gas and smoke, literally swamping the defenders and often penetrating right to the artillery positions before the isolated groups in the front line defenses realized that they were surrounded."

These infantry divisions had been carefully trained in readiness and brought up at the last moment by night forced marches, during which every precaution was taken to avoid detection by airplanes. They attacked in formation of threes—two in front and one behind—which was maintained throughout the whole force from squads commanded by a Corporal to divisions. The correspondent was told by a survivor at Plemont that the assailants communicated with each other by whistles in the smoke, and that while he and his comrades were utterly bewildered, the Germans seemed to know exactly where they were and what was happening.

Amazing Speed a Feature.

A feature of the attack was its amazing speed. A General, commanding a brigade at the Chemin des Dames, told the correspondent that the enemy's vanguard reached the Vesle River—nearly eight kilometers across rough country—barely an hour after the attack had been launched.

All witnesses to these drives laid emphasis on the mist or fog, which they said was lucky for the enemy. We heard the same story at Caporetto and after the English defeat in March. It was only after the Chemin des Dames that it was generally realized that fog artificially formed was a deliberate part of the German method. Subsequently, it contributed very greatly to the Allies' victory, especially in the Anglo-American assault on the Hindenburg line at the end of September.

PERSIA ACCEPTS BRITISH INFLUENCE

Agreement Made for Co-operation in the Reconstruction of the Country.

LONDON, Aug. 15.—Official announcement was made today that the Persian and British Governments have concluded an agreement by which Great Britain will be enabled to provide Persia with expert assistance and advice toward the rebuilding of the Persian State. The negotiations have been in progress for nine months.

The first article of the agreement pledges Great Britain to respect absolutely the territorial integrity and independence of Persia.

Persia, by the terms of the agreement, will establish a uniformed force in which will be incorporated the various existing armed bodies. This force will be put under the instruction of British officers.

Great Britain will advance Persia £2,000,000 to enable her to initiate certain contemplated reforms with the help of a British financial adviser. Persian customs receipts will be security for the loan.

Provisions of the agreement will enable Great Britain to back Persia in realizing upon several unsatisfied claims.

There is also provision for a revision of the existing treaties between Great Britain and Persia. The agreement recognizes Persia's claim to compensation for material damage suffered at the hands of other belligerents during the war and for some frontier rectifications.

The Paris Temps on Thursday said that the proposed departure from Teheran of the Shah on a visit to Europe had been hastened by the feeling aroused in Teheran over the signing of an agreement with Great Britain. The paper said that the agreement seemingly would result in Great Britain being the only power to exercise influence in Persia.

With Edison Service there need be no exhausting home labor, yet every part can be kept clean and sanitary, as in no other way. Electric power is now available for the home in a manner comparable with its availability in the best industrial undertakings of the country

The cost of Edison Service is surprisingly little. For a family of five, the vacuum cleaner averages about 15 cents monthly; the washing machine about 12 cents; the electric toaster about 35 cents; the electric iron about 70 cents; electric power for the sewing machine can hardly add 5 cents to the monthly bill

MEXICANS LOSING HEART

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—The State Department's announcement that President Carranza had been informed by this Government that unless the Mexican Government took immediate steps to put an end to the murder of American citizens in Mexico this Government would be compelled to "adopt a radical change in its policy" in regard to that country, occasioned no end of speculation in military and naval circles today. As was the case yesterday, there was no official statement forthcoming to indicate the nature of the "radical change" foreshadowed.

Government officials will not admit that armed intervention is the cure the Government has decided upon in the case of Mexico. The general opinion in circles familiar with the Mexican situation is that such intervention is something that depends entirely upon the future attitude and actions of the Carranza Government. If Carranza does accord the protection demanded, and the murder of Americans stops, there will be no change of intervention, but if murders and other outrages against Americans continue, the threat of a "radical change" in policy may be made good by active intervention to restore law and order south of the Rio Grande.

The United States Government is in a position to act immediately when the President gives the word. Massed along the border or within twenty-four hours' rail journey of the border bases at San Antonio, El Paso, and Columbus, are eleven regiments of cavalry, seven of infantry, six of field artillery, two of engineers, one machine gun battalion, fifteen airplane squadrons, nine balloon companies, one battalion of signal corps troops, seventeen pack trains, and sixteen motor transport companies, in addition to the needed quota of special and technical troops. Altogether the force of Regulars now available for immediate service on the Mexican border is said to be between 50,000 and 60,000 officers and men under command of Major Gen. Joseph T. Dickman.

Cordon from Gulf to Pacific.

A glance at a United States military map of the border shows that the line of American Regulars extends from the Gulf to the Pacific, and that at the present time the force of mounted soldiers ready for service at various points along the Rio Grande and West of El Paso is the largest ever mobilized on or near the Mexican frontier. The 1st Cavalry, with the exception of one troop, is at Douglas, Ariz. Troop L of this command is at Fort Apache, Ariz. The 2d Cavalry is at Fort Riley, Kan., within a day and a half of the border. The 4th Cavalry, one of the veteran border commands, is scattered by troops and detachments at Rio Grande City, McAllen, San Fordyce, and Roma, all in Texas, while the 5th Cavalry, with the exception of Troops A, B, and C, is at Fort Bliss. Troop A is at Ruidosa, Troop B at Holland's Ranch, and Troop C at Indio, Texas. The 7th Cavalry is also based on Fort Bliss. Nine troops are at Fort Bliss and one each at Ysleta, Fabens and Fort Hancock, all posts near El Paso.

The Big Bend country, of which Marfa, Tex., is the base, is guarded by the 8th Cavalry, while the 10th Cavalry is held ready for action at Fort Huachuca, Arivica, Nogales, Lochiel and Naco, all border posts in Arizona. The 12th Cavalry is at Columbus, N. M.; the 13th at Fort Clark, Tex.; the 14th at San Antonio, and the 16th is based on Brownsville, at the extreme eastern end of the far-flung border line.

Of the infantry troops the 3d Infantry is based on San Antonio, Eagle Pass and Del Rio, Tex.; the 19th Regiment is based on El Paso; the 24th is at Columbus, N. M.; the 25th at Nogales, Ariz.; the 35th at Camp Travis, Tex.; the 37th at Laredo, and the 42d at Camps Travis and Bowie. The 83d and 340th Regiments of Field Artillery are at El Paso; the 4th at Camp Stanley, Tex., and the 1st, 9th and 14th Regiments at Fort Sill, Okla. The 4th and 5th Machine-Gun Battalions are at Camp Kearny, Cal., while the 143d is at Fort Bliss. The 8th Regiment of Engineers is at El Paso and the 9th at Fort Courchesne, both in Texas. The transport troops and the aero squadrons are scattered all along the border from San Diego in the West to Brownsville in the East.

These are the forces that form the backbone of the American guard on the Rio Grande and in New Mexico, Arizona, and Southern California. General Dickman, their commander, is considered one of the ablest field commanders who served in France, and is the officer who first commanded the American Army of Occupation in Germany.

No Aid for Any Mexican Faction.

It was officially made plain today that the United States would not give aid and comfort to any faction in Mexico. There are at least six now seeking the control of a part or the whole of that distracted land. Officials of the Government declined to say whether the permission heretofore given to the Carranza Government to import arms and munitions from this country would be withdrawn. There was a report which failed of verification that the right to make these importations had already been canceled.

It is believed that the State Department will prevent the shipment into Mexico of arms and munitions in any quantity which would create a surplus for the Mexican Army, and that if at any future time it should become necessary for the United States to intervene in Mexico this country's army would not be confronted by forces supplied with guns and ammunition from this side of the border.

There were intimations in official quarters that Henry L. Fletcher, American Ambassador to Mexico, who has been detailed to the State Department for some months, first as assistant to Under Secretary Polk, and now as assistant to Secretary Lansing, was being kept in Washington because of the reluctance of the Department to maintain an Ambassador at Mexico City until conditions in Mexico had been improved.

It was also stated authoritatively that the European nations looked to the United States to effect a betterment of conditions in Mexico. At the same time it was declared emphatically that the State Department "does not know" of any obligation assumed by the United States to European powers to re-establish orderly conditions in Mexico. There has been an impression here, however, that President Wilson was in tacit agreement with the Entente Premiers that the Mexican solution should be left to the United States, and that this Government should not be embarrassed in handling the Mexican problem by the interference of other parties.

It is known that some of the highest officials in the United States Government oppose the idea of armed intervention in Mexico, believing that thousands of American lives would be sacrificed if an army were sent into Mexico for the purpose of "protecting the property" of American nationals. It is realized, however, that American public opinion may not tolerate the continued assassination of Americans in Mexico, and, as the issues with Mexico have passed the stage where property alone was concerned, the Mexican Government has received explicit warning that adequte action will be taken by the United States to prevent the murder of its citizens.

Europe in Accord with Our Policy.

The European Governments are said to be in complete accord with the United States in this policy. It is denied authoritatively that the United States has discussed with them the question of an American mandate for Mexico, although observers of Mexican affairs declare that if military action against the Carranza Administration should become necessary there would be no other Government in Mexico with which the United States could treat and no other authority to maintain public order, and that the duty would devolve upon the United States to police the country, give protection to foreign nationals doing business in Mexico, and consequently to occupy the country with sufficient military forces until a National Assembly could be called under the auspices of the United States, a new Constitution adopted, officials chosen, and a new Government formed sufficiently strong to guarantee the performance of the republic's internal and international duties.

The chief subject of discussion in Mexico City, according to mail advices received today through official channels, is the possibility of intervention by the United States. Mexicans do not approve the idea of intervention by this country, but today's advices say that the situation has become so disorganized during the protracted revolutionary period that one Mexico City daily paper declares that 80 per cent. of the population look upon the possibility of intervention with indifference, while 90 per cent. of the educated class would welcome it.

A Despairing Mexican View.

This newspaper has just begun the publication in Spanish of a series of articles which recently appeared in an American publication attacking the Carranza regime. The paper is quoted as saying:

"Before examining the forms of intervention one by one we will glance at the present state of our society in relation to said intervention.

"The prolonged civil war in which our people has been sunk for more than eight years, the deep divisions existing between all Mexicans, the lack of hope for a political and social regeneration, the physical and moral bankruptcy of the nation, the total disappearance of the cult of heroes, the lack of an eminently religious spirit, the slight confidence or lack or confidence in public servants, the absence of justice, the almost complete lack of respect for private property, and the lack of vested interests, unfortunately, has brought about the result that no less than 80 per cent. of the inhabitants of the republic look at intervention with indifference.

"Perhaps on reading this some chauvinists will call us unpatriotic; but this is the truth, supported by practical proof. When society had not yet come to the moral weariness which it feels today and to the corruption that is now defiling us, the Americans retained in their power the port of Vera Cruz, overran the whole State of Chihuahua in a warlike way in the face of the indifference of the Mexican nation.

"But there is something graver still which must be stated with all civic valor. Ninety per cent. of our educated class, which has come to the conclusion that there is no salvation for Mexico except through foreign influence, would look at intervention, sad to say, almost with pleasure. Our present moral state is far from that of heroic Belgium or of patriotic France, which gave the blood of their intellectuals to save national sovereignty."

Mexican Arraignment of Carranza.

Dissension is also invading President Carranza's official family, according to an American official who has received a letter from a Mexican official in Mexico City. This man was formerly a strong adherent of Carranza, but now admits, according to this letter, that the Mexican President has failed in his supposed aims and has excluded Mexico from the League of Nations. This, together with the failure of the great powers to invite Mexico to participate in conferences of neutral nations, has cut the Mexican people to the quick, it is reported, and has made its influence felt even in the Mexican Cabinet. This official, however, does not advocate intervention or approve it. The letter says in part:

"Americans have never been more heartily hated in Mexico than they are now by the very group of men whom President Wilson has so near his heart, mistaking them, to be sure, for the real Mexican people, which is now suffering the most cruel tyranny in its history. The Mexican people is helpless before the power of their oppressors, who spend all the national treasury and the national wealth of the country and impose extortionate exactions on them to a point which seems almost incredible. The Mexicans do not believe any more in their liberators, just as often they despair of the justice of their neighbors, because the practical application of the beautiful principles proclaimed by the President has been a failure in Mexico. The war to make democracy safe in the world and to secure the right of peoples to choose their own obedience may be a reality outside of Mexico, but here it does not look so.

"To make such foolish declarations as those attributed to certain members of President Wilson's official family, which largely contribute to discourage and depress the Mexican people so profoundly that they are only able to bend their necks before their oppressors, is what President Wilson calls not to intervene in the internal affairs of Mexico, while he has done nothing else than to intervene in the last six years both by moral and material force.

"Why does not that love of fair play which is the boast of every Anglo-Saxon now come into play, and Wilson, Polk, and Fletcher leave the Mexican people alone to work out its own salvation?

"If the American Government would follow the example of England and allow the Mexican factions, or whatever name they may be pleased to call them, to fight on equal terms, some real Mexican Government may result in the end—not the sham Government which they are supporting now, unworthy of the civilized world, even before the gigantic fight for democracy, but more so after the peace at Versailles, where there was no room for such a Government."

SAYS BERLIN BARRED WILSON MEDIATION

Hindenburg Declares Bernstorff Was Told to Give Dilatory Reply in 1917.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Aug. 14, (via Copenhagen.)—The newspapers still publish columns of revelations and attacks against Erzberger and other members of the Government, to which the latter sometimes reply by publishing documentary evidence intended to fasten culpability on the loudest reactionaries. The reactionaries, in trying to whitewash themselves, have meanwhile almost unconsciously been assailing each other, increasing the general confusion.

One of the latest publications on the subject is "The Twentieth Century," a new Scherl publication, which prints a letter by Field Marshal Hindenburg to Prince Maximilian of Baden, dated Oct. 16, 1918, in which the Field Marshal sought to convince the last Imperial Chancellor that it was not General Headquarters, but Dr. Bethmann-Hollweg and the Foreign Office who thought so little of the prospects of President Wilson's peace mediation that the relentless U-boat war was permitted to cross all the President's reported efforts. Hindenburg's letter mentions a number of messages, telegrams and reports, including personal observations, all of which were intended to convince Prince Maximilian that if Bethmann-Hollweg had represented Wilson's efforts as genuine the relentless U-boat war might have been prevented. Bethmann-Hollweg seemed even jealous to have the "sole and untransferable responsibility for the U-boat war," as he declared in a document dated Dec. 21, 1916.

Hindenburg states that the U-boat war was finally decided upon at the castle Jan. 9, 1917, in the presence of the Kaiser, at which conference Bethmann-Hollweg did not even mention any peace efforts by Wilson, though all present thought that some such negotiations were pending and Wilson was said to have told Von Bernstorff confidentially that he would issue a peace appeal between November and the New Year. On Dec. 12, 1916, he also says, the Foreign Office had notified Great Headquarters that it deliberately intended to cross the reported Wilson plan by itself making a peace offer.

"To avoid any interference by Wilson in peace negotiations," the note ran, "we have decided to answer him in the sense of our own peace offer, which states, however, clearly that we desire direct connection with our opponents."

"Thus the Imperial Government," comments Hindenburg, "rejected Wilson as mediator and on January 7, 1917, instructed Bernstorff as follows: 'American mediation in real peace negotiations is undesirable on account of German public opinion. If asked for our peace conditions, you will please give a dilatory answer.' On January 10 Bernstorff replied that relentless U-boat war would make all of Wilson's peace efforts invalid and that a rupture with the United States would be unavoidable. Nevertheless, on January 16 Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg transmitted the imperial order for the relentless U-boat war, Bernstorff replying: 'We take the risk of a rupture and possibly war with America.'

"Bernstorff, a few days later, made one last attempt to preserve peace, asking Dr. Bethmann-Hollweg to postpone the U-boat war because Wilson had told him he hoped to find a peace basis of equality among all nations, which we Germans had proposed. The reply was that it was too late to recall the order, many U-boats having already started.

"Neither myself nor Ludendorff can therefore be accused of having driven Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg to a dubious policy to adopt the United States."

Not only the officers and Junkers seeking to revive the old imperial glories, but the German "corps student," who wears a colored cap, a sash, and high boots, is also doing his best to preserve pre-war traditions. Today Reinhard Weer, a well-known writer, not long ago a student himself, says in the Vossische Zeitung that he has received twenty-four letters demanding that he fight duels, mostly with pistols, with that many members of the Corps Teutoburgia because, having been wounded in the beginning of the war, he found fault with the students' behavior and publicly said that they ought to be in the trenches instead of being permitted to have nightly orgies. Weer says he is not going to permit those twenty-four to make way with him, but wants the public to know what students in republican Germany think and do.

CLEVELAND CAR PLAN WON.

Tale at Hearing Contrasts Vividly with Massachusetts's Failure.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—Against the gloomy background of the Massachusetts Electric Railways crisis, a first hand report on Cleveland's success with its now famous street car plan stood out vividly today before the Federal Electric Railways Commission.

For two hours Chairman Frederick U. MacLeod, of the Massachusetts Public Service Commission, had spoken of the causes leading to the abandonment of lines in that State to a ten cent flat rate carfare in Boston and elsewhere, and to the calling of a special session of the Legislature to deal with the emergency. There was little hope, he said, that even at the high rates imposed the afflicted companies would be self-supporting. Public ownership, he said, might well be forced upon the State to escape complete destruction of its local transportation systems.

Mr. MacLeod gave place to Fielder Sanders, City Commissioner of Cleveland for Street Railways, and the picture he drew was startling by contrast. The Cleveland plan, he said, has worked out so successfully that recently fares went down 8 per cent. almost simultaneously with a 25 per cent. increase in wages to all employes of the Company operating the roads. The plant, he said, was now rated as the finest surface system in the country, having been completely rehabilitated since the plan became effective.

While features of the plan itself accounted in part for this condition, Mr. Sanders said, the chief reason for the showing made was popular support.

The Cleveland Commissioner cited the recent strike as indicating the necessity of an amendment of the plan to give the city control of wages as well as rate fixing. When the demands of the men were presented, he said, the city council made additional operating allowances to the company to cover the increase, but had not the power to compel the company to pay the advanced wage rates. Although thus protected, he said, the company refused to pay the advanced scale and made the strike the vehicle for a demand on the part of the security holders for a return of seven per cent. instead of six per cent. on their investment. The two-day strike which followed, he said, cost the company nothing, but cost the riding public $80,000 and the city was powerless.

DEFENDS SALE OF VESSELS.

Shipping Board Says Americans Have Equal Chance in Bids.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—Reply was made by the United States Shipping Board today to some of the criticisms that had been made against its recently announced sale of 100 steel ships to the Anderson Overseas Corporation. Denial is made that the sale will prejudice American foreign trade or shipping interests because American citizens are to have the right to buy any of these ships from the Anderson Overseas Corporation at the same price and on the same terms as those given to other buyers.

"The comments which have appeared in the press regarding the sale," says the statement issued by the Shipping Board, "indicate that the situation is not fully understood. The sale covers only vessels of the Frederickstad type, sometimes mistakenly called Lake type, of 3,600 deadweight tons or less.

"The Shipping Board contracted for a large number of these ships during the war emergency, but now that hostilities have ceased we have more of them built and under construction than the American trade can use. They are exceptionally well adapted to the European coal trade or any other trade where light, swift ships are desired for short hauls, but they are not large enough for permanent employment in the transatlantic service. It has seemed wise, therefore, to sell and allow the transfer of register of these ships to the citizens of allied friendly nations in order that in these times of tonnage shortage they may have an opportunity of using to the best advantage a type of boat of which we have an obvious surplus.

"No prejudice to American foreign trade or shipping interests can result from this contract, since any American citizen who may wish to buy a ship of this kind shall have the right to buy it from the Anderson Overseas Corporation at the same price and on the same terms as that given other buyers."

BLOCK BILL TO KEEP OFFICERS IN ARMY

House Leaders Hold Up Measure to Retain 7,500 of Emergency Force.

BIG LOSS ON PLANT FEARED

Lack of Medical Officers to Care for Sick and Wounded Men is Faced.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—Failure of the House of Representatives to act upon the bill, which has already passed the Senate, providing for the retention of 7,500 emergency army officers confronts the army with one of the most serious situations it has had to face in peace times in many years.

Unless this number of emergency officers is permitted to be retained, the medical corps will be woefully handicapped in caring for the health of the 225,000 men authorized to be retained in the army as well as for 35,000 sick and wounded private soldiers, now being cared for. It will also be difficult, if not impossible, for the staff corps to take proper care of $6,500,000,000 worth of plant and property now in possession of the army, as a result of its participation in and preparation for the war with Germany.

The situation which has threatened the welfare of the air service, the medical service, the motor transport corps, the ordnance department, and other important branches of the army was precipitated by the action of Republican leaders in Congress in cutting down the size of the officers' personnel and fixing a limit which was construed by Secretary Baker as forcing him to order the discharge by Sept. 30 of every emergency officer who had been taken into the service for the war.

Loss on Plant Threatened.

The War Department asked for appropriations for approximately 500,000 men as the average strength of the army, for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1920, and for what was regarded as the proper relative number of officers. Congress fixed the size of the army at 11,500 officers and 225,000 men, beginning Sept. 30, according to Secretary Baker's construction of the army appropriation law.

After a careful survey of the situation officers in charge of the various services have informed Secretary Baker that the minimum of officers necessary to care properly for the plant and supplies of the army is 7,500 more than the Secretary feels that he can legally retain in the service after Sept. 30. As the plant and property are worth $6,500,000,000, a loss of 10 per cent. through deterioration from lack of care would amount to something like $650,000,000 during the next ten months.

Upon Secretary Baker's representation that the matter was extremely urgent the bill, which was introduced calling for authority for the utilization of 7,500 emergency officers, was approved by the Senate Military Committee and passed by the Senate promptly. Then it was sent to the House, where it was approved by the House Military Committee, but no action has been taken by the House, and the bill is on the calendar.

Blocked by House Leaders.

Frank W. Mondell, Republican floor leader in the House, has been one of the leaders standing in the way of consideration of the bill, and other Republican leaders have shown no inclination to take it up. What Representative James W. Mann of Illinois, former floor leader of the House and now the power behind the throne of the Republicans in that body, thinks of measures on the calendar, is evident from the remark made by him on the floor Aug. 9. The Congressional Record shows that Mr. Mann made this statement:

"Chicken feed is now on the calendar and that is all. Chicken feed can be disposed of or wasted with no great loss to the country."

The Surgeon General estimates that the services of about 3,350 medical officers are required, but the number of these officers, now approximately 12,000, is to be reduced to 932.

As most of the work involved in caring for plant and property was not essentially military in character, the Secretary of War, in order to facilitate the early return to their homes of drafted men, authorized their replacement wherever practicable by civilians employed at rates current in the localities in which the service was required. There are at present engaged in caring for this property about 185,000 civilian employes. This work is supervised by about 15,000 officers divided among the following principal divisions: Utilites, Motor Transport Corps, Purchase and Storage Division, Finance Division, Transportation Division, Air Service, Ordnance Department, Signal Corps, and Engineer Corps.

"Pike's Peak or Bust," was the half-comic, half-tragic legend carried by the prairie schooners crossing the great plains back in '49. Pike's Peak, then, meant gold. If you didn't find it, you "went bust."

Pike's Peak is there today—more than 14,000 feet altitude—and other equally impressive peaks of the Rockies—Longs and Grays, Buckskin and Ouray, Spanish and Culebra.

And great ranges of mountains, too—Saguache, Sangre de Cristo, San Juan, Uncompahgre, Wasatch, Uintah, Oquirrh—noted in song and story.

But now you go there in luxurious trains, on rails of steel.

There is no possibility of failure, no going broke. Everywhere you find a multitude of wilderness outing joys, just around the corner from resort hotels. And, if you search for it, the fabled pot of gold at the end of the rainbow.

CARRANZA'S WARNING.

It must be clear that in the present temper of the American people, and having regard to the French and British case against Mexico, the State Department at Washington has no intention of exchanging controversial notes with President CARRANZA. Therefore when it is intimated that the United States Government "may be "forced to adopt a radical change in "its policy with regard to Mexico" something is going to happen if there is not a radical change in the attitude of President CARRANZA toward the United States. In spite of his assurances that he is rapidly leading his countrymen into the paths of peace, for proof of which he cites "the con- "clusion of the recent Villa move- "ment, the death of ZAPATA, of "BLANQUET, and of INEZ AVILA," and although he is well satisfied with his measures to protect our nationals in Mexico, the killing of Americans still goes on and Americans are plundered of the fruits of their industry. As a matter of fact, the Villa movement, with General ANGELES at its head, is still formidable, and if ZAPATA has been disposed of his mantle has fallen upon other shoulders, for the agrarian campaign in Morelos cannot be ended by shooting its chief and leader—if he has been extinguished. FELIX DIAZ is still in the field in Vera Cruz, and Oaxaca is an unhealthy region for Carranzistas, while the oil brigands of Tampico continue to defy the Constitutionalists and exact their tribute.

In the Mexican reply to Chargé d'Affaires SUMMERLIN, signed sonorously by SALVADO DIEGO FERNANDEZ, there are the same old hollow phrases for the Mexican "people." It is argued that the Americans in Mexico are themselves at fault when murdered or robbed, because they will "venture to remain, or to travel, in dangerous regions." In effect, this is an admission that after more than two years of ruling Mexico as the choice of her people President CARRANZA is still engaged in trying to pacify the country. It is pleaded that "guilty parties" are always pursued, but the trouble is that the fugitive usually escapes, and sometimes he turns upon his pursuers and puts them to flight. President CARRANZA can think of no alternative for Americans who desire protection but to find asylum in the large cities, but they have a right to reside and do business in any place to which CARRANZA's authority is supposed to extend. Most of them are not living in the areas of insurrection.

The devilitries in the Tampico district would cease, President CARRANZA contends, if paymasters of the petroleum companies would accept the escort of soldiers of the Government, whereas under that arrangement the paymasters would find themselves between two fires and in more danger than ever. The Carranzistas have even insinuated that these American employés have "staged the robberies by "which they lost the company's pay- "rolls," which is grotesque because several of the paymasters and their guards have been killed or wounded from ambush. There is testimony by the Association of Producers of Petroleum in Mexico that "the outrages "have all occurred in territory con- "trolled by, or claimed to be under "the control of, Carranzistas." The truth seems to be that Government troops are impotent to preserve order in the rich Tampico district. Things go from bad to worse there.

President CARRANZA is surprised that the American note contains a "menace." If so, it must be because his failure to protect Americans and their property has been tolerated so long. Did he expect that it would be tolerated forever, that his professions without performance would always be sufficient? Once more an opportunity is offered to the Carranza Government to redeem itself, but it cannot have unlimited time; it must turn over a new leaf and satisfy the reasonable demands of the State Department. Otherwise there will be a day of reckoning not long postponed. CARRANZA must be well aware that, short of actual intervention, there are well-known methods of exerting international pressure and constraint which, if we are forced to adopt them, would have highly inconvenient consequences for him and his pretense of a Government.

A DERISORY VERDICT.

In a libel suit brought for $1,000,000 a verdict for the plaintiff for six cents damages, with his trifling court costs and charges, must inevitably be regarded as derisory. Mr. HENRY FORD's counsel politely assumes that, by the verdict in his suit against The Chicago Tribune, his client has been "vindicated" and "his attitude "as an American citizen has been "justified." The common sense of an impartial public, not without a kindly interest in Mr. FORD's amiable and ingenuous qualities, will see something far different in the meaning of the verdict. Mr. FORD has been submitted to a severe examination of his intellectual qualities. He has not received a pass degree. A genius in his own business, his qualifications as an instructor of the people are not too manifest, and he must feel that his appearances in that rôle are at an end.

The Judge's instructions to the jury were clear and fair. The editorial article complained of was undoubtedly libelous in itself. If it had been true and justified, in the jury's opinion, the verdict would have been for the defendant. If the statements in the article had been considered as "fair comment" upon a public man, as Mr. FORD undoubtedly is, the verdict would also have been for the defendant, even if the jury was not convinced of their truth. Technically, then, the jury finds that the statements were not true and justified, and that the comment was not fair. The headline of the article was, indeed, its most offending part. In assessing the damages, however, at the traditional absurd figure of six cents, the eleven farmers who have not been farming, and the road builder who has not been building roads, in the dreary three months of the trial, sufficiently expressed their opinion of the merits of the case. Both parties are rich, one of them is fabulously so. The expenses to be borne by each will be enormous. The Chicago Tribune's court costs are, of course, but a trifling addition to its bill. At great expense of time and money a valuable public lesson has been given to an innocent capitalist full of the best intentions. That is, let the cobbler stick to his last. Moreover, a jury of twelve men has said, in effect, that a man who takes it upon himself to conduct, or have conducted for him, a propaganda of ideas and policies in order to affect public opinion and great vital national questions and interests, must expect to be criticised and attacked by individuals and by newspapers; and that even a certain haste and regrettable violence of language will not lead a jury to give such a man even moderate damages if his fitness to be a leader and director of public sentiment is demonstrated to be an irreducible and almost impossible minimum.

Mr. FORD is one of the kindest of men. He has done a great deal of good. It is to be hoped that this derisory verdict will do him good; that his orbit will henceforth be a little less eccentric, and his confidence in his publicity agents a little more restrained. To The Chicago Tribune may be commended, without impertinence, a variation of HENRY GRADY's famous saying about General SHERMAN. A good newspaper, but a little careless about headlines.

THE HIDDEN HAND IN GERMANY.

There is a fine mediæval flavor in the story from Berlin of the fishing of dead men every morning from the canals, where they have been thrown by the avenging angels of Spartacism or monarchism. The Vehmgerichte have been revived, it would seem, and revived by at least two parties in the German State. The murder of KARL LIEBKNECHT and ROSA LUXEMBURG, we are to suppose, was no sudden outburst of mob violence, but a carefully organized execution by the representatives of the secret tribunals of reaction; and Spartacus is learning from his enemies, and is sending out midnight assassins to execute the decrees of his own private courts.

The dime novel aspect of this is so flagrant that most readers are likely to think only of the picturesque elements in this new turn of the German psychology. But there is a more serious side to the affair; the Germans were of old a reasonably law-abiding people, though, as the article in last Sunday's TIMES MAGAZINE pointed out, their reputation in this direction was not altogether justified. There was a good deal of crime in Germany, but not for several centuries have the Germans been addicted to secret societies which made and executed their own criminal laws. Respect for Government seems to be very low there at present.

In other ways, respect for Government has lessened everywhere. Other countries have seen this most notably in the demand of special classes for special privileges, to be conveyed to them by the Government and secured by the forces of the Government acting in the interest of a class. The idea of Government as an agency representing all citizens of the Commonwealth, and acting, under human limitations, with a view to the general good, seems to have been discarded by many who would be shocked if any one accused them of adherence to the theology of Bolshevism.

In the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries, when national States were crystallizing and religious wars were being superseded by political conflicts, philosophers of many kinds in many countries sat down to examine the validity of the State's claim upon the citizen, the moral justification and the practical advantages of loyalty. They came to various conclusions as to the source of the State's authority, but almost all of them agreed that the State was something to be obeyed for good and sufficient reason. That is to say, three hundred years ago the peoples of Europe learned why it paid to have a Government; our own generation seems to have forgotten the lesson.

THE WARNING TO HINDENBURG.

The more the inside documents come out concerning the period when President WILSON was supposed by political opponents to have neglected the interests of the United States the plainer it appears that all the time he was caring for them. Nothing could come nearer to proving the fact than the letter of Field Marshal VON HINDENBURG to Prince MAXIMILIAN of Baden.

VON BETHMANN HOLLWEG, the same man who told Germany at the outset of the war that she was committing a crime by invading Belgium, warned HINDENBURG that he would alienate the sympathies of the neutrals if he consented to a general submarine war. HINDENBURG, bent on his purpose, insisted on forcing his way through. It is curious that BERNSTORFF, whom we have little thought of as a man likely to take a courageous position against the German Government, is cited in BETHMANN's letter as a man supporting his position.

It had no effect on the iron man of the German Army. He was as ruthless as his master. The submarine war on the world was ordered in spite of what must have been the Kaiser's reluctance. BETHMANN saw what was coming, and knew that the German Army could not stand up against the soldiers that America would pour into the field. He seems to have been the only responsible man in Germany who got the idea. If ever there is a day of reckoning in Germany, BETHMANN HOLLWEG—and, little as any American would like to say it, BERNSTORFF—should receive whatever medal may be allotted to prophets.

THE BRITON'S TU QUOQUE.

A colloquy occurred of late in the House of Commons upon the comparative merits of our treatment of the negro and England's rule in Ireland; and it was so spirited that Mr. BONAR LAW hastened to smooth it over, fearing that it might strain relations between the two countries—upon which, as he said, "the future peace of the world depends." A member for Suffolk began it. Piqued at being refused permission to devote the day to the black race in Africa, he suggested that the discussion might result in "a graceful act of reciprocity," giving us the benefit of British experience with the negro in exchange for recent tenders from our Senate with regard to the Irish Republic. He was denounced as an "alleged humorist," and then Mr. BONAR LAW rebuked him on grounds of high diplomacy.

Of course, the remark was the bluntest of all tu quoques. Yet, as the French say, it makes one "devilishly to think." There is an underlying similarity in the two situations, remote though it may be. In both cases people whose instincts are mainly industrial and commercial have to do with people who are mainly agricultural, and the result is a lack of sympathetic understanding, and of practical consideration, which too often works itself out in political and social injustice. But it may be doubted whether this was the thought of the member for Suffolk. More probably he had in mind a recent affair in Chicago—as had also President CARRANZA, who made a similar allusion, as it chanced, on the same day. Yet even at that there is occasion for reflection. And when one has finished the train of thought, sealed it in an envelope and pigeonholed it, a question remains as to why we should have been so frank and outspoken whereas the English cry "Hush!" upon the first word of international criticism.

On a judgment which is admittedly tentative, we should say that the English manner is wrong. People of a certain breeding hold that only a very bad little boy or girl cries "You're another!" They would as soon make faces or stick out their tongues. But, under close observation, such people are likely to appear, so to speak, perfectionists with regard to themselves, maintaining an unduly exalted estimate of their immunity from error. It is the part of modesty, and perhaps also of wisdom, for all of us to admit the possibility of imperfection—especially when one is, or lately has been, in the attitude critical. The robuster spirit welcomes the vivacious give-and-take of language. Some words are barbed, to be sure, and leave a sting. But at the very worst they make known to us our vulnerabilities. Surely the English underrate our fortitude under criticism.

Perhaps, however, we are taking the whole matter too seriously. It is possible that the rebuke tendered by Mr. BONAR LAW had an overtone of irony, a crackling coruscation of persiflage, which in the wireless transmission was somehow lost off the bleakly humorless coast of Labrador.

THE THREATENED STRIKE.

The Brotherhood of the Interborough says officially that it has exhausted all its efforts to avoid the strike set for Sunday morning, and "we must seek relief of the public." A better way of appealing to public sympathy might be found, for recollection is fresh of the strike which put the Brotherhood in control of the Interborough's labor affairs. The strike of 1916 was managed by the Amalgamated, and its management was such as to deserve what the Brotherhood says of it. They bombarded the cars with all sorts of hand missiles, regardless of the passengers. Over 1,500 were arrested, and some of them now are in prison for offenses against the public, whatever the excuses. In 1916 it was merely a fight between the companies and the Amalgamated. Now it is a Donnybrook affair, with many hands raised in anger, and scant signs of consideration for the public on any side. The Amalgamated is seeking to organize a field where it seems to have no standing. Therefore there is war between two unions, and the Brotherhood promises to "give these rowdies all the action they are looking for." Also, there is a taint of I. W. W. intervention which bodes no good to anybody.

The Merchants' Association authorizes the statement that it will make independent observations to see that Manhattan is not abandoned to disorder through the strike, as many think Brooklyn was. The greater seriousness of a Manhattan strike appears from the fact that, as calculated by the Public Service Commission, the strike of 1916 inconvenienced 100,000,000 riders, and caused the companies the loss of $5,000,000 in fares. The men lost more wages than any increase could be worth to them. Yet now the Brotherhood is promising to outdo the Amalgamated in violence of procedure, although it testifies that the Brotherhood has always been received in negotiation by the Interborough and has won from the company for the Brotherhood's members more than the Amalgamated won in Brooklyn. Admittedly the case is a hard one, for both the company and the strikers. Admittedly the guardians of the public interest are reckless and ruthless in their policy, which has brought on conditions threatening to be costly in votes through the openly expressed dissatisfaction of the Brotherhood. The good nature of the public in the Brooklyn strike is little likely to be repeated in Manhattan. The relief through public sympathy is hardly to be got by a strike. The public is more in the mood of the President when he said to the brotherhoods of the steam railways, "This must not occur again."

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

His Surprise Itself Is Surprising.

New York's Collector of the Port says that it is "a matter of great surprise" to him that "a woman whose character and reputation are beyond question, who would not dream of doing any other questionable thing, will yield to the temptation to smuggle."

Is Mr. NEWTON really surprised, and greatly surprised, by that? One would have expected that, holding the position he does, he would have had such transgressions by such transgressors brought to his attention so often that they would have ceased to excite in him any feeling at all, except, perhaps, the weariness that naturally results from the too frequently repeated application of the same stimulus.

Presumably such wonder as he has is due to the fact that rich women are just as likely to smuggle as those who are poor, or less rich—that they are even more likely. That does bring another element into the problem, for in the case of the rich woman the desire, like the need, to save money by cheating the customs obviously should be less than that of her sister with a purse less well filled.

And why does the Collector fail to ponder as deeply the case of the man who smuggles as that of the woman? He, too, exists in considerable numbers, and sometimes he is by no means poor. If the women who engage in this sorry business outnumber the men, it cannot be because they are less conscientious; it must be because they are less wont to realize their responsibility before the law, having been tempted more rarely to break it, and being therefore hardly capable of mentally seeing themselves in danger of fine or imprisonment if they do what they want to do.

Criminal in Law, Not Morals.

In the case of both men and women, a strong and evidently ineradicable tendency to avoid, if possible, the payment of import duties on goods bought abroad for personal use or adornment, and not for sale, is probably to be explained by the unlikeness of smuggling, as a crime, to the great majority of other crimes, and especially those that are more familiar.

In the first place, smuggling is wrong, not in itself, as is murder or theft, but merely because it is prohibited by statute. And the object of the statute is not to make or keep people good, as are almost all the rest on the criminal code, but to raise money for Government use. There is, therefore, no sense of moral failure or weakness connected with smuggling of the kind the Collector had in mind when he spoke, and though there would be no difficulty in proving that to smuggle really is wrong, and even dishonest, yet it does not seem so until more thought as to the nature and obligations of civic virtue has been devoted to the subject than it usually receives.

Until and unless such thought is given, smuggling remains a sort of game or contest of skill with the Government, to be won or lost with feelings not much unlike those that follow the winning or losing of other games. Not until conviction of defrauding the revenue carries with it the same disgrace and humiliation as does conviction, say, of ordinary stealing will women—and men—in other ways deserving of their good repute feel bound to abstain from smuggling when they can, or think they can, do it safely. And that will be when there disappears from the human mind the inborn conviction that the right to buy in the cheapest market, and to settle only with the seller, is an inalienable one with which the law should not interfere.

That conviction is erroneous, but it will survive tomorrow and even the day after.

They May Again Be Mistaken.

As if our existing troubles were not sufficiently numerous and serious, we are now warned that with the coming of September there is likely to begin another epidemic of influenza. Memories of our last experience with that malady are still vivid in innumerable minds, and they are terrible enough to make this prophecy more than alarming. There is no need, however, to be panic-stricken, for the forecast is of a possibility, rather than of a certainty, or even of a probability.

There is no disease about which the doctors know much less than about this one. They have solved, as yet, neither the problem of its prevention nor that of its cure, as most of them will confess in their more confidential moments, and though they give valuable advice as to what the victim of it should do after he is attacked, they admit that they have yet to discover how it is communicated from the ill to the well, and that the measures of avoidance they teach are based on little or nothing more than guesses at the doors by which infection enters.

The mystery of immunity from influenza and susceptibility to it remains as dark as ever. This uncertainty is a lamentable thing, but from it can be gained the consolation of hoping that the prediction of another epidemic this Fall will turn out to have been wrong. It has, indeed, no other basis than the fact that there have been such recurrences in the past. Their coming has not been invariable, however, and for the present it will be just as well—or better—to worry about other things, better understood. There are enough of them to go around!

His Veto Well Explained.

Justifying confident expectations, the President again has vetoed the bill to repeal the daylight saving law, and again he has given adequate reasons for setting his opinion against that of Congress—or against the opinion of Congress as expressed in its attempt to repeal that law. That may or may not be the same thing. He says that he has taken this course with reluctance, and admits that the farmers have been seriously inconvenienced by setting the clocks ahead, but he insists that on balance, when all national interests are considered, the law should stand as it is.

His decision will meet with approval from a large majority of his fellow-citizens. They are not indifferent to the wishes of the agricultural element of the population, but they have not been convinced that the farmers could not adjust their work to the new system if they would. Some of them have done so, showing that it is not impossible.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

While we are on the subject of profiteering it might be well to point out the methods of the poor, down-trodden farmer along these lines. Two instances I have in mind are examples of an abnormal and unreasonable price advance on his part. Blackberries grow wild on the farm I have in mind. They cost the farmer nothing to plant, he pays nothing for their upkeep, and the gathering he does himself, or possibly this act is performed by his children. He brings these berries to a small village and asks 30 cents a quart for them.

Maple trees that yield sugar do not have to be planted; that is, they are not like any regular crop, put in the ground each year. They cost nothing to maintain, and the farmer who makes the variety of sugar he sends me does all the work himself. A few years ago I paid 9 cents a pound for sugar. This year it cost me 26 cents. The cans do cost more, but this increase is a comparatively small percentage of the selling price of the sugar per pound.

Try to buy eggs, butter, or chickens, or fruits, or anything the farmer has to sell at his farm, and in ninety-nine cases in a hundred he will first telephone to the store to find out the price of the article there, which price he asks you to pay. He gets the same figure as the grocer charges for similar article, without the grocer's expense.

FIFTY-FIFTY FINNEGAN.

Fifty-fifty Finnegan was our top kicker's name.
Fifty-fifty was the way he played the army game.
Half the dirty work for you
And half of it for me.
Roarin' like Ole Timers do,
Half the time as silent as a silent man can be.

"Come up! Come up! You're away behind!
And stick that belly in!
I'll teach you dam' recruits to mind—
Stand up! You're deef as well as blind!
O God, give me some patience or I'll do a mortal sin!"

Fifty-fifty Finnegan was liberal with his francs—
Never thought of payment back nor wanted any thanks.
If he had a twenty-spot,
Then half of it was yours;
The ten he'd split as like as not
With any Buck to get a shot
Of Rhum—which has a pleasing taste and cheers as well as cures!

Fifty-fifty Finnegan was hated, loved, and feared,
Until a Coal Box bumped him off, and then he was revered.
That's the way it always goes—
It's after you are dead,
Friends are yours who once were foes,
Buddies praise you to your toes

Fifty-fifty Finnegan is absent without leave—
Tellin' off the first platoon
Of angels on the line,
Policin' up around the moon,
Busy in the afternoon
Postin' winged sentinels around the throne divine.

LABOR NEEDS CAPITAL.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The proposal of the railroad employes for future operation of the railways in the country has elements both of wisdom and folly. There is no doubt that the appeal to overhaul the system of profits in industry is one that strikes a popular chord. It is in line with the idea of progress through co-operation. If there is any one lesson that has been dinned into us by the war it is the value of co-operation among all elements for a common end. Co-operation, both industrial and agricultural, will be the slogan of many coming political battles, and, I venture to predict, will find a place in the platforms of all parties.

The folly of the trainmen's scheme, however, is the proposal to eliminate capital, or rather the proposed substitution of public credit for private capital. Experience has shown that private capital cannot be eliminated from industry without increased cost, loss of efficiency, stagnation, and ultimately a lessening of the opportunities for labor.

The theory that capital and labor are at war, that labor is benefited by the elimination of capital, has proved fallacious wherever tried—in Russia, for example. Quite the reverse is true. Capital is as necessary to labor as labor is to capital. While pleading for co-operative management of the railroads, the trainmen have overlooked the necessity of co-operation with capital, a prerequisite to the success of the scheme. Incidentally, the idea that costs to the public will be lowered by the trainmen's scheme, where no party to the proposal is actively interested in reducing expenses, is absurd.

By all means let us have an overhauling of the system of profits, but let us not lose sight of the fact that capital and labor cannot be separated from each other without disaster to both and to the public; and let us also remember that the public is entitled to the benefits of capital in the operation of the means of public transportation.

Let the railroad employes' proposal be revised with the view to sharing the profits of operation between capital and labor, and with the provision that earnings shall be distributed after a reasonable wage for labor, and return on capital between them and the public in the shape of reduced charges. Such a plan would be genuinely co-operative and economically sound.

REACTION IN GERMANY.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I today received the following letter from Munich, dated July 6, which throws some light on present political conditions in Germany:

"Shortly after our conversation, I returned to Munich, where I have since been working as correspondent for the Journal de Genève and the Neue Zürcher Zeitung. Everything has remained about the same as ever here. The traces of the revolution are disappearing rapidly, and one may say that today the reaction has won a complete victory. The new Bavarian constitution, the discussion of which was begun a week ago, reflects no revolutionary spirit nor democracy. The spirit of the old system prevails.

"And why is all this? Just because the people have not been enlightened on the question of guilt. If it knew the past of its leaders and their heavy guilt for the outbreak and prolonged continuance of the war, it would draw a sharp line between the present and the past. But this is not to be expected, however, for today the old wire pullers are entirely in control of the situation. Just read the draft of the new Bavarian constitution and notice how easy it was for the reactionaries to put through their propositions. You will find the reports on it in the Journal de Genève.

"Shortly before my departure I had a talk with Dr. Grelling, the author of 'J'Accuse,' and we discussed the idea of making a speaking tour in America. We thought that Dr. Grelling might talk about the genesis of the war, and I about the development and recent details of the German revolution."

Alcohol in Medicine.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The Senate is to be commended for eliminating the clause, requiring a physical examination before prescribing liquor for a patient, from the House bill for the enforcement of prohibition legislation. It has left untouched, however, the equally if not more dangerous provision "limiting the dispensing by physicians to one pint of liquor in ten days to the same person," but "modified" to provide that such limitation shall apply only to prescriptions to be "taken internally." If this means anything, it means to preserve intact the privileges of the alcohol "bath," a term once used with equal applicability to the internal as well as to the external use of this remedy. It requires only the most superficial knowledge of therapeutics to know that when alcohol is to be of any value in disease it must be given at the discretion of the prescriber and not according to an act of Congress.

It is not necessary to mention the many instances in which such dictation, if strictly followed, would result in death. For this disaster the physician could not hold himself blameless if he limited a patient who needed a pint of liquor a day to a pint in ten days, because such was the law of the land. The law regarding the right of property can safely be broken when necessary to save life by the humblest citizen.

The skilled physician who would break the law for the enforcement of prohibition by prescribing an excess over what is permitted legally to his patient, no matter how dire his extremity, would doubtless be held equally guiltless by a jury of his peers.

Retailers Not All Profiteers.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In all the editorials, newspaper articles, letters written to editors and reports of investigation committees I find no one who recognizes the fact that the high cost of living hits the retail dealer as well as the striking masses. These profiteering retailers are human beings. They have to eat, sleep, clothe their families, and are always "good fellows" when a contribution to charity is asked.

Impartial investigation shows that retailers of foods are getting the same per cent. of profit that they did before the war. I question that statement; the amount in money may correspond, but the wholesale cost is much higher, and what would be 20 per cent. profit before the war is now only 18 to 15 per cent.

We are not at fault for the high prices, at least a goodly number of our profession are not; and may we ask you to be fair to the retailer?

To the Editor of The New York Times:

This country went to war without any selfish purpose. The world war veterans of Cleveland, in petitioning their Congress for a $300 bonus, are showing a selfish purpose, and are not living up to ideals for which we fought.

My army insurance, which I converted into "ordinary life policy," costs me $12.60 a month for $10,000. What I save between army insurance and private insurance is some bonus to me, and I'm satisfied.

We need a petition for a national budget.

SIFTING PROGRAMS FOR RAILROADS.

Points of Agreement Found in the Proposals That Are Based on Private Ownership.

By CHARLES H. GRASTY.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—Heretofore the railroad question has been commonly considered one that almost exclusively affected the stockholders. Now carefully prepared plans have been presented to Congress by the railway owners as represented directly by the railway executives, the railway security holders, the railway employes and the United States Chamber of Commerce, having a constituency of 1,400 subordinate organizations in all parts of the country. In addition to this, different individuals representing economics and finance have also presented plans.

With one exception all of the plans so far presented contemplate the continuance of private ownership and operation with governmental control. The exception is the plan known as the Plumb plan and contemplates the ownership of the railroads by the Government but that their operation shall be under the supervision of a central tripartite board of directors affording equal representation of the classified employes of the companies, the officers and the public. The details of this plan have been developed in hearings before the House Committee on Interstate Commerce and the public has been fully advised as to the nature and significance of the proposal.

It seems fair to say that generally this plan has been looked upon as working a complete and fundamental change in our industrial system, and on that account it has raised questions that go far beyond the settlement of the railroad question. It may be said that the reception given to the Plumb plan by Congress and the public clearly shows that public opinion is not ready to accept such a radical change in the industrial order at this time.

Underlying Principles Urged.

A careful study of the several plans based upon the continuation of private ownership and of the testimony that so far has been given in support of each at the Senate and House hearings discloses that while seemingly much at variance in detail and machinery there are four or five underlying principles, expressed or implied, that are common to all.

These are:

I.—Adequate rates.

It should be clearly understood that if private ownership is to be given a further trial it should be under conditions that so far as possible will guarantee its success. The public cannot afford to make unsuccessful experiments with the transportation system, and no plan based upon private ownership will or can succeed unless there is an assurance of adequate revenue to be derived, of course, from adequate rates and charges.

II.—A limitation of excess profits.

A very large proportion of the business handled by the railroads is of a competitive character, and it is fundamental that the same rate must be charged between the same points over all lines participating in the business. This has resulted in the so-called group system of fixing rates. It naturally follows, however, that while several railroads may run between common points as, for instance between New York and Chicago, they are of varying length and characteristics and a rate that might yield a handsome profit on a particular kind of business carried on one line would yield little profit on another line, even though the management of the two lines might be equally efficient.

Thus a basis of rates designed to yield adequate returns on all the railroads in the group might result in yielding to one line what would be considered excessive profits for a public carrier. This very fact has operated in the past to hold down the general level of rates to a basis claimed to be inadequate by the carriers. It is believed by many that an arrangement whereby the earnings of an individual carrier in excess of an equitable return on the fair value of the property might be divided with the Government would promote the largest interest not only of the public and the railroads as a whole but also of the particular carrier from which the excess was taken.

Proposed Representation of Labor.

III.—Representation of labor in the directorates of the railroads.

One of the strong points made in the Plumb plan and a point that was undoubtedly supported by labor sentiment was for representation in the management. This principle was also recognized and provided for in the plan submitted by the United States Chamber of Commerce. This is one of labor's aspirations at the present time and has the indorsement of a large body of progressive thought throughout the country.

IV.—Federal regulation of securities.

It seems to be universally recognized that the regulation of the issuance of capital securities is not only in the public interest but of the railroads as well. Both plans submitted by the railroad interests above referred to embody this feature.

There are 162 class 1 railroad companies in the United States having annual earnings in excess of $1,000,000 each. It is generally conceded that the transportation requirements would be better served by a smaller number of companies and that a consolidation of separate companies into a relatively small number of large competitive systems would result in more efficient and economical service and at the same time would go far toward solving the problems of the so-called weaker lines.

The question of adequate rates, which is at the very foundation of any plan for private ownership, is one of the hardest problems which confront those who are trying to work out the present situation, and several different formulas have been suggested in that connection. One possible solution, however, seems to have been overlooked in the various plans submitted, although it was known to have received consideration by different members of Congress.

The essential elements underlying railroad credits are undoubtedly better understood by the Federal Reserve Board than any other public agency. Right or wrong, the confidence of railway investors has been shaken by the working of the railroads under the Interstate Commerce Commission. If Congress is unwilling to fix the rate of return, as provided by the Warfield and Chamber of Commerce plans, it is suggested that the Federal Reserve Board be charged with the duty of fixing the basis of return which the railroads should receive, leaving the duty of fixing the rates necessary to yield such return with the Interstate Commerce Commission as at present.

Want Co-ordinated Oversight.

In this summary of the minimum of essentials toward which opinion seems to be converging, many matters of detail of administration and machinery have been omitted. Reference should perhaps be made, however, to the Board of Transportation which is recommended by the railway executives and the Chamber of Commerce. It is argued that while Cabinet positions have been created to give special consideration to the interests of agriculture, labor, commerce, and so forth, there is no officer or agency of the Government charged with the special duty of looking after the conservation and development of the transportation interests of the country.

It is pointed out that this department, if set up, would not only deal with the 265,000 miles of steam railroads, but also with the 48,000 miles of electric highways, the 26,000 of navigable inland waterways, and the 296,000 of improved roads. An encouraging attempt was made under the Commission of National Defense to consider as one problem the whole subject of transportation and to co-ordinate the electric, water, and road highways with the steam lines.

A Cabinet department would undoubtedly be valuable, but the five points outlined above are regarded as immediately essential to the problem which has become so pressing. The Senate and House committees are handling the matter intelligently and earnestly, with due regard to the several interests, but particularly with regard to the public interest as a whole, and the outlook is perhaps more favorable than at any time since the Government took over the railroads.

DINING CAR PRICES.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

On Aug. 9 I left Pasadena on the Sunset Limited, via the Southern Pacific Railway, arriving at New Orleans this morning, the 12th, to take the steamer for New York tomorrow. I was greatly interested in reading newspaper accounts of the war on "Food Profiteers." As an offender in this class, the Railroad Administration should at once purge itself of guilt.

I refer to the food furnished on the dining cars, of which I had a concrete example on this trip. The prices charged were extortionate, showing a net profit of from 1 to 400 per cent., allowing 50 per cent. for operating expenses. The portions were small, the food inferior in quality, and unripe fruit would be served only to be returned as unfit to eat. In addition to advanced railroad fares, we are compelled in order to exist to pay prices for food that would make the Beef Trust blush with envy. There was hardly a passenger on this train but was hungry, and I went to a hotel and got the first decent meal in three days at a price less than charged by the railroad.

A serious side of the question is that this is a menace to health, and a matter that deserves the attention of humanity. How much longer are we to be stung? "Death, where is thy sting?"—Government ownership thy victory?

To the Editor of The New York Times:

THE TIMES has been so generous to us that I hate to appear to take issue with anything it says; but in your editorial on the actors' strike which appeared in yesterday's edition you state:

"If the actors had rested their case on the claims thus stated, they must eventually have won."

It would have been suicide to rest. Weeks ago the managers bound themselves with $10,000 apiece to discontinue the old form of contract in which the Actors' Equity Association was recognized. From that date they issued only their own form, and fear and poverty were driving some of our people to sign it, thus losing us members daily. Who can doubt that within a few months 75 per cent. of the actors would have been forced to give in to what would have appeared to them to be the inevitable. Our people begged us to act before it was too late, and when the vote to strike was put there was not one dissenting vote.

Managers and Art.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

May I, as a professional workman, neither affiliated with actor nor manager, object to a statement of yours in this morning's paper? I wish to deny that the managers are artists. With one or two exceptions, as a class they are not interested in art, know nothing about art, and do not care for it in any way whatsoever.

DOMINIONS IN THE LEAGUE.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Opponents of the League of Nations are constantly seeking to make a bugaboo of the fact that the self-governing Dominions and India have representation in the Assembly separate from that of the United Kingdom. They constantly assume that the Dominion votes are English.

That is not true now, and the evidence multiplies that it will be still less true in the future. It should be well known that in recent years the self-governing Dominions have been negotiating treaties in their own right. As early as 1910 the Dominions had separate delegates at the International Radio Conference by virtue of full powers "granted by his Majesty on the responsibility of the Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs." The same procedure enabled delegates from the Dominions to participate in the Paris Peace Conference.

Arthur Berriedale Keith, who is probably the foremost living authority on British imperial relations, lifts a corner of the veil of the future respecting the status of the Dominions in a letter published by The London Times on July 15. Professor Keith suggests "that the issue of full powers to Dominion representatives on the request of their Governments should be incumbent on the Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs as a ministerial function, excluding any exercise of discretion on the part of the Government of the United Kingdom."

Professor Keith, who has a long and creditable history, both as an administrator and student of British imperial affairs, doubtless makes his suggestion in a semi-official way. Certainly he has participated largely in the preparations for the reorganization of the British Empire, which is recognized as being an event of the very near future. Clearly, if his suggestion is followed and the Dominions secure in theory as they have now in fact the right of choosing their Assembly representatives independently of London, American objections to their being represented would cease to have even propagandist value.

References for Housewives.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In regard to the surety company, why not open a department to investigate housewives, and have references exchanged? How will a servant know what kind of a home she is to enter? It is a well-known fact that in some homes the housewife indulges in drinking and smoking, but she would not approve of her servant doing the same.

How will the servant know that the housewife is capable of paying when it is due? Is it always the servant that is dishonest? No, indeed! In a great many homes you will find linen and silver from different hotels.

PRESIDENT VETOES DAYLIGHT REPEAL

ADVOCATES PLAN NEW FIGHT

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—President Wilson for the second time has defeated the repeal of the daylight-saving law. His veto was sent to the House today, but was not read because the House adjourned for lack of a quorum before the message could be laid before it. Democratic and Republican leaders, representing the agricultural sections, declared tonight that they would be able to command enough votes to pass the bill over the President's veto.

The President's message vetoing the bill follows:

"I return this bill, H. R. 3854, 'an act for the repeal of the daylight-saving law,' without my signature, but do so with the utmost reluctance. I realize the very considerable and in some respects very serious inconveniences to which the daylight-saving law subjects the farmers of the country, to whom we owe the greatest consideration and who have distinguished themselves during the years of the war. But I have been obliged to balance one set of disadvantages against another and to venture a judgment as to which was the more serious for the country. The immediate and pressing need of the country is production, increased and increasing production, in all lines of industry. The disorganization and dislocation caused by the war have told nowhere so heavily as at the industrial centers, in manufacture and in the many industries to which the country and the whole world must look to supply needs which cannot be ignored or postponed.

"It is to these that the daylight-saving law is of most service. It ministers to economy and efficiency, and the interest of the farmer is not in all respects separated from these interests. He needs what the factories produce along with the rest of the world. He is profited by the prosperity which their success brings about. His own life and methods are more easily adjusted, I venture to think, than are those of the manufacturer and the merchant.

"These are the considerations which have led me to withhold my signature from this repeal. I hope that they are considerations which will appear to the thoughtful judgment of the House, and in the long run to the thoughtful judgment of the farmers of the country, who have always shown an admirable public spirit."

Republican Leader Mondell said today that the majority leaders had not yet determined whether the veto would be sent to the Agricultural Committee for consideration or brought up formally in the House for acceptance or rejection. Those opposed to the continuance of the daylight-saving law are hopeful that the House will not act upon the veto until there is a full House present some time next week.

"I think there is an excellent chance that the House will be able to pass the daylight saving repeal over the President's veto," said Representative Mondell. "The fight is now a straight-out fight on the daylight saving law. Since the fight began for repeal, the farmers, who lead the movement for repeal, have been joined by many other people, including laboring men and school teachers. I believe that a majority of people in the country now want the law repealed."

The bill which the President repealed passed the House by a vote of 233 to 132, and on the first attempt to pass the repeal over the President's veto, when it was a rider to the agricultural bill, eight votes were lacking of the necessary two-thirds.

Lights Extinguished When Lightning Hits Electrical Plant.

Coney Island was dark for an hour last night following a storm that put the main electric lighting plant out of operation, and the 50,000 men, women, and children, many of whom were driven from the beaches by the rain, crowded for shelter into the lightless amusement resorts, restaurants, and train sheds. They remained in the darkened places from 9:40 to 10:40 o'clock, when the plant was repaired and the lights worked again. Current for the street lights and most of the resorts is supplied by the Brooklyn Edison Company branch at West Fourteenth Street and Railroad Avenue. One of the heavy feed wires of the plant was destroyed by lightning.

Thousands of people in the amusement places and moving picture theatres fled to the streets when the lights failed, but when they found the roadways dark also and the storm at its worst they rushed back to shelter. Scenic railways and other attractions depending on electricity for power were stopped midway of the trips and the pleasure seekers had to alight from cars on high trestles and walk in the dark to the landing stations. Police Captain Byron Sackett sent out all the available reserves to quiet the crowds.

Some parts of Brooklyn were flooded as a result of the storm. At Nostrand Avenue and Fulton Street, where surface cars of the Nostrand Avenue, Lorimer and Fulton Streets, and Ocean Avenue lines cross, water in the streets made it impossible for passengers to alight or board cars. The flood extended throughout the Wallabout and Flushing districts, and frequently motormen could not find switches in the water covered tracks, and cars and passengers were marooned.

Lightning hit the wires leading into Police Headquarters on Poplar Street, extinguishing the lights, and temporarily interrupting the telegraph and telephone systems.

SEEK MOTIVE FOR INQUIRY.

Anti-Prohibitionists Ask Reason for Federal Liquor Inventory.

The Association Opposed to National Prohibition, with headquarters at 19 West Forty-fourth Street, yesterday gave out a statement dealing with a letter from Internal Revenue Commissioner Roper to the collectors of revenue throughout the country, which directs them to ascertain the exact amount of whisky, wines, and cordials held July 1 by the handlers of beverages "now under ban." The statement reads in part:

"Is this letter a threat or a promise? Some of the dealers are wondering whether the question of property rights has proved a stumbling block to constitutional prohibition, so that a plan is on foot at Washington to take over the stocks and pay the owners for them. On the other hand, certain of the dealers think that the motive is punitive, and that the Government is simply trying to keep tabs on the supply on hand July 1 so as to be able to calculate how much of it has 'evaporated.' Perhaps the mystery will be cleared up from Washington in a few days."

ACTS ON PLUMB CHARGE.

Huddleston Demands Investigation of Alleged Railroad Conspiracy.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—An investigation of the allegations by Glenn E. Plumb, counsel for the railway unions, that the railway "interests" are beginning "a political conspiracy" to validate past misdeeds in management, was demanded today by Representative Huddleston of Alabama, Democrat, through a resolution he introduced in the House. The resolution directs that the Speaker appoint an investigating committee of six representatives.

Without naming the author of the Plumb plan, Representative Huddleston says in the preamble of his resolution:

"Sensational charges have been made before the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce by the responsible representatives of 2,200,000 railroad employes that the railroads of the United States are seeking to validate billions of fraudulent capitalization, thereby burdening the American people in their cost of living with unjust and oppressive charges for transportation. If this gigantic fraud has been perpetrated, the American people are entitled to know it."

The charges are enumerated in the resolution as follows:

"1. Whether it is true, as charged, that the railroads have fraudulently issued vast sums in securities in excess of the consideration paid therefor, and, if so, the extent of such usurpation.

"2. Whether it is true, as charged, that such railroads have expended on their properties out of excess earnings large amounts received by them as payment for such service, and, if so, to what extent and amount, and how far such expenditures are now represented in their investment accounts.

"3. Whether it is true, as charged, that gifts, grants, aids, and donations of great value made to said corporations in aid of the construction of their railways have been appropriated to the private benefit of promoters or capitalized against the public in property investment accounts, and, if so, to what extent.

"4. Whether it is true, as charged, that payrolls of the railroads while under Government control have been padded for political purposes, and, if so, on whose responsibility such expenditures have been made and the extent thereof.

"5. Whether it is true, as charged, that while under Government control the managers of the railroads have spent large and unnecessary sums for the maintenance and renewals of their properties, and for overcoming past depreciation, and, if so, to what extent, and on whom rests the responsibility therefor."

The resolution was referred to the Rules Committee.

SUE GARVAN FOR TYPHOID.

Hamilton County Residents Ask $125,000 Epidemic Damages.

TROY, N. Y., Aug. 15.—Seven suits for damages, aggregating $125,000, have been brought against Francis P. Garvan and his wife, Mrs. Mabel Garvan of New York, daughter of Mrs. Anthony N. Brady of Albany, by residents of Saranac Lake, Tupper Lake, Malone, and Plattsburg, as a result of the epidemic of typhoid fever among the men employed in the construction of Kamp Kill Kare on Racquette Lake early in the Summer of 1916. Mr. Garvan now resides in Washington, D. C., having recently been appointed Alien Property Custodian.

The men became ill while engaged in the reconstruction of the old Timothy L. Woodruff camp at Arietta, Hamilton County, between April 1, 1916, and July 5 of the same year. There were 129 men employed on the job when the typhoid epidemic started and a number of them died, including Joseph Demars of Saranac Lake.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—"The first hundred thousand" of recruits have been obtained for the permanent regular army, General March, Chief of Staff, announced today, and of these more than 68,000 were re-enlistments. It is estimated that an average of five of every hundred men discharged from the temporary forces since the recruiting campaign began have decided to rejoin the army.

"This seems to us a high rate from an emergency force in which the vast majority were in uniform only for the period of the war," General March said.

"From every evidence obtainable, the recruits and re-enlisted men seem an exceptionally high class. They have joined the army for the chance of betterment it has offered. The army is going to do its best to make them glad of their decision."

FRENCH PUNISH PROFITEERS

Confiscate Illegal Gains of Sugar Sales in Alsace.

STRASBOURG, Aug. 15.—M. Stephane, Director of the Bank of Alsace, another official of the bank and Schönferber, a theatrical manager, convicted in the Correctional Court of illicit sugar dealing, were sentenced yesterday.

Evidence was introduced at the trial to show that M. Stephane, a large stockholder in the Erstein Sugar Refinery, gained control of the plant after the German manager was expelled and sold eighty carloads of sugar. Twenty carloads, it was testified, were sold through Schönferber at an enormous profit.

M. Stephane received a jail sentence of six months, which was suspended, and was fined 60,000 francs. The official of his bank, who was also involved in the case, was fined 10,000 francs. Schönferber was sentenced to a year's imprisonment and a fine of 60,000 francs.

MAYOR HANSON ASKS PICKED IMMIGRATION

Also Wants Destinations Selected for Those Who Are Permitted to Enter.

BASED ON NEED OF LABOR

Special to The New York Times.

SEATTLE, Aug. 15.—Mayor Ole Hanson, in an address today before the National Editorial Association, proposed a plan to foster Americanism by improving the condition of teachers, fostering home and family, and inaugurating the selective admission and scientific distribution of immigrants.

"During the last 100 years we have admitted over 30,000,000 aliens," said Mayor Hanson, "most of whom have been assimilated and become real American citizens. The haphazard method of their admittance and the lack of scientific distribution, however, have resulted in many undesirables coming to our land and also in the herding together of large numbers in the congested districts of our large cities, creating slums, with all their attendant evils.

"It seems to me that we must stand for the selective admission and scientific distribution of aliens. Suppose the intending immigrant was compelled to pay, say, $50 to our representative in a foreign land, to be used for the purpose of investigation and examination, the prospective citizen to sign a questionnaire giving full particulars of himself and his experience, in order that we might be informed as to his record, training, and character. If, then, the intending immigrant is found to be all right, and we find we need such a person in some part of our country, he would be allowed to enter; but his destination would be that part of our country where he is needed.

"Under our present system thousands of experienced, skillful farmers stop in our great cities and become sweatshop workers. This is abhorrent to all order and efficiency. It is a pure waste of human material.

"I have known thousands of men to be idle in New York City while thousands more get off the boats from farming districts and remain in New York instead of going to Kansas or some other farming State where men are badly needed. This makes it bad for our country and increases unemployment in our cities.

"It is my belief that the affairs of the United States should be conducted primarily for the United States. The plan of selective admittance and scientific distribution would be of mutual benefit to the immigrant as well as to our country."

Mayor Hanson said in regard to school teachers that in 1918 the average teacher's pay for the United States was $1.48 per day. This year the pay will be $1.63. The treatment of educators, he said, made them feel hostile toward the Government, and if a private employer paid such wages the people would tar and feather him.

"Next month," he continued, "25,000,000 children go to these 750,000 teachers to study and have their characters molded. It must be that you can see the outrageous wrong of such a condition. If you blink at the wrong, how about the danger to our institutions when the teachers are antagonistic? I wish to make one request of the editors present and that is to demand from the school boards adequate compensation for teachers at once."

FORGIVES HER SON'S SLAYER

Irving Dezendorf, seven years of age, of 176 Marion Street, Brooklyn, who caused the death of his playmate, Joseph Murphy, 8 years, of 171 Marion Street, by accidentally hitting him in the eye with an arrow fashioned from an umbrella rib last Thursday, was arraigned yesterday in the Children's Court, before Justice Charles J. Dodd.

As the child was led toward the rail a woman, clad in mourning, stepped up. She was the mother of the slain child.

"Judge," she said, "I wish you would let this child go. I am the mother of four children and I realize that my child lost his life in an accident. It might have been my own boy who stands here today."

"Mrs. Murphy," Justice Dodd answered, "I think you have taken a proper view of this matter. Your little boy may be the better off, because when Irving grows old enough to realize what he has done it will be terrible for him."

"May he never realize what has happened," answered the bereaved mother.

A few minutes after the arraignment of the Dezendorf boy, the case of Salvatore Butto, 13 years of age, of 58 Union Street, was called. On June 30, Salvatore while playing with a loaded revolver accidentally shot his mother. She died later. He told Justice Dodd that he pulled the trigger in play and then broke into tears as the scene was recalled to his mind. Justice Dodd also dismissed the case against him.

ARMOUR WELCOMES GIFT OF BROGANS

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 15.—Members of the Builders' and Traders' Exchange were so moved by the stories told by Ogden Armour and Roger Sullivan of the way in which they made their old shoes do extra service, that yesterday they took up a collection, mostly nickels and dimes, to buy them both shoes—sturdy hob-nailed brogans. When Mr. Armour heard of this he wrote John J. Sullivan, President of the exchange, a letter thanking him for the shoes. In the letter he said:

> My Dear Mr. Sullivan: I learned on reading the morning's paper of the intention of the Builders' and Traders' Exchange to send me a pair of shoes. I am inclosing my address so that by no chance will the shoes go astray. Your touching indorsement of the principle of conservatism is much appreciated.
> Instead of stopping with a pair of shoes, why not present me with a wardrobe for a year? My wants are very reasonable, because I regard clothes from a utilitarian standpoint rather than the decorative. One overcoat usually lasts me for two years, and this happens to be the year when I must have a new one. You will not need to buy me a hat, because the felt one which I have used for the last five years is still in good condition, and the application of a little black ink now and then enables me to use the derby, which I like so well, and which feels so comfortable on my head.
> Ordinarily I am content with two suits of clothes each year, and you will not need to pay more than $75 each for them, because I am not keen for fancy stuff. My other needs may be summed up like this:
> One straw hat at $3.
> Six shirts at $5 each.
> Three neckties at $1 each.
> Six suits of underwear. (I find part wool and part cotton more comfortable than all wool.)
> Two dozen pairs of black lisle socks.
> Two pairs of silk socks for state occasions.
> You need not bother with such things as handkerchiefs or collars, because I am well fixed in this respect.

FIRST PATHFINDER FLIES.

Scout for Recruiting Tour Carries Copies of The New York Times.

HAZELHURST FIELD, L. I., Aug. 15.—The first airplane of the All-American Pathfinder, an aviation recruiting unit which will make a transcontinental tour, left here shortly before 2 o'clock this afternoon. It was piloted by Lieutenant Kenneth C. Leggett of the Department of Aerial Information, Routes, and Mapping, and the observer was Second Lieutenant Carl D. Guenther. They flew for Bustleton Field, near Philadelphia.

Seven other machines are ready to fly, and it is planned to send away four more tomorrow and three on Sunday. The first plane will act as scout all the way unless disabled, sending back word about landing fields and other information valuable to the main body of machines. It is to go tomorrow from Bustleton Field to Middletown, near Harrisburg, Penn.

The airplane carried copies of the Sunday Pictorial sections and the Sunday Magazine section of THE TIMES of this Sunday, of the Mid-Week Pictorial section of THE TIMES of August 14, of The Current History Magazine of THE TIMES for August, and of the daily edition of THE TIMES for yesterday. These copies were sent to the editors of the Record, the North American, The Inquirer, The Bulletin, The Press and the Public Ledger of Philadelphia, and to the University of Pennsylvania, Governor Sproul of Pennsylvania and Mayor Smith of Philadelphia.

"Philadelphia.

"To the Editor of THE NEW YORK TIMES:

"The Public Ledger is in receipt today of the package containing copies of THE TIMES sent here in the first Pathfinder Airplane, through the courtesy of the pilots, Lieutenants Kenneth C. Leggett and K. D. Guenther.

ETNA TO MEET PERSHING.

ROME, Aug. 14.—General Etna, commander of the army corps of Turin, has been ordered by the Italian Government to go to Modane to receive General Pershing when he comes to visit Italy. The American Commander-in-Chief will also be greeted there by General Lucca, special representative of the Minister of War, and five officers of the General Staff. Colonel Mervyn C. Buckey, military attaché at the United States Embassy, will also go to Modane to meet General Pershing.

2 KILLED IN AIRPLANE FALL.

Lieutenant and Newspaper Reporter Are Victims at Paducah.

PADUCAH, Ky., Aug. 15.—Lieutenant James D. Stewart of Parkfield, Memphis, and S. Reed Campbell, a reporter for The Commercial Appeal, were killed when the army airplane in which they were giving exhibition flights fell near the Country Club here tonight at 7:30.

The pilot was attempting to make a third loop when he lost control of the machine.

applause, and took his seat in an automobile with the Duke of Devonshire and Lord Hamilton. The Prince's car headed a long procession. Among the notables in the parade were Sir Robert Borden, Lieut. Gov. Pugsley of New Brunswick, Governor Milliken of Maine, Premier W. E. Foster of New Brunswick, Sir Lionel Halsey of the Prince's entourage, and a number of civic and provincial officials. The Prince was driven through the streets from Reed's Point to the armories, a distance of about two miles.

At the armories the Prince was presented with addresses on behalf of the city and Province, and replied briefly, regretting that he was unable to remain in St. John longer than one day.

The heir to the British throne was entertained at luncheon by Premier Foster, and afterward drove to Rothsay to attend a reception given by Lieut. Gov. and Mrs. Pugsley. He was scheduled to return on board the Dragon at 7 o'clock this evening, when the cruiser will sail for Halifax.

There was a touch of self-consciousness in the Prince's manner, almost suggestive of shyness. He showed a keen interest in every one and everything around him, and his manner toward those presented to him was one of simple friendliness. A quick, pleasant smile accompanied each handshake, and the same friendly smile was directed toward the cheering crowds as the Prince saluted in recognition of cheers.

Touched by City's Welcome.

The reply of the Prince to the address from the City of St. John follows:

"I thank you for your kind words of welcome which have touched me very much. The City of St. John was founded by the men whose loyalty to the British throne and empire rose triumphant from a terrible ordeal, and I know that the spirit of your founders is still strong in you today. It is a special pleasure to me that the first Canadian city which I am privileged to see should be this 'city of loyalists,' and I desire to greet it through you as warmly as you have greeted me.

"You have referred most kindly to the modest part which I was able to play in the great war from which the empire has just emerged. It was my privilege to serve with many of your fellow-citizens on the western front, and through all that period I valued deeply the opportunity afforded me for forming a real and close acquaintance with my Canadian brother officers and men. I share your pride in their achievements and I mourn with you the heavy losses which Canadian homes have incurred.

"I thank you also for the warm expression of your loyalty to my father, the King, which I will not fail to convey to him on my return. In his name I am happy to wish new progress and prosperity to the city of St. John."

In reply to the address from the government of New Brunswick he said:

"Yours is the first official welcome which I am privileged to receive on Canadian soil and I am deeply touched by the warmth and loyalty of your address.

"You have spoken of the affectionate regard for my father, the King, in this and every province of the Dominion. I can assure you that the warm regard for his Canadian subjects, which he was able personally to express to you some years ago, is even stronger today, since it includes a deep appreciation of the new and splendid services of this Dominion to the throne and empire during the war, and a constant sympathy with those on whom the struggle has brought disablement and loss. I will gladly convey to him this renewed expression of your loyalty to his house.

"I greatly appreciate your reference, too kind although it be, to my own services as a junior officer in the war. My first real knowledge of the splendid nations of the British Empire was formed, gentlemen, in the trenches, camps, and billets of the western front. Comradeship in the field is the surest of all roads to understanding between men of different climes and ways of life, and I have come thereby to know my brother Canadians in all the conditions incidental to service in the field, in and out of line.

"New Brunswick gave its sons in generous measure to the great cause for which the empire fought, and I share to the full your pride that they proved worthy of those founders of your province who sacrificed their all for loyalty to British institutions and the British throne.

"I agree with you, Mr. Premier, that common service and common sacrifice have drawn the nations of the empire even more closely together than before. We have seen our British principles and ideals sharply outlined before us in the burning light of a supreme emergency and we have learned more clearly thereby what the unity of the British Empire means both to ourselves and to the world at large."

In his address at the Union Club the Prince said:

"This is a red-letter day for me, as I have just set foot for the first time on Canadian soil. It is a day to which I have eagerly looked forward and which I can never forget.

"I hope this feeling of mine will be shared by all of you. I want Canada to look on me as a Canadian, if not actually by birth, yet certainly in mind and spirit, for this, as the eldest son of the ruler of the great British Empire, I can assure you that I am. I value my Canadian friendships deeply. I hope to make many more, and it will always be my earnest endeavor to prove myself true to these friendships and worthy of your trust.

"We owe an imperishable debt not only to your sailors, soldiers, and airmen, but also to those who remained at home to carry on your industries, and to the women of Canada, whose help was inestimable at home and at the front."

IMMIGRATION CURB PROPOSED IN SENATE

SOLVES ASIATIC PROBLEM

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—Complete revision of the United States immigration laws was proposed to the Senate today by Senator Dillingham of Vermont in a bill presented by him.

In addition to putting a definite yearly limit on immigration from Europe, the Dillingham bill would repeal all existing laws relating to Asiatic immigration, including the Chinese exclusion law, the passport provision which is the basis of the gentlemen's "agreement" with Japan, and the provision of the act of 1917, denying admission to inhabitants of certain portions of Asia and adjacent islands.

European immigration would be limited by the bill, after July 1, 1920, to 5 per cent. of the persons of each nationality then residing in the United States. That is, all Englishmen above 5 per cent. of the total number of Englishmen then living in the United States would be excluded from admission under the bill's general provision.

Exceptions are provided in the case of near relatives of persons living here, and authority is given to the Secretary of Labor to raise the percentum limit if, in his judgment, such action is justifiable as a measure of humanity.

"While it is believed that the percentum limit will prove of vast importance in improving relations with Oriental countries," said Senator Dillingham in a statement regarding his bill, "and especially with Japan, by removing any possible cause of friction over immigration discrimination, the primary purpose of the bill is to fix a definite limit to the future immigration of laborers, particularly from Southern or Eastern Europe, thereby preventing a possible, if not probable, repetition of the enormous influx of such immigration which prevailed prior to the war, and which the Immigration Commission found to be highly detrimental to labor conditions in this country.

"It is believed that the percentum plan will establish the limit of the possible immigration of laborers from Southern and Eastern Europe at a little more than one-third of the average annual influx before the war, but that it will not materially interfere with resumption of the normal flow from Northwestern Europe."

Senator Dillingham quoted figures to show how the hitherto normal flow of immigration from the three principal sources might be affected by the 5 per cent. limit. These figures follow:

Southern and Eastern Europe and Turkey in Asia—Average annual immigration, 1910-14, 738,607. Permitted under Dillingham plan, 256,469.

Senator Dillingham said the bill was a result of years of study of the Immigration Commission and Chairman of man of the former United States Immigration Commission, and Chairman of the Senate Committee on Immigration.

CHEAP WHISKY KILLS TWO.

Wood Alcohol Cases to be Investigated in the Bronx.

Following the death of two men and the serious illness of a third from wood alcohol poisoning at the Fordham Hospital yesterday, District Attorney Francis Martin has ordered an investigation into the illicit selling of whisky by local dealers in the Bronx.

Two of the victims, Alex Schvervisky of 1,706 Washington Avenue and Frank Gollaski of the same address, attended a dinner at their home at which some whisky was brought in and drunk. Schvervisky collapsed soon after the meal and died at the hospital shortly afterward; Gollaski walked away from the house, but collapsed at the corner of Tremont and Third Avenues, and is now in a serious condition in the same hospital.

At about the same time Isaac Peters, 76, of 1,717 Fulton Avenue, died in Fordham Hospital, and an autopsy disclosed that both he and Schvervisky had died of alcohol poisoning. District Attorney Martin believes that all three men were poisoned by cheap whisky bought in the neighborhood, and he will try to convict the person or persons implicated in the sale.

SPUR IS A LENGTH BEHIND

Special to The New York Times.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Aug. 15.—Commander J. K. L. Ross's great campaigner Cudgel came back to the races today after an absence of many weeks and proved that he is again ready to meet all comers. This son of Broomstick, which has been one of the best winners in his owner's stable, celebrated his return by winning the Hudson Handicap at a mile and three-sixteenths, defeating Spur, Valor, Beaverkill and Orestes.

Cudgel had not raced since May, when he finished third to Royce Rools and Straight Forward at Jamaica, and his race today was his third appearance of the whole season. He won a race in Maryland in the Spring. Shortly after his race at Jamaica he became lame and was retired for a long rest. He had a bad foot and it was feared he might not be able to race again this season, but his trainer, H. G. Bedwell, brought him along here until he has again reached his best form.

That he is ready he proved today by running one of his characteristic races, coming from behind to take the lead in a close finish but always sure of victory. Cudgel is a normal top weight in any event in which he starts and this was no exception. He carried 130 pounds today, conceding from eleven to twenty-three pounds to the others. He was made the favorite despite the heavy track and his long absence from the races.

Cudgel Trails at Outset.

Cudgel was one of the last to break when the barrier was sprung and was last making the first turn. Valor went to the front with Spur close to him and Orestes running third. Beaverkill was some distance back of the others and Cudgel trailed the field. Johnny Loftus was content to let the others do the early running and never urged Cudgel until he was turning out of the back stretch when he moved up and passed Beaverkill. Nearing the end of the turn Orestes tired and dropped back and Cudgel moved up to third place.

It was not until straightened out for the stretch drive that Loftus made a move on his mount. Then he sent him along and Cudgel responded with his usual willingness. Valor with 119 pounds up, more weight than he likes to carry, could not continue the pace under a drive and Cudgel moved up with Spur running in front. Through the last furlong Spur and Cudgel fought it out, but Cudgel drew up slowly and went over the finish line a length in front.

Loftus gave Cudgel a remarkably good ride, not being in a hurry at any time and relying upon the gameness of the horse when the test came. Cudgel had been so far behind that some of the other jockeys had counted him out of it and were surprised when they saw him coming up on the field. Orestes tired so badly that he was a poor last, Beaverkill beating him though weary himself.

Commander Ross was a double winner on the day. His Queen of the Sea captured the third race for mares at seven furlongs in a very close finish with The Tailor Maid, which ran a fine race after making a very poor start and managed to beat out Dorcas for the place.

Queen of the Sea was nicely rated by Jockey Wessler, and although liking a greater distance than seven furlongs, showed enough speed at the start to keep up with the field until the last turn, when she challenged Dorcas, which had been running what appeared to be a winning race. Queen of the Sea disposed of Dorcas at the head of the stretch, but Tailor Maid slipped in on the inside and came with such a rush that Queen of the Sea seemed defeated at the sixteenth pole, only to come on with another spurt and gain the decision by the narrowest of margins.

Good Thing Proves Bad.

Elected II., owned by E. Sietas, was quite heavily backed in this race, and was one of the good things passed out at the track. Elected II. seemed to be popularly elected until it came to running of the race, when she showed no speed whatever, and trailed in fourth, badly beaten.

Some scandal developed in the steeplechase event today and resulted in the entries of Trainer Silas Veitch being refused for the rest of the meeting. Veitch had saddled Northwood, and his castigation by the stewards was due to the manner in which the horse was handled in the race, which finally went to the favorite, Crest Hill.

Northwood, always a front runner, appeared to be pulled up almost at the start and continued to drop back at every jump. Finally, on the second turn of the field, he refused one of the jumps and failed to continue, though having no accident. The stewards acted promptly on the case and referred it to the National Steeplechase and Hunts Association.

The race was spectacular without Northwood. Mrs. F. Ambrose Clark again started Toppy Nix, but the gelding failed again to jump well. After being schooled for several days, he did clear the water jump, where he fell in two previous races, but he went down on the first jump in the backfield.

Crest Hill Not Hard Pressed.

Crest Hill moved into a good lead and won handily, with Rhomb second. King Fortune lost his rider in a spill at one of the jumps on the last turn, but the rider remounted after the others had finished the race and came on to take third within the time limit.

W. R. Coe's Shoot On, a two-year-old half-brother of Sir Barton, scored a victory in the first race, the Corinth Handicap, defeating Kallipolis and Pilgrim. Shoot On was a 10 to 1 shot, with Kallipolis and Pilgrim about equal favorites. McAtee got his mount away flying and led all the way. The first three were prettily bunched in the final furlong, the winner gaining the decision by only half a length, while Kallipolis was second by a head.

G. D. Widener's End Man, a two-year-old, which has been threatening to win a race all season, finally succeeded in the last event of the day, when Loftus rode him home an easy winner in a field of thirteen youngsters. Star Court, owned by W. R. Coe and the favorite in the event, was second, and Peace Pennant third.

The fifth race at a mile and a furlong went to S. J. Judge's Kilkenny with Gleipner second and Captain Hodge third. Kilkenny was rated away from the pace until the last furlong, when he came through the field and won handily.

PLANNING $100,000 RACE.

Rich Event for Two-Year-Olds to be Run in Maryland in 1921.

Special to The New York Times.

SARATOGA, Aug. 15.—Plans for a race for two-year-olds, to be known as the Maryland Futurity, and which will be the richest event on the American turf, were announced here today. The race is to have $60,000 added, and with the various subscriptions and declarations, will probably be worth more than $100,000 at the time it is run. The first running will be in 1921.

This plan was suggested by R. J. Walden and was taken up by the Maryland Jockey Club. The details of the event have not been worked out, nor a date set for its running. Each of the three Maryland racing associations, those controlling Pimlico, Havre de Grace, and Bowie, will help to make up the purse, each contributing $20,000. The place for the first running will be decided by lot, and after that the race will be run in turn on the various tracks.

The size of the purse is expected to attract the best two-year-olds in the country.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Aug. 15.—Sam C. Hildreth tonight purchased the five-year colt Valor from William Martin for $15,000. Valor, a son of Ballot-Muriel, ran third today in the Hudson handicap, being defeated by Oudgel and Spur. Hildreths offer of $15,000, made some tmie ago, was not accepted and he had agreed to pay $20,000 if Valor won today. After the race Martin agreed to accept $15,000.

A chestnut colt by the undefeated Oolin brought $7,000 tonight at the sale of the yearlings of the Beaumont stud. The purchaser was W. H. Kerrcik, who trains for W. R. Coe. This was the best price paid for any of the horses offered at the sale.

Willis Sharpe Kilmer disposed of a number of horses from his Sunbriar Court. The prices were generally low. Seaspero, by Seaking, brought the best price, $2,000, which was paid by G. R. Tompkins.

WON'T BAN SUNDAY SPORTS.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 15.—Advocates of a liberal Sunday gained a victory in court here today, when Judge Staake refused the injunction sought by Sabbatarian Association and clergymen against the Commissioners of Fairmount Park to prevent baseball games, tennis, and other sports in the park on Sunday.

The opinion rules that, if the participants in Sunday games commit a nuisance in violation of the "Blue Laws" of the State, the remedy is to apply the Penal act.

BREAKS TRIPLE TIE TO WIN AT TRAPS

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 15.—A comparative newcomer to trapshooting, George W. Lorimer of Troy, Ohio, who manufactures phonograph motors when not engaged in the more serious business of training a shotgun on clay pigeons, won the nineteenth holding of the Grand American Handicap here today. This is the banner event of the season in trapshooting circles.

Mr. Lorimer, shooting from the eighteen-yard rise, tied for first place with W. E. Gordon of Mobile, Ala., who shot from the nineteen-yard rise, and Edward Hellyer of Alexandria, Penn., who faced the trap from a distance of twenty-two yards. All three men turned in scores of 98, and a shoot-off was required before the winner could be determined.

The three men were all palpably nervous when, before a crowd numbering about 1,500 persons, they faced the trap for the supreme test. Gordon was the first to crack under the strain, missing his fourth bird. Hellyer came next, missing the seventh, and an instant later Gordon missed his seventh. Lorimer did not miss until the eleventh bird, while Hellyer fell down on both his tenth and eleventh.

Lorimer failed on his thirteenth shot and then ran the last seven straight. Gordon missed his eighteenth, and Hellyer did not allow another pigeon to drop into Lake Michigan.

Lorimer's Experience Short.

Lorimer has been shooting but a short time. He entered his first registered shoot at Piqua on July 4 last. He has made rapid progress and will undoubtedly get a lower handicap next year.

Mark Arie, a former winner of the national championship, was another man shooting from the back mark of 22 yards to get into the prize money. He tied R. J. Moore of Thomasboro, Ill., for fourth and fifth prizes, but lost in the shoot-off. He missed the second and eighth birds, while the only one which his opponent failed to hit was the seventh.

With more than 800 entries, the handicap took all day to run off. Shooting began at 8 o'clock this morning and the last gun was not fired until nearly 7 o'clock in the evening. The day was pleasant with a slight, somewhat gusty wind from the north, which at times interfered with the efforts of the gunners. The general average of the shooting was not quite so high as on the other days of the week, but still high enough to bring up the average for the week higher than was ever before reached in a similar event.

The contestants were favored by the weather throughout, blue skies and absence of wind making the conditions ideal.

Troeh Makes Highest Record.

Frank B. Troeh had the highest record of the week. Walcott Henderson, Mark Arie, and some others, long famous in trapshooting circles, also made remarkable scores, while one newcomer, besides Lorimer, also did well. This was E. L. Edens of Phoenix, Ariz., whose shooting won him second place on the Western team.

George Wright of Buffalo, N. Y., did well, but the 22-yard handicap proved too much for him in the Grand American Handicap. Wright won the national singles championship on Wednesday and Troeh was the other big winner of the week, taking the national 18-yard handicap. The three high guns in today's event each received about $400.

MARINE RIFLEMAN WINNER.

CALDWELL, N. J., Aug. 15.—The rapid fire match was shot here today at the navy rifle range. More than 600 competitors from the army, navy, and marine corps, as well as from civilian teams, participated in the contest. A gold medal was awarded the winner and bronze medals were given to the next nine riflemen. Perfect scores were made by sixteen contestants, but as only ten medals were awarded, those who stood from eleven to sixteen in the contest were not named among the winners. Shooting was at the rate of ten shots a minute.

The score with the extra bullseyes follows:

First, Corporal R. O. Coulter, U. S. Marine Corps, 100, plus 50 bullseyes; second, Private R. Moore, U. S. M. C., 100, plus 49; third, C. M. Gettys, Wyoming Civilian Team, 100, plus 39; fourth, First Lieut. L. S. Spooner, A. E. F. Team, U. S. Infantry, 100, plus 9; fifth, Second Lieut. G. A. Parsons, U. S. M. C., 100, plus 9; sixth, First Lieut. J. L. Pepper, U. S. Infantry, 100, plus 9; seventh, Second Lieut. S. P. Walker, U. S. Cavalry, 100, plus 8; eighth, Gunner's Mate R. R. Ryan, U. S. N., 100, plus 8; ninth, First Lieut. J. J. Gibney, Engineer Corps, 100, plus 8; tenth, Captain M. B. Humphrey, U. S. M. C., 100, plus 7.

Among the events tomorrow will be the regimental team match, open to teams of six men from regiments or battalions of the United States Army or Marine Corps or any organized militia and to teams from vessels of the United States Navy or battalions of the Naval Militia or from naval or military academies. The match will be shot over 200, 500, and 1,000 yard courses.

Other matches shot tomorrow will be a match for the prize Rumbold Trophy, with six medals to the winning team; the veteran team match, shot by six-men teams from 200, 500, and 1,000 yards; the State team match, shot by six-men teams from militia from any State; the off-hand match, standing positions, 20 shots at 200-yard range; the pistol team match, open to all teams from all branches of the service and civilian clubs, and the police team match, a five-men match, open to policemen of any municipality in the country, to be shot at 25-yard range, rapid and slow fire.

GOLF TITLE PLAY TODAY.

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 15.—More than 100 of America's leading golfers, including several former champions, are in Pittsburgh today, preparing for the first qualifying round of the twenty-third United States amateur championship tournament, which will be staged Saturday on the Oakmont Country Club course here.

The course is in prime condition and, according to Francis Ouimet of Boston, a former champion, is the most wonderful he has ever played over. Ouimet and Robert Gardner, twice amateur champion, took a spin around the links shortly after their arrival here yesterday.

Charles (Chick) Evans, the titleholder, will start tomorrow without having shot a practice round over the Oakmont Country Club course. Evans did not appear at the club today and telegraphed a request that he be assigned a late starting time tomorrow.

These nine players were added today to the entrants: Raymond Russell, Country Club of Detroit; Chester Maxwell, Trenton; J. A. Sweetser, Ardsley; Donald Woodward, Columbia; Norman Dorr, Des Moines; E. C. Beall, Uniontown, Penn.; A. C. Ulmer, Florida Country Club; E. C. Cleary, Bala; C. C. Worben, Des Moines.

The 36-hole qualifying journey for the sixty-four high scorers of Saturday will be played Monday, with match play opening Tuesday and the final round on the program for next Saturday.

AUSTRALIANS TASTE DEFEAT IN TENNIS

Both Randolph Lycett and R. V. Thomas, the Australians, who recently came to this country after winning tennis honors in England, were defeated yesterday in the semi-final round of the singles at the Rockaway Hunting Club's invitation tennis tournament at Cedarhurst, L. I. Francis T. Hunter, Cornell '16, won from Thomas in straight sets, 6—3, 7—5, while Robert Kinsey, the young Californian, easily conquered Lycett, the score being 6—3, 6—2.

In the doubles Lycett and Thomas reached the final round by defeating Leonard Beekman and Walter Merrill Hall in a hard-fought match, 7—5, 4—6, 6—3. The Australians will meet the winner of the upper half of the semi-final bracket today. In the other half of the semi-finals are Robert Kinsey and Frank T. Anderson, and Beals Wright and Ichiya Kumagae. Their match is scheduled to be played this morning.

The defeat of the Australians was a surprise to the large gallery which turned out to see the play. Robert Kinsey, something of a dark horse in the tournament, outplayed and outgeneraled Lycett, who had recently won the mixed doubles title at Wimbledon with Miss Mary Ryan, an American girl.

Kinsey appeared cool and fresh at the end of the match of seventeen games, while Lycett was plainly tired. In the second set the California star took two love games. Kinsey's service did not trouble the Antipodean, but his mastership of the court, with his clever placement tactics, tricked the Australian time and again.

Hard Driving Wins for Hunter.

Hunter, whose style of attack is entirely different from the method employed by Kinsey, defeated Thomas by his hard driving. Hunter seems to put every ounce of energy in each of his forehand strokes, using his shoulder and neck muscles to good advantage in adding force to his drives. Hunter's tennis has steadily improved since he left Cornell, where he was Captain of the tennis team in 1916, and played No. 2 in 1915, the year that the big Red team tied with Princeton for the intercollegiate tennis title. Thomas, in his match with Hunter, came to the net continually, trying to cut down his opponent's hard drives, but the Australian could not temper his strokes to keep the hard hit balls within bounds, and he lost many points because his returns were outside by a small margin, at the baseline.

The final match in the singles between Hunter and Kinsey will bring together two players who use opposite tactics. Kinsey mixes his strokes, playing soft or hard as occasion seems to demand, while Hunter counts on his terrific drives to realize points. Neither American had to extend himself in the singles matches yesterday, largely owing to the fact that the Australians do not excel as single players. Their strength lies in the doubles event, and they will give the winners of the upper half of the semi-final round a hard run for the title.

Kinsey Doubles Victor, Too.

Robert Kinsey and Frank T. Anderson won from W. P. Compton and Walter Westbrook, 6—3, 3—6, 6—1, in the third round of the doubles. In the last set, although tired by his previous match, Kinsey extended himself to the limit and played brilliant tennis. Wright and Kumagae defeated H. S. Parker and Charles M. Bull, Jr., in handy style, the scores being 6—3, 6—4.

The turf of the courts was still heavy from the rain of Wednesday, and was quickly scarred by the spikes in the players' shoes. However, the rain last night, providing the sun shines brightly this morning, should put the courts in fair condition for play today.

DOUBLES FINAL TODAY.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Aug. 15.—Although no rain fell today, it was found that the grand stand court of the Longwood Cricket Club was too wet to permit the playing of so important a match as the final of the national doubles championship, which was accordingly postponed until tomorrow afternoon at 2:30, weather permitting.

A defective tarpaulin must be chiefly blamed for the upsetting of the schedule, for, although the court was covered during yesterday's rain, enough water soaked in to give it today a wetter surface than that of several of the outside courts, which had been left unprotected. It was decided by the Tournament Committee early in the afternoon that play would be impossible within the grand stand inclosure today, all four of the players concerned agreeing, and also that it would be unfair to holders of reserved seats to stage the match on an outside court.

A crowd of nearly 1,000 tennis fans who had not received word of the postponement wandered disconsolately about the grounds, railing at fate and gazing now and then at the sign which proclaimed in true baseball fashion, "no game today." They were partially rewarded for their fidelity by seeing the national doubles champions, William T. Tilden, 2d, and Vincent Richards, practicing together, while, later in the afternoon, an informal match was arranged with Craig Biddle and Allen Behr facing the titleholders.

Biddle was the only one of the four to show his real form, and his tennis, particularly in the opening set, was a delight to the eye. Behr supported him well, with defensive lobs and an occasional winning smash, although his ground strokes in general showed that he was not yet at home on turf. Both Tilden and Richards took things easy, trying out fancy shots successfully at times and again falling down on chances that they would ordinarily turn into sure points. Richards pleased the spectators with his overhead kills, which he made with complete confidence from all parts of the court, and his low volleys were often equally spectacular.

Tilden also produced some sensational shots, but kept most of his speed in the background because of the uncertain footing. After three erratic sets, it was found that the scratch team had defeated the champions, 6—4, 1—6, 7—5, a result which may or may not be significant. In any case, it can safely be assumed that Tilden and Richards will be a very different looking team on Monday afternoon when they defend their title against either Norman Brookes and Gerald Patterson, the visiting Australians, or the former American champions, William M. Johnston and Clarence J. Griffin. Tomorrow's match will decide which pair is to challenge.

HARNESS FAVORITES BEATEN

Close Finishes Mark Races on Middletown, Conn., Track.

Special to The New York Times.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Aug. 15.—There was great racing on the Harry Clay Track here this afternoon, when three events were run off, after having been postponed from Thursday owing to the rain. The favorites did not win, and every heat of every race was very exciting. No race was won in straight heats.

One of the greatest crowds seen at a race meet in this section was present, among the spectators being some of the foremost horsemen of the country.

TO RESUME AT GREENWICH.

Tennis Play, Halted by Rain in July, Will Go On Today.

Play in the invitation tennis tournament at the Greenwich Field Club, Greenwich, Conn., will be revived today. This tournament was originally scheduled for decision July 17-20, inclusive, but because of the continuous rain which started on the second day of the tournament, a postponement was necessary. Present plans provide for a conclusion of the tournament Monday. The players who competed successfully before the July rain caused a halt will return for the resumption of play in men's singles and doubles, and mixed doubles, and will be augmented by the Australian team, Brookes and Patterson, and by William M. Johnston, Maurice McLoughlin and Ichiya Kumagae. A number of leading women players are scheduled to compete in an invitation doubles.

MR. DUDLEY LEADS FAST YOUNGSTERS

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 15.—The Grand Circuit meeting, twice postponed by rain and a heavy track, was resumed at Belmont track today with a rearranged program of five events.

The biggest surprise of the day came in the William Penn Stake for two-year-old trotters, with a purse of $2,000, in which the Brook Farm entry, Mr. Dudley, driven by L. Brusie, beat a good field of youngsters, including the Laurel Hall Farm's Natalie the Great. This was the latter's fifth race, and she had never lost a heat until she was beaten in the second heat today in 2:13.

The veteran reinsman Pop Geers had an entry in all five events and won two first and finished third, second, and second in another, the latter race being on the three-heat plan. After Carmalita Hall had taken the first heat of the 2:13 trot, and had finished second to Sam Foreman in the second, Geers brought Kerrigan through the stretch with a rush and nipped Sam Foreman by a nose at the wire in the third heat. He also won the extra heat for winners in 2:11½.

The Bellevue-Stratford Stake, a purse of $3,000, for 2:06 trotters, furnished the fastest time of the meeting so far, the first heat being won by Prince Loree in 2:05½. Wilkes Brewer, formerly in Tommy Murphy's stable and recently handed over to Valentine, was driven by Hyde, and beat Royal Mac, driven by Murphy, in a close finish in the second heat. Royal Mac was awarded the third heat in a driving finish with Wilkes Brewer in 2:05¾, but in the extra heat for winners Wilkes Brewer took the lead at the half, and won handily from Prince Loree.

REDS AGAIN TAKE TWO FROM GIANTS

FIRST GAME HARD FOUGHT

More than 38,000 people were jammed inside of the Polo Grounds yesterday when the Cincinnati Reds defeated the Giants in a double header, taking the first game by a score of 4 to 3 after a seething, hard-fought battle, and winning the second in a 4 to 0 shutout, during which Moran's peppery players outplayed New York to a standstill. The Reds pushed their lead in the pennant race to six and a half games ahead of McGraw's club by taking four of the six games of the tempestuous series, which ended yesterday.

Outside of the park were more than 10,000 frantic fans howling to get inside. The streets were jammed and ticket holders had to fight their way to the gates through the multitude, which was fighting just as hard to reach the ticket windows. The crowd became unmanageable, and the police reserves were called out to quell the disorder. Many who had ticekts to see the games were not able to get near the gates. There were wild scenes around the Harlem ball field in 1908 when the Giants and Cubs had their memorable setto, but that mob was nothing to the great gathering of yesterday.

On Wednesday, at the first double header of the series, the park was jammed, and the fans saw the Giants twice defeated. Thursday threatening weather kept the crowd down and the Giants showed a remarkable rejuvenation and took two games from Cincinnati. Yesterday's ideal weather and the fact that the clubs had each taken two games, brought a crowd to Harlem, the like of which has never been seen. The police believed that the park would be filled again, but they never figured on more than 10,000 being turned away. It was this part of the multitude which made that section of the city a seething whirlpool of humanity all afternoon. At one time the jam at the Eighth Avenue turnstile was so great that the police had to release the surging crowd. They rushed the gates and hundreds jumped over the turnstiles and got inside.

Jam at Speedway Entrance.

The most serious jam clogged up the Speedway entrance to the park. Here there were thousands clamoring to gain admission when the sale of tickets was cut off and the gates closed. The crowd here crashed the gates and the iron railing on the runway into the upper tier of the grandstand gave way and several fans tumbled down onto the concrete floor below. One of these men was badly injured. N. H. Hertzberger of 230 Fifth Avenue sustained a fractured skull. Four other fans fell in the crush and the five injured men were taken to St. Lawrence Hospital. Others slightly injured in the crush were taken to their homes.

Although the competition was sharp and bitter there were no flare-ups on the field. The only blot on the conduct of the crowd came in the second game when the fans in the grandstand back of third tried to hit Sherwood Magee and Jimmy Smith with pop bottles. Half a dozen bottles were thrown at the two Cincinnati players but neither of the visitors was hit. The crowd hissed this outbreak.

The officials of the New York Club could not calculate the exact attendance last night. They knew that as many people paid admissions as on Wednesday but there was no way of making an exact estimate of the number of fans who got into the park through the mad football scrimmages which were directed against the gates. For the first time in the history of the present Brush Stadium fans climbed up over the high fence in centre field and dropped twenty feet down to the bleachers. The surprise of this big baseball holiday was that more people were not injured. Fans took their lives in their hands in wild attempts to get into the park.

Line Five Blocks Long.

At 12:30, there were about 5,000 fans in the park and between that time and 2 o'clock, more than 40,000 people rushed over all transportation lines to Harlem. The jam on the elevated became so bad that the trains unloaded their passengers at the 151st Street station and it was necessary to close the gates leading into the Polo Grounds from the elevated station at 155th Street.

Three or four lines formed on Eighth Avenue and at 1:30 the line extended five blocks down the thoroughfare. Thousands of automobiles were parked in all the vacant lots on Eighth Avenue and on the Speedway. The crowd grew larger every minute right up to 3 o'clock for many people came late thinking they would find no one at the gates. President Charles A. Stoneham of the Giants tried to reason with the fans outside the turnstiles to fall back and take their turn at the ticket windows but the rush was too great behind them and they poured in over the turnstiles in spite of the entreaties of Mr. Stoneham and the police.

The demonstration outside of the park was more confusing than has ever been seen at a World's Series game here because at those times, the police have been prepared for the crush. Yesterday they were taken by surprise and it was difficult to keep them in order.

As a baseball spectacle the first game was a nerve-tingling demonstration of two fighting teams. Jess Barnes, the most dependable boxman of the McGraw outfit, with a record of ten straight victories to his credit, made a monstrous mistake when he pitched a high slow curve close to Hod Eller's chest in the fourth inning. Two runners were aboard the corners at the time and Eller looked like an easy victim to Barnes. He had struck the Cincinnati pitcher out in the second inning with a high ball which curves outside the plate. He tried to do this same thing again in the fourth, but his control was bad and the ball sailed right where Eller likes it. He made a mighty swing and the ball soared among the howling bugs in the left field bleachers. Three runs dusted over the plate on that one mighty swat and it marked the downfall of the Giants. It pushed the Reds in front, 4 to 1.

Fight Hard, but Vainly.

Although the Giants fought tooth and nail to offset this tremendous blow, there was not quite enough power in their seventh inning rally to carry them up to even terms with Moran's victory-frantic men. The big crowd went wild with joy when New York crept up to within one run of the lads from Ohio, and they expected to see them come back in the second game with that fighting spirit for which McGraw's men have been noted. Then when the second game came the crowd moaned with bitter disappointment, for the Giants went down a badly defeated team.

New York's pennant chances are not as bright as they were before Cincinnati came to town. The season is getting along toward the end and Cincinnati is going at a fast clip and is being carried along faster on the momentum of its frenzied pennant drive. Fired with championship ambitions, Moran has his club fighting for every inch. They jabber advice to one another, chatter brazenly at their opponents and regard every decision which goes against them as a colossal mistake and don't fail to tell the umpires about it. They are on their toes and are not even bothered by their own mistakes.

Heinie Groh, the little third baseman of the Reds, who has developed into the best master of the dizzy corner in the game, showed the spirit with which this Cincinnati club is playing yesterday on more than one occasion. In both games, Groh failed to field ground balls cleanly. In the first game Fletcher crashed a hot grounder at him and he fumbled it badly. Not in the least dismayed at this, Groh dove after the ball which he had missed and recovered it in time to throw Fletcher out at first. He did the very same thing on Gonzales in the ninth inning. The Cuban's crack bounced off Groh's feet, but he hopped onto the truant ball and got it over to first in time for a put-out. In most cases, fumbles of this kind would result in bad errors, but Groh refused to give up, no matter where the ball went or how he handled it. True it is that luck was with Heinie, but it was also fighting, wideawake baseball.

Barnes got a bad start in the first inning of the initial game and the Reds pushed over a run. After Rath had been tossed out at first by Frisch Daubert singled to centre. Jake went to third on Groh's single to right centre and Roush's sacrifice fly to Kauff brought Daubert home. The Giants went at the Reds confidently in their half of the first inning. They were not afraid of Hod Eller and his "shine" ball and they went out in the first inning and tied the score. Burns was safe on Kopf's high toss to Daubert and traveled to second before the ball was retrieved. Burns went to third while Eller was tossing Young out at first. After Fletcher had skied to Neale, Zimmerman soaked a single to left and sent Burns home with the tieing run.

Eller Hits for Circuit.

Eller's pitching was deadly to the giants' batting eyes. Before he pitched the ball he rubbed the cover against his uniform. He had wonderful control of the trick service and New York couldn't hit it safely at all.

Barnes got into serious trouble in the fourth. There were two gone in this spasm when Sherwood Magee poked a single to centre. Sherwood was never noted for his speed, but he had the effrontery to try to steal second. Gonzales made a nice toss to Fletcher and Magee would have been an easy out only Fletcher tried to tag the runner before he got the ball. The sphere slipped from his hands and Magee was safe. That misplay of Fletcher's was the turning point of the game and calamity loomed up in large proportions.

Barnes gave Wingo, the Red's catcher, an intentional pass, evidently figuring that Eller, who had fanned in the second inning, would be an easier victim than Wingo. Here is where Barnes calculated poorly. He had two strikes on Eller when he tried to shove over the wide, high outcurve. His control was poor, and the ball came close to the batsman. Eller, who is not a heavy batter, swatted this one as he never swatted a ball before, and lifted it right in among the bleacherites. Three runs trickled over, and the Cincinnati players threw all their bats in the air and did an Indian war dance in front of their dugout.

New York was not beaten yet by any means. The Giants woke the crowd up and displayed dangerous symptoms of being the Giants of old in the seventh. Benny Kauff came out of his trance and jammed a nice single to right. Chase fouled to Wingo, and Mike Gonzales plastered a double to centre, and sent Benny around to third. The crowd by this time was at a high pitch of excitement, and the noise was ear-splitting. Manager McGraw sent Larry Doyle up to bat for Barnes, and the idea didn't pan out very well, for Doyle struck out at this critical moment.

George Burns, however, was dependable. He blistered a single to centre and sent Kauff and Gonzales over the plate and the Giants were now within one run of the Reds. Men chucked their straw hats out on to the field and acted as if they never knew what dignity was. Ross Young brought consternation at this happy moment by poking an easy fly to Magee.

That was New York's only chance, and it was gone. Eller was as tight as a clam when he came up for the eighth and ninth.

Fisher Outpitches Benton.

The second game saw Ray Fisher, the old Yankee boxman, outpitch Rube Benton. Fisher spun a fine game of ball and had the Giants helpless from the start. Benton was invincible for five innings and the affair looked like another one of those long-drawn-out pitchers' battles. Benton, however, took a sudden reversal of form in the fifth when he passed Fisher. When one pitcher passes another pitcher it is usually a sign that the flinger is slipping.

Rariden opened the sixth by skying to Kauff. Fisher then got the pass which put Benton on the chute. Rath whanged the ball into the sod in front of the plate and the ball took such a high bound that Heinie Zim had to wait long for it to come down. Rath was safe at first before Heinie's throw appeared. Daubert soaked a single to centre and filled the bases. Groh, who has been a thorn in the side of the Giants in this series, came through with a line drive which soared over the head of Frisch. The Fordham lad just got his fingers on the ball as it whizzed over him. Fisher and Rath scampered home on the punch and Roush came along with another single and scored Daubert.

In the ninth inning Earl Neale gave a bold performance. Dubuc was pitching at the time and he gave Neale a pass. Neale stole second and then he stole third, and when Magee got a pass, he and Neale worked a double steal and Neale scored the other Cincinnati run.

In the last of the ninth the Giants gave every indication of a defeated team. Instead of coming to the bench when the Giants were coming for their last try at Fisher, Fletcher and Burns walked toward the clubhouse. The crowd surged onto the field in the ninth and the umpires had to put into effect a rule that a hit into the crowd would go for two bases. The rule was not necessary, for, although McCarty, pinch-hitting for Chase, got a single and Snyder walked, Gonzales failed to produce anything which looked like a hit.

BRAVES TAKE BOTH GAMES.

BOSTON, Aug. 15.—Boston won both games from Pittsburgh today, the first 5 to 3 and the second 3 to 2 in fifteen innings.

The overtime game was a duel between Fillingim and Carlson. The winning run came with the bases full and one out on Maranville's single through the box to centre. Carey's centre-field play in both games was brilliant.

Adams did not allow a man to reach first in the opening game until the seventh, when a bad throw by Whitted, another by Blackwell, and six singles gave Boston five runs. With the bases full in the first, Whitted's triple to right scored three runs, Pittsburgh's total. After the first Causey, pitching his first game for Boston, held the visitors to four scattered singles.

GRIMES CHASTISES CUBS WITH FERVOR

Burleigh Grimes piloted the good ship Superba back into a first division berth yesterday and saddened the Chicago Cubs in the closing game of the series at Ebbets Field. Grimes, single-handed, pitched and batted the Dodgers to a victory. The Brooklyn twirler kept the Bruins in check with his effective right arm and with his big war club he drove out a trio of hits in as many trips to the plate, which were responsible for a brace of runs, enough to win. Subsequently another Brooklyn marker was registered on a muff by Barber, but this was entirely superfluous. The score was 3 to 1.

The Brooklyn victory was most opportune, for while the Dodgers were taming the Cubs the Boston Braves were thrashing the Pittsburgh Pirates in a double-header at Boston. The combination of circumstances shuffled the figures in the National League standing, so that the Dodgers appropriated a position with the League's select quartet. Right now the Dodgers are the tail-end of the self-same quartet, one full game ahead of the Pirates, but everybody who is anybody in Brooklyn hopes for further progress and the team is committed to the effort. The Cubs departed from Flatbush last night a little the worse for wear. They dropped three of the five games which constituted the late series.

Grimes early came to a realization that he would have to take matters into his own hands if the Dodgers were to win. The Cubs lambasted Burleigh's offerings for three safeties in the second frame, which, with a pass, manufactured one run. Only gilt-edge pitching in the pinch and a similar brand of fielding prevented further carnage, a snappy double play, Grimes to Miller to Konetchy, averting further scoring by the Cubs. After that Grimes recovered himself and held the visitors in check.

The crowd seemed to cease worrying about the outcome with Burleigh's improved display, and turned their attention to the result of the Giants-Reds double struggle as reflected on the scoreboard. Needless to add the 2,000 loyal Brooklynites cheered vociferously when the sad details were bulletined by means of the row of nine black squares.

Grimes Crashes Out Double.

The attention of the fans was distracted from the scoreboard when Grimes chased Otto Miller home with a double which bounced off the play indicator in the third, knotting the count. In the fifth Grimes aroused the crowd to unlimited heights of joy when he lashed out a single which sent Hy Myers over the pan with the marker which put a Brooklyn flavor into the game. Further occasion for glee was furnished in the eighth when Barber muffed a fly in left, which gave the Dodgers their third tally.

Elwood Good Martin, just plain, ordinary Speed Martin to his baseball cronies, essayed to suppress the Dodgers. Elwood Good didn't prove very good in his appointed task. The Dodgers collected hits in small clusters off his delivery, a brace in the third and a like number in the seventh serving to put the Dodgers in the van. In the eighth Manager Fred Mitchell thought a Cub rally was due, so he sent Lee Magee in to bat for Martin. Lee didn't do anything worthy of mention, and Nick Carter finished the game. Nick looked just the same as Martin to the Dodgers, who bunched a brace of hits, with Barber's muff, and accumulated another run.

It started like a poor day for Grimes when Flack ripped a single to left in the first, but the following three batters were easily disposed of. In the second the Cubs went into the van. Merkle drew a pass and took second when Barber punched a single through the box to centre. Deal beat out a bunt along the third base line, filling the bases. All was quiet in the stands until Killefer lashed a single to right, scoring Merkel. Then the ominous silence gave way to groans.

Grimes took a hitch at his trousers, and with supreme confidence surveyed the situation. Then he forced Martin to tap weakly to the box. Grimes quickly threw to Miller, getting Barber, and Miller relayed the ball to Konetchy in time to head off Martin. The day was saved, for Flack was easy for the third out, Johnston to Konetchy.

Count Tied in Third.

In the seventh Grimes again got in his good cudgel work and pushed the Dodgers out in front. Hy Myers started this session with a crashing double to right centre. After Konetchy had lifted to Flack Myers slid into third. Here Hy waited while Deal threw out Ward and Miller drew a pass. Grimes almost broke Martin's leg with a grasser which bounced off the Cub twirler's shins to Hollocher, Myers scoring with the run that broke the deadlock.

Barber's muff in the eighth gave the Dodgers their third run. As a greeting to Carter Jimmy Johnston lined a single over third to left. Griffith whacked a single to centre, sending Johnston to second and Zack Wheat forced Johnston with a rap to the box. Myers poled a long fly to left which Barber misjudged and then muffed after getting his hands on the ball, and Griffith registered with the last run of the game.

EBBETS WANTS DE VITALIS.

Walter De Vitalis, the husky young collegian, who has been pitching such good ball for Bill Donovan's Jersey City team, has been claimed by Charlie Ebbets of the Dodgers. De Vitalis was sent to the Skeeters by the New York Americans, and the Brooklyn club has recalled him to major league service, claiming that the former Brown University boy had not been waived upon by the Brooklyn club before he was allowed to go to Jersey City.

De Vitalis, in addition to his baseball playing, was a member of the Brown University basket ball team, and played full back on the Brown eleven.

SHAWKEY IS EASY, DAUSS A PUZZLE

Tigers Defeat Yankes, 7 to 0, in Second Game of Series—Four Hits for Fewster.

DETROIT, Aug. 15.—The Yankees, unable to hit George Dauss were easy for the Tigers here this afternoon in the second game of the series and Hugh Jennings' pennant chasers evened the set by scoring a shutout. As a result of the defeat the Yankees dropped back to a tie for fourth and fifth place with the St. Louis Browns, who were taking their second straight from the Mackmen. Two big innings, the third and fifth, produced all the Detroit runs. The score was 7 to 0.

But for Chick Fewster, the young infielder who is playing shortstop during the enforced absence of Roger Peckinpaugh, the Yanks would not have got a runner around to third base in the nine innings. Fewster poled four of New York's six hits, two of his drives being good for extra bases. His single in the third inning, following a single by Bob Shawkey, sent the New York boxman around to third where he rested while Sam Vick fanned. Fewster reached third on infield outs after his two-baggers in the sixth and ninth innings but no other Yankees got past first base.

Dauss was in fine form. The veteran had superb control and was especially effective against the heavy hitters of the Huggins troupe. Baker was the only member of the slugging set to come through with a hit and his drive was handled by Bush. In fact this drive knocked Donie over.

Fine Throw by Lewis.

The Tigers gave Bob Shawkey a reception such as he has seldom received since joining the Yankees. A sign of the impending slaughter was furnished in the second inning when the home team nicked the Yankee star for three clean singles. That they did not score in this frame was due to a superb throw by Duffy Lewis to the plate after Dauss had lashed a single to left, with runners on first and second. Lewis's fine throw got the speedy Jones as he slid into the plate. In the third two doubles followed a pass and netted two runs. In the fifth two batsmen, including Ty Cobb, had been retired and everything looked serene when the Tigers begin a bombardment, consisting of a triple, two doubles, and two singles, which netted five runs.

The game was gone so quickly that Huggins did not make any change in pitchers until the end of the inning. Wickland batted for Shawkey in New York's sixth and Walter Smallwood pitched the last three innings. He did good work, the only hit off him being a triple by Heilman, with one out, in the seventh. Harry was thrown out at the plate a minute later, so Smallwood got through the three innings without being scored on.

A great one-hand catch by Ping Bodie in the third inning was the fielding gem of the game. Ping ran close to the centre-field bleachers, went into the air and pulled down a smash by Harry Heilman that was good for a triple at least. Duffy Lewis was the victim of two fine plays by local infielders, Bush and Young robbing the Yankee left fielder of hits with spectacular stops.

Five Runs in Fifth.

The Tigers, turned back in the second frame by Lewis's throw to the plate, got busy in the third inning and cashed in a pair of runs. Bush opened with a pass, Young popped to Fewster, and Cobb smashed a double along the right-field foul line, sending Bush to third. Veach got two bases on a slow roller to centre field, Bush and Cobb scoring. Heilmann followed with the thump to deep centre on which Bodie made his great catch, and Shorten closed the inning with a pop fly to Pratt.

The Tigers went the entire length of the batting order in the fifth and put the game far beyond the hopes of the Yankees. Bush opened the inning with a single to left, Young popped to Ruel while trying to sacrifice, and Cobb followed with a pop foul to Ruel. Then the big smash got under way. Veach sent Bush around to third with a single to centre, and both hurried home on Heilmann's double to right. Heilmann went to third on Vick's throw to the plate, and finished the journey when Shorten hit a Texas Leaguer to left. Bobby Jones got the hitting fever, and drove a triple to right centre, which scored Shorten, and Ainsmith lashed a double to left which scored Jones. Dauss, the ninth home player to face Shawkey in this inning, struck out.

Only ten men faced Smallwood in the last three frames. He retired the side in order in the sixth and eighth, but was reached in the seventh by Heilmann for a triple.

WHITE SOX WIN IN 11TH.

John Collins's great base running was the big factor in Chicago's victory. Collins went in as pinch runner for Gandil who had doubled in the ninth inning and scored the tying run with the aid of Risberg's sacrifice and Schalk's sacrifice fly. He was hit by a pitched ball by Jones, who replaced Hoyt in the eleventh inning, and scored when Risberg doubled to right field. Hoyt pitched in fine form until the eighth, when he weakened. The visitors scored their runs by hitting Williams and Kerr opportunely.

SENATORS FINISH WELL.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 15.—Washington turned the tables on Cleveland today, winning in the ninth inning by a score of 3 to 2. Washington did not get a hit off Myers until the seventh, when the first three men to face him singled. He was taken out after two had singled in the eighth. Shaw was wild but effective except in the fourth.

BROWNS IN BATTING FEST.

Clout Athletics' Pitcher for Seventeen Hits and Win, 8 to 2.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 15.—St. Louis batted its way to an 8 to 2 victory over Philadelphia today and went into a tie with New York for fourth place. The locals hit Johnson's offerings to all corners of the park, piling up a total of seventeen hits, including two triples and three doubles.

Curves and Bingles.

It was the wildest demonstration ever seen outside the Polo Grounds. A world's series crowd is an example of excellent deportment compared with the wild-eyed fanatics who tried to take the park by storm yesterday.

One fan got through the crowd to one of the ticket windows by yelling at the top of his voice, "Lady fainting, lady fainting." The crowd gave way before him and he was able to get a ticket.

Frank Frisch will hang up a base stealing record if he keeps up the sack galloping that he has shown for the last two days. During that period the Fordham Flash has stolen seven bases.

Latest bulletin from the bedside of the Giants last night read: "Patient had a poor day. Suffering dizzy spells and occasional lapses of unconsciousness. Strength failed rapidly during day. Condition now series."

George Burns made a remarkable catch of Rath's low line drive in the eighth inning of the second game. He fell flat on his face just as he grabbed the ball but stuck to it until he came up for air.

When Neale was on his base stealing expedition in the ninth inning of the second game, he failed to get up when he jumped into second base. All the Cincinnati players ran out onto the field with fire in their eyes thinking that he had been spiked by Fletcher. No such thing. Neale tore the trousers of his uniform and he refused to move off the ground until somebody produced a strong safety-pin. Heinie Groh got the pin and Neale kept right on stealing until he reached home.

The groans and pop bottles which greeted Magee in the second game brought forth a storm of hisses from the fair minded fans. This is an unusual occurrence in New York and it is universally resented.

Roughouse Jimmy Smith and Luque, who were the storm centres Thursday, appeared before the Cincinnati bench early in the afternoon and waved their arms at the fans and tried to stir up some more trouble. The fans were so interested in the ball game that they didn't even give the revolutionists a tumble.

When baseball fans will crash in the gates at a ball game and toss their money at the gatekeepers, the game is reaching a point of popularity where they will have to build the parks larger.

Rube Benton has been fined $100 by President John A. Heydler for trying to strike Pitcher Luque in Thursday's game. President Heydler said that Benton's conduct was unwarranted.

When President Heydler was trying to jam his way through the crowd outside of the Polo Grounds he was held up by a policeman. "Who are you and have you got a ticket?" asked the cop. Mr. Heydler explained that he was merely the President of the National League. "All right," said the policeman; "get in if you can."

Arthur Devlin, the old Giant player and Fordham coach, sings the praises of Frisch. "That boy is going to be the sensation of the major leagues next season. He is the greatest baseball prospect I ever saw." The way that Frisch has been playing for the past few days leads one to believe that Devlin is right.

BEARS AND BISONS IN AN EVEN BREAK

Special to The New York Times.

NEWARK, N. J., Aug. 15.—Newark and Buffalo broke even in two well played games here today. The Bears won the first, 2 to 1, and George Wiltse's Bisons were returned the victors in the second game, 5 to 2. It took them ten innings to turn the trick, however. By a peculiar coincidence, there were nine hits for both teams in both games.

McCabe pitched the first game for Newark and was more effective with men on the bases than Devinney was. In the ninth inning, Buffalo, with two out, got three singles in a row, but, even in this round, could not score. Newark earned its first run on Bruggy's single, Jacob's hit and a sacrifice fly by Sargent. The run which really won the game was scored on Walsh's double and Miller's single.

Newark lost the second game in the tenth inning, when Lyon weakened, being touched for three hits and two passes, which accounted for three runs. He forced the winning run over the plate by passing Keating with the bases populated.

SKEETERS DROP TWO GAMES

Pitcher Al Schacht's wild heave in the sixth inning of the first game and a poor decision of Umpire O'Brien in the eleventh round of the second session cost Bill Donovan's Skeeters a double defeat in their farewell clash yesterday afternoon with George Gibson's Maple Leafs in Jersey City. The scores favoring Toronto were 3 to 1 and 1 to 0.

Jersey City had all the best of it in the hitting, by hanging up eight safe blows in the opening scramble against four for the visitors, while in the farewell session Biemiller held the Leafs to another quartet of bingles, while Jersey City connected with Justin's curves for nine.

JOHNSON CASE POSTPONED.

Injunction Plea of Yankees Will Not Be Heard Until Next Week.

The injunction proceedings filed by the New York American League Baseball Club to restrain Ban Johnson from paying for the defense of the New York suits against him from league funds, and scheduled to be heard in Part I. of the Supreme Court yesterday morning, have been postponed until Tuesday, Aug. 19.

The request for postponing the date of the case was filed and signed by both parties concerned, and therefore was granted. Charles A. Comiskey, owner of the Chicago White Sox, and Harry Sparrow, Assistant Secretary of the New York team, assert that the Cleveland club owes Johnson $50,000, and that in suspending Carl Mays from the Yankees the American League head was acting in the interest of the Indians.

The exact time of the hearing will not be known until the court docket is read in the Supreme Court at 10:15 o'clock Tuesday morning.

BIG ASTOR ESTATE HERE GOES TO SONS

Astor Theatre, Astor Apartments, and Hotel Astor Included in Equal Division.

Deeds of trust were filed yesterday in the Register's office on behalf of William Waldorf Astor conveying all of his real estate in New York City or elsewhere to the Farmers' Loan & Trust Company as trustees in trust for his two sons, Waldorf Astor and Captain John Jacob Astor. No detailed division of the properties was mentioned, the deeds merely specifying that one-half of Viscount Astor's realty had been conveyed in trust to each of his sons.

The Manhattan realty, which thus becomes virtually the possession of Waldorf and Captain John Jacob Astor, is valued at more than $50,000,000. The assessed value of the William Waldorf Astor holdings in New York City was placed a short time ago at $50,200,000. No statement could be obtained from Viscount Astor's lawyers as to the cause for this big transfer, but it is evidently in keeping with the policy he started in 1911 when he filed his first deed of trust to the Farmers' Loan & Trust Company as trustees for Waldorf Astor, conveying all of the Waldorf section of the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, being the Fifth Avenue and Thirty-third Street portion of the hostelry, and, in addition, the Astor Court Building, these two parcels being worth about $7,000,000.

The statement was made at that time that the transfer was due to the desire on the part of Viscount Astor to escape a heavy inheritance tax law, which is 5 per cent. on bequests over $1,000,000. Under the transfer in trust of land and buildings valued at more than $50,000,000, this would mean a saving to the estate of $2,500,000 in inheritance taxation.

Four years ago Viscount Astor deeded outright to his youngest son, John Jacob Astor, the most valuable of his downtown holdings, including the northern portion of the old Astor House, with additional land on Barclay Street, the twelve-story Exchange Court Building at the southeast corner of Broadway and Exchange Place, and the eight-story Astor Building at 10 and 12 Wall Street, extending through to Pine Street. The deed to these parcels was recorded in July, 1917, and they were then assessed at $7,200,000 with the buildings, the land value being more than $6,000,000.

Last month Captain John Jacob Astor, who was wounded in the war, sold the Wall Street building to the Bankers' Trust Company at a price said to exceed $2,000,000, and on the site the Bankers Trust Company is planning a large addition to its building on the corner of Wall and Nassau Streets. It was the largest portion of the William Waldorf Astor holdings in the city that had ever been sold since it came into the latter's possession.

Among the more valuable of Viscount Astor's properties now transferred are the Hotel Astor, assessed at $4,050,000; the Astor Theatre, assessed at $1,002,000; the Astor Apartments on the west side of Broadway, between Seventy-fifth and Seventy-sixth Streets, assessed at $1,525,000; the west side of Madison Avenue, between Thirty-fifth and Thirty-sixth Streets, assessed at more than $1,000,000, and the Eighth Avenue block fronts on the east side, between Forty-fourth and Forty-sixth Streets, with large holdings on the street fronts.

Waldorf Astor visited America a few years ago to look after the family real estate interests. Mr. Astor has since been a member of the British Parliament and has taken an active part in political activities.

John Jacob Astor was a Captain in the King's First Life Guards. Captain Astor and his wife visited America last February and spent some time at Palm Beach. Both are cousins of Vincent Astor.

30 Airplanes in Race to Toronto.

The American Flying Club announced yesterday that Brig. Gen. C. T. Menoher, Director of Air Service at Washington, had announced that thirty Government airplanes, including all types of foreign machines are entered in the Hotel Commodore International Race and Handicap Contest. The planes which will leave Mitchell Field, Mineola, on Aug. 25, will fly from New York to Toronto and return. L. L. Driggs, President of the club, said that General William Mitchell would take charge of the preparations of the flight, and would probably accompany the planes to Canada.

PRAISES NEW AUTO LAW.

Colonel Edward S. Cornell of the National Highways Protective Society said yesterday that the new automobile State highway law, recently passed in Pennsylvania, was one of the most stringent yet enacted by any Eastern State, adding that it was of a character to minimize reckless driving. The law also makes it a criminal offense to deface factory numbers and to sell and transfer stolen automobiles.

"While there are no provisions in the New York State law as to who shall or who shall not drive a motor vehicle," said Colonel Cornell, "and while this matter is left entirely to the discretion of the Secretary of State, the State of Pennsylvania, which was reputed to have had the loosest form of motor vehicle law, under the new law which went into effect Aug. 1, prohibits any person who has lost the use of one hand or both, or who has lost the use of both feet, or whose sight is so impaired that with the aid of glasses he cannot distinguish substantial objects clearly at a distance of 150 feet, or who shall have less than 20 per cent. of normal vision, or who shall have less than 2 per cent. of normal hearing from operating motor vehicles.

"There is also a proviso in the law making the learning of how to run motor vehicles lawful by taking out a learner's permit, and also another proviso that no operator of a motor vehicle who meets or overtakes a street passenger car that has stopped for the purpose of taking on or discharging passengers shall pass the car on the side on which the passengers get on or off until the car has started and until any passengers who may have alighted shall have reached the side of the highway.

"While I think this a good law for Pennsylvania I hardly think it could be applied to New York City, since it would retard traffic in an unusual degree.

"Altogether the law is an admirable one—as it requires among other things physical proof of the possession of an automobile at the time of its registration, thus minimizing the danger of registration of stolen automobiles."

THIEF CHASE IN BROADWAY.

Two Men Who Held Up a Clerk and Took $2,000 Are Caught.

An exciting thief chase at noon yesterday aroused Broadway in the vicinity of Broome Street and resulted in the arrest of two men who had held up a clerk in a hallway at 22 Howard Street at the point of revolvers and took from him a valise containing $2,000. The men arrested are Joseph Bellar, a clerk, of 236 Cherry Street, and Stephen Senft of 29 Jackson Street.

Samuel Bruskin, a clerk employed by Charles E. Weyand & Co., wholesale stationers, at 22 Howard Street, went to the bank yesterday and drew out $2,000 with which to pay the employes of the firm. As he entered the doorway of the firm on his return journey two men pointed revolvers at him, while a third grabbed the valise and ran. The men with the guns backed away after warning Bruskin not to follow, and disappeared. Bruskin followed the man carrying the valise, yelling "stop thief" at the top of his voice. The man turned up Crosby Street with Bruskin, Patrolman Magmuffen of the Elizabeth Street Station and a crowd in pursuit.

At Broome Street the man passed the valise to Senft who ran with it to Broadway, north on that thoroughfare to Spring Street, and then west, where he threw it into a wagon standing at the curb. The policeman outdistanced Senft and brought him back to the wagon and recovered the valise. When Senft was taken to the Elizabeth Street Station detectives put him through an examination and it was said that he confessed that he and Bellar had planned the robbery for some time but only yesterday found it convenient to carry it out. Bellar was later arrested and gave the detectives the description of the third man, who he said pointed Bruskin out to him and Senft from a window in a store across the street from where the robbery took place. The detectives expect to find him today.

ACTOR LEAPS TO HIS DEATH.

A man believed to be Charles H. Weston, an actor, 50 years old, of 352 South Eleventh Street, Newark, committed suicide last night by leaping from the seventeenth floor of the Aeolian Building, 27 West Forty-second Street. The body struck the roof of the four-story loft building at 25 West Forty-second Street and crashed partly through the tin and board covering, breaking a heavy wooden beam in the roof structure.

The police say that the man entered the building after office hours last night, ascended to the seventeenth floor on an elevator, where he opened a window facing east, threw his straw hat on the floor, and leaped out.

Watchmen in the building at No. 25 heard the shock of the body striking the roof, and, believing that a large rock had been hurled by an explosion in the neighborhood, notified James Davey, the agent of the building, at 17 West Forty-second Street, of what they had heard.

Davey went to the roof of the four-story building, where he found the body of the suicide.

In the pockets of the dead man was found a letter from Cohan & Harris, theatrical managers. There was also a permit from the Board of Health, allowing the bearer to use drugs. The address on the drug permit was that of a Harlem rooming house, the police said.

FIVE SEVERELY HURT AS FANS RUSH PARK

SUFFER FIFTEEN-FOOT FALL

Five men were seriously injured yesterday at one of the entrances to the Polo Grounds, while a crowd of thousands were struggling to gain admission to see the double-header between the Giants and the Cincinnati Reds battling. About twenty other persons were slightly injured.

The most serious accident occurred on the two runways that lead down Coogan's bluff on the west side of the Polo Grounds at 155th Street and the Harlem Speedway. More than 1,000 men were struggling there to get into the stands when one of the turnstiles gave way under the pressure. This caused the crowd outside the gates to surge forward against the wave of men that had just entered, so that the protecting iron railing on the upper runway gave way.

About twenty-five persons fell about fifteen feet to the cement flooring of the lower runway. The crowds on both of the runways became excited and their surging to and fro caused other sections of the rail to fall, although no more persons were pushed off the upper walk. It was necessary to call the reserves from the West 135th Street station and the West 152d Street station to quiet the throngs so that the sale of tickets to the game could be resumed without danger.

Nathan H. Hirschberger of 1,351 Finley Avenue, the Bronx, suffered a fracture of the skull and internal injuries and it was said last night at the St. Lawrence Hospital that his condition was critical. The others who were seriously injured were: Louis Goldstein of 1,698 Madison Avenue; Frank Salomon of 1,096 Clinton Avenue, the Bronx; Herman Nixon of 8,378 Seventeenth Avenue, Brooklyn, and Harry Frederick of 438 Richardson Avenue, the Bronx.

GET CLUE IN ITHACA TRAGEDY

Special to The New York Times.

ITHACA, N. Y., Aug. 15.—In an all-day search for the body of Hazel Crance, the 18-year-old girl who disappeared on the night of July 19, and was presumably drowned in Cayuga Lake, failed to reveal any trace of the young woman, but the grapplers brought to the surface the trousers worn by Donald W. Fether, the Cornell student under arrest here charged with the girl's murder.

Fether accompanied Hazel Crance to a dance at the Glenwood Hotel on the night of July 19. They left the dance hall about 10 o'clock that night and nothing has been seen of the girl since.

About forty minutes after they left the dance cries for help from a point about 800 feet from shore brought several cottagers in rowboats to the scene, and they found young Fether swimming about, nearly exhausted, his trousers missing, but his shoes on. The overturned canoe was some distance away.

Fether says he and three student companions and Miss Crance and three girl friends came down to the dance. Miss Crance, Fether says, declared she did not want to dance and he suggested a canoe ride on the lake.

The canoe upset, he says, and she went down. He swam around for twenty minutes looking for her. He was unable to kick off his shoes, he says, but managed to kick his trousers off over them, after a struggle.

The trousers when brought up yesterday were turned inside out and the legs had been knotted together with a single loop a few inches above the knees. The grapplers declare they thought they had the girl's body, too, as the load was heavy until within some feet of the surface, when it lightened. They believe the body slipped from the hook and sank again, but they were unable to locate it today.

Fether was given a preliminary hearing today, and another hearing will be held tomorrow before Justice Williams in Jacksonville. Fether is already under arrest on a charge of possessing intoxicating liquor in bone dry territory.

MUSIC NOTES.

The B. R. T. will run special trains from Park Row for tonight's performance of "Aida" at the Sheepshead Bay Speedway, in aid of the Italian earthquake victims. The opera is scheduled to start at 8 o'clock and the ticket sale yesterday had passed 15,000.

The Halevy Singing Society has invited young men and women with good voices to join it in a concert of Jewish music on Sunday, Aug. 24, in Central Park, for which a rehearsal will be held Tuesday evening at Stuyvesant Neighborhood House in East Ninth Street.

SOTHERN MEDIATES IN STRIKE OF ACTORS

which he undertook the defence of the actors and discussed at length the present situation between the actors and the managers.

Mr. Untermyer, after giving it as his opinion that the actors were in the right, said that he would undertake to defend the suits only on the condition that he should receive no compensation. "I regard the principle involved as of the highest public importance," he wrote, "and am willing to deal with it only in the light of a public service."

Mr. Untermyer said he had reached his conclusion despite the fact that he "personally owns and represents a one-half interest in the Shubert and Booth Theatre properties, and a one-third interest in the Forty-fourth Street Theatre property."

"There is an element of the grotesque," declared Mr. Untermyer, "in the character and extent of the litigation with which the courts have been suddenly flooded for the apparent purpose of intimidating the members from asserting their rights. I find nothing tenable or substantial in the suits that have been brought to my attention."

Mr. Untermyer declared that the managers had abrogated the contracts in refusing to arbitrate, and referred to the attitude of the managers as "arrogant and unjustified." A victory for the managers, he declared, would "mark a long step backward in the struggle of organized labor."

The stagehands, under the leadership of Charles C. Shay, were said last night to be awaiting the word to strike, and it was understood that such word was to come from the actors when they felt that such a step was necessary.

Weather Dampens the Pickets.

The weather had a depressing effect upon the street demonstrations last night, but there was some picketing and a few speeches from automobiles. "At 9:45," with William A. Brady playing a part, reopened at the Playhouse after being closed since the beginning of the strike. It was announced that "East Is West" will resume its run at the Astor Theatre tonight. Charles Emerson Cook denied an announcement that "A Regular Feller" would be produced at the Cort Theatre next Monday night, but said that it would await the end of the strike.

The parade of the striking actors on Monday will begin at 3:30 o'clock at Fifth Avenue and Sixty-ninth Street, and march south to Forty-second Street and thence to Eighth Avenue. It will be led by Major Reginald Barlow and will include about two thousand members, men and women. The council of the association will march, and there will be five hundred chorus members in line.

Florenz Ziegfeld, Jr., through Mortimer Fishel, his attorney, yesterday served papers on four of the striking "Follies" players in suits for $250,000 each. Those served were Eddie Cantor, Johnny Dooley, Gus Van, and Joe Schenck.

Free Plays Offered.

The actors said that they were enlarging their plans for the giving of theatrical performances, and that they had obtained three east side theatres in addition to the Lexington Theatre. Charles Rann Kennedy yesterday offered the use of all of his plays, including "The Servant in the House," without royalty, and it is probable that one or more of these will be produced.

Frank Gillmore, Executive Secretary of the Actors' Equity, said yesterday that the association could disprove every charge brought against it by the managers, and asked the latter to let the public judge which side is in the right.

"Ours is a just cause," he said, "founded on the same principles for which America and her allies fought—liberty and justice—and we shall fight for it with the same vigor and sincerity with which our country fought for the preservation of civilization.

"We are willing to place before an unprejudiced jury a comparison of our record with that of the producing managers. Despite statements to the contrary, there is no record that any member of the Actors' Equity Association, up to the present time, has violated his contract. On the other hand, there are manifold instances of the managers having broken faith with the actors, and broken faith with the public. I refer to ticket speculation, substitute casts, &c.

"It is our intent to collect and place on record the principal incidents of contract violations on the part of the managers. We will give instances of such flagrant violations that, when published, they will make very interesting reading for the public. We can prove that not only have the members of the Actors' Equity Association been victimized by unfair practices, but that the public itself has been on many occasions, and is now being, duped."

TRUCE IN CHICAGO STRIKE.

CHICAGO, Aug. 15.—The decision in the suit for an injunction by theatrical managers in Chicago, expected from Master in Chancery Sigmund Zeisler, was not forthcoming today. The suit will determine whether plays at the Woods and Palace will continue or conclude. If the Equity Association, which called the strike at the Cort and Grand Theatres, successfully resist the injunction every theatre will probably close.

The managers effected a settlement during the day with Local No. 2 of the stage hands. The sympathetic strike threatened by the stage workmen brought them a 12 to 15 cent rise in hourly pay. They decided to stay with the theatre managers "as we have no grievances," so Dick Green, International Vice President said.

Chicago's stage stars, striking and working, will appear Monday when the injunction suits are finally tried. They will be called to testify as to grievances and why they struck. The delay in the case was occasioned by the actors' attorney, Mr. Fuller, requesting that the petitions of the Managers' Council conform so a single answer might be filed. Pending that there are to be no other strikes, according to the agreement.

That the producing managers will lock out the Equity actors unless they resign from that union was the statement of Mr. Ridings after a conversation by telephone with Cohan and Harris' officials in New York.

Mr. Ridings pointed out that if this was done even those Equity actors who have remained "in" during the strike would be ousted.

BOSTON, Aug. 15.—An injunction to restrain members of the Actors' Equity Association from calling a strike at the Park Square Theatre was dismissed today at the request of Arch Selwyn, former owner of the company playing there, who brought the suit. Mr. Selwyn's attorney explained that Selwyn had sold his entire interest in the show to the three principals, Donald Brian, Peggy Wood, and Wallace Eddinger, who are members of the Equity Association, but who are said to be opposed to a strike.

A continuance to Aug. 20 was granted on a similar bill brought by Henry W. Savage, Inc., representing the management of the show at the Tremont Theatre. Meantime a temporary injunction previously granted will remain in force.

THE PLAY

By Alexander Woollcott

William A. Brady Turns Actor Again.

Howard	Irving Nugent
Jim Everett	Leo Mielziner, Jr.
Jack Grover	Harry Green
Captain Dixon	John Cromwell
Doane	William A. Brady
Doyle	Ulric Collins
Mack	Harry Davies
Dr. Norton	Richard Clark
Gillaini	Louis Darclay
Mrs. Clayton	Amelia Bingham
Molly	Mildred MacLean
Ruth Jordan	Marie Goff
Mary Doane	Adda Gleason
Margaret Clancy	Zelda Sears
Tom Daly	William Caldwell

Not to be outdone by George M. Cohan, none other than William A. Brady himself appeared in the cast of "At 9:45" when that entertaining mystery melodrama reopened at his Playhouse last evening with eleven other substitutes replacing the actors who had gone out on strike the week before. The younger generation in the audience may have come to scoff, but they remained to applaud, for in all his managerial years, Mr. Brady has not forgotten how to act and he pitched into last night's performance with all the zest he doubtless displayed back in 1882, when he made his first appearance on the stage in "The White Slave."

He played teh butler last night, and not since "The Admirable Critchton" has any stage butler made off with so many honors. Besides looking like a composite picture of all the stage butlers of the last thirty years, Mr. Brady wrung the rôle dry of every drop of emotion it contained. Nor were there manifested any of the pardonable tremors of a beginner, although there were traces of nervousness in his curtain speech. When naming the list of the leaders of the stage who had volunteered to play peacemakers in the theatre war, he had intended to mention E. H. Sothern, but in the excitement of the moment Francis Wilson's name led all the rest, which was scarcely what Mr. Brady had meant to say.

There were other notables in the cast, chiefly Amelia Bingham, who had a "big moment in a big play" all to herself in the first act, and the unfailing Zelda Sears, who, in the rôle of the young and spitfire Irish maid, put enough dynamite into the part to blow the play to pieces. William Caldwell gave an uncommonly fine performance, and among the newcomers, to whom the strike of the actors gave a chance, was one Leo Mielziner, Jr., who, according to the lobby gossip, was appearing for the first time on any stage. He is worth watching, for he has presence and manliness and force. Style will come in time.

WIFE SEEKS RELEASE.

Mrs. Meader's Sister Says She Is Held in Sanitarium Against Her Will

GREENWICH, Conn., Aug. 15.—Following a complaint made by Emma R. W. Hubbard of the Hotel Wellington, New York, that her sister, Mrs. Laura Price Meader, wife of Louis J. Meader, who is connected with the Meader Atlas Company of Brooklyn, a large feed concern, was not legally committed to Dr. W. Herbert Wiley's Sanitarium, on the Stanwich Road, Greenwich, and was being detained against her will, Judge William J. Ferris and H. A. Barton, an attorney, brought habeas corpus proceedings against Dr. Wiley to produce Mrs. Meader in the Court of Common Pleas, South Norwalk, before Judge John J. Walsh this afternoon to show cause why she should not be released.

According to Mrs. Meader's story, she was brought here by her husband ten weeks ago, under a pretense that she was to visit a friend here, and since that time she has been confined in the sanitarium. An affidavit, made and signed by Jewell Hanson, nurse at the sanitarium, who has been attending Mrs. Meader, sets forth that the latter is about 50 years of age and in good physical condition. She broke her arm last May, but has been able to sleep, eat, and take ordinary exercise.

"There is no mental disturbance to my knowledge," the affidavit goes on to say, "except her objection to being confined in this institution. She lives on the second floor of a cottage on the estate. The inmates in adjoining rooms were insane and noisy and their loud and insane talk has greatly influenced her health and caused her much distress. I believe her to be sane, but broken down by confinement and improper treatment, weakened in health and nervous and run down in mind and body."

Doctor A. E. Hanlon, who examined the woman at the request of Judge Ferris, found her to be convalescent, but stated she requires much better home surroundings.

SMALL RETURN FOR FORD.

Special to The New York Times.

MOUNT CLEMENS, Mich., Aug. 15.—Toward defraying his expenses in his $1,000,000 libel suit, Henry Ford will not receive more than $50 from The Chicago Tribune, the defendant newspaper, the State law providing that in a case where nominal damages are awarded not more than $50 costs can be assessed against the losing party.

To tell what Mr. Ford's total expenses have been, however, would be impossible for any outsider. It is indisputed that the Ford-Tribune case was one of the most costly in the history of the American bar. Conservative followers of the trial from its inception estimate that it will cost The Tribune nearly $400,000, and Henry Ford approximately $250,000. Costs have been placed as high as $5,000 a day during the hearing alone.

How much the attorneys received in fees and expenditures is largely a private matter. It would be easy to conjecture that in three years their retention has cost a considerable fraction of the million dollars asked for by Mr. Ford. Transcripts amounting to more than 8,000 pages on the main trial and 1,400 pages on preliminaries will have cost $10,000.

The verdict of the Mt. Clemens jury awarding Henry Ford 6 cents damages was officially noted by James J. Brady, Internal Revenue Collector at Detroit today. When the 6 cents is paid it will be entered in the collector's books as additional income to Mr. Ford and he will be charged income tax on it.

German May Lose Citizenship.

A petition asking for the cancellation of the naturalization papers of Hans Heydemann, a maker of dental instruments, was filed in the Federal Court yesterday by United States District Attorney Caffey. It is alleged that Heydemann, who was born in Germany, had obtained his citizenship papers through fraud, and that on Oct. 1, 1918 he had been heard to say that he sympathized with Germany in her fight against the Allies. It is also alleged that Heydemann had expressed a willingness to return to Germany and join the German forces, that he was indicted at Pittsfield, Mass., for violating the Espionage act, and for statements concerning the sinking of the Lusitania.

COMMODITIES PRICES.

As yet the Government's campaign against all kinds of profiteering has had no really material effect on wholesale prices, as they are reflected in Dun's list. This week, in a total of 57 changes in a list embracing 313 quotations, only 32 declines are shown, against 25 advances. Last week, with 60 fluctuations, there was the same number of upward revisions and 28 declines. So far as foodstuffs are concerned, the current list shows an almost equal division of the "ups" and "downs." Several of the more important foods advanced during the week.

The following list gives the minimum wholesale prices quoted on selected standard commodities this week. They are corrected to yesterday, and with them are given comparative prices for last week and the corresponding week a year ago:

Although that part of the list which is devoted to local provisions prices showed on change in Spring patent flour, a break of 70 cents a barrel was indicated in Winter "straights." The price of bacon eased off a little, but, against this, there was a rise in hams. Quotations having to do with the major provisions at Chicago purported to show advances in all of the live meats, with Middle Western lard lower and mess pork and short ribs unchanged.

Local quotations on dairy products showed a slight drop in the best creamery butter, with the other grades unchanged. The best cheese was off 1½ cents a pound here, but the undergrades were reported steady. Fancy nearby eggs dropped 2 cents a dozen to a point only 3 cents a dozen higher than the corresponding 1918 price, this margin being the smallest in many months. The same was true of the best Western eggs, which dropped 1 cent a dozen but still showed an excess of 5 cents over last year's price at this time.

Vegetable prices in the list showed less fluctuation than for a long time. In fact, the only listed revision was a rise of 50 cents a barrel in new potatoes. This advance put them up to $6 a barrel, or $1.50 higher than they were last year. In the listed fresh fruits the feature was a break of $1 a barrel in common apples. Fancy apples were unchanged. The only decline in the dried fruits was in California prunes, while advances were made by choice evaporated apples and apricots, and by orange and lemon peel. Wholesale prices for sugar, teas, and spices were unchanged, but No. 7 Rio coffee was nominally slightly weaker. No. 4 Santos was nominally unchanged. Common syrup declined 6 cents a gallon.

The grains market was featured by a break in corn, but the prices asked for rye, malting barley and prime timothy hay all advanced. For the second week in succession there were no advances in hides, and three grades—No. 1 native packer, No. 1 country steers, and No. 1 heavy cows—declined. The only change indicated in the leather list was an advance of 6 cents a pound in tannery run union backs. No. 2 pig iron (Cincinnati) and cut nails, Pittsburgh, were higher in the metals market, but all of the minor metals changes were downward. They occurred in antimony, electrolytic copper, spelter, lead, and tin.

Features were few in the lists for drugs, chemicals, dyestuffs, and oils, which together showed seven advances and three declines. In the naval stores, however, the story was different. Resin showed a break of 95 cents a barrel and turpentine fell off 16 cents a gallon. Chinese raw silk was higher at Shanghai, while Japanese silks lost ground at Yokohama. In the miscellaneous changes were declines in Brazilian crude rubber, tallow, and hemp.

Persistent efforts of the speculative element in the cotton goods trade to get from under had a marked bearish effect on prices there, though most of the declining was confined to unfinished cottons. Burlaps were quiet, and ended the week about where they began. Further Spring openings of men's wear fabrics featured business in the woolen goods field.

Can It Be Americanized?

Apropos of the suggestion that the easiest way of the cutters-up out of their present labor difficulties is to Americanize the industry by introducing "new blood," it was asked here yesterday whether this could be done as easily as might be thought. In at least one quarter the belief prevailed that it could not be done at all as long as the workers had the upper hand. It was asserted that to gain employment, in the first place, under the present closed shop arrangement, it would be necessary for the prospective American workers to join the union. Unless the number became very large, the new workers would cut little figure in the union and consequently their stabilizing influence would be lost. The only real gain foreseen in the quarter in question would be a probable increase in production, due to an increased number of employes resulting from the movement.

Dry Goods Merchants Active.

CHICAGO, Aug. 15.—Marshall Field & Co., in their weekly review of the dry goods trade, say: "Current wholesale distribution of dry goods was largely in excess of the corresponding week a year ago. Many more merchants were in the market compared with the same period of 1918. Orders from road salesmen for at-once delivery were much greater than for the same week last year, and such lines as are offered for future delivery are taken freely. Collections are satisfactory.

Handkerchief Orders Are Large.

Jobbers of handkerchiefs in this market report a large current demand for the retail holiday trade. Goods of all kinds appear to be in short supply, and prices high. In instances where wholesalers are fairly well stocked with goods that they can sell below present replacement costs, as some are doing, the demand is very heavy. Women's handkerchiefs are especially active, and all kinds of novelties are good. Solid colors, colored borders, embroidered effects, lace edges, &c., are all wanted. A good call for silk handkerchiefs for both men and women is also reported.

No Fear of German Goods.

The fear that German stores of goods, made during the war and stored against the day when markets would once more be open, might be sold in this country at very low prices is no longer felt, at least in the leather goods trade. According to reports received in the local trade from reliable sources abroad, the inability of the Germans to provide themselves with leather is already compelling German leather workers to seek employment in other countries. Many of them, it was pointed out, will find their way to German communities in Brazil and Argentina and, when possible, to this country.

The Executive Committee of the National Association of Clothiers conferred yesterday at the Hotel Brevoort and a telegram was prepared offering Attorney General A. Mitchell Palmer the aid of the clothiers in investigating conditions in connection with the production, distribution and prevailing prices of ready-made clothing. Ludwig Stein, President of the organization, signed the message. It was the sense of the meeting that, once the real conditions in the market are known, including the high price of woolens and their scarcity, together with greatly advanced labor costs, the public would realize the difficulties with which the trade is contending.

A combination of player piano and phonograph in one compact instrument has just been placed on the market. It is operated by an electric motor. The instrument is just about double the width of the ordinary cabinet phonograph and it is somewhat higher. The piano part does not permit manual playing, but provision is made for tuning. Standard makes of music rolls are played and also self-expression records. A device permits the roll to be played over as often as desired and the music may be stopped at any point and the roll rewound. When the end of the roll is reached the rewinding takes place automatically. Buyers have shown a good deal of interest in the new instrument, and from an export viewpoint big possibilities are held out for it owing to the compact shape.

Many of the retailers, most of them of medium size, who had been clamoring for the jobbers to book Spring delivery orders for hosiery and underwear, have changed their tune since the war on the H. C. L. began at Washington. They continue to buy liberally for the coming season, but the assumption is that they expect lower prices on cotton products before very long. Some jobbers, in answer to the early demand, had sent their men out with Spring goods, but reports filtering back to this market indicate that they have run into a slump in demand. Leading wholesalers are now afraid that, in the expectation of lower prices, retailers will hold off so long on Spring goods that they will get left on deliveries. They insist that there can be no noticeable lowering of hosiery and underwear prices before Fall, 1920, if then.

Orders Put Ahead.

According to the representatives of a number of lines of silverware and jewelry, many of the manufacturers have put down the bars on all orders calling for delivery before Jan. 1. This step was taken as a result of the backward condition of production which has not been able to keep pace with the large demand. Advances might be said to be of almost daily occurrence, and they are usually for such generous amounts as 10 or 15 per cent. By refusing orders for any goods wanted before next year, the manufacturers who have made this ruling believe time will be given them to catch up on their production.

Will Discuss Absentee Voting.

The subject of "Votes for Salesmen" will be the principal topic at the annual meeting of the Garment Salesmen's Association of New York City, which will be held on the evening of Aug. 25 at the Bush Terminal Sales Building. Lewis M. Martin, who drew up the bill on absentee voting, will address the members of the association. According to Sol Wolerstein, Secretary of the association, there are 210,000 traveling salesmen in this State, but the bill will really provide votes for more than 300,000 citizens, including lawyers, doctors, railway men, and actors whose business calls them away from the polls. The question of instituting a universal luncheon hour for New York City showrooms where ready to wear is sold will also be discussed. It is planned to close the showrooms from 12:15 to 1:30 o'clock each day.

Oct. 6 will be the opening date of the annual Fall sale of raw furs in the Masonic Temple here, instead of Oct. 13, as had been previously announced. A statement to this effect was issued yesterday by the New York Fur Auction Sales Corporation, 48 Great Jones Street. The closing date for the receipt of shipments of furs for disposition at the sale has been set forward a week to Sept. 13. The change of dates is due to requests for this action on the part of both foreign and domestic buyers, owing to the strong demand for all kinds of furs and the desire of manufacturers and dealers to get their stocks in hand as early as possible. Reports from the corporation's European representatives indicate that buying for foreign account at the coming sale will be heavier than ever before and that, ocean transit facilities permitting, there will be a large number of European buyers present. As a result, generally high prices are anticipated.

Gray Goods Prices Dropping.

Lower prices were again the feature of yesterday's trading in the local gray goods market. Large sales of 38½-inch 64-60s were made for nearby delivery by second hands at 15 cents, but bids of less than that figure were said to have been refused. Buyers appear more willing now to "talk turkey" than they have been for some time, which leads to the belief in certain quarters that the end of the drop is in sight. This opinion, however, cannot be said to be unanimous. Nineteen cents was accepted by second hands for nearby deliveries of 39-inch 68-72s, while for 80 squares of that width the second-hand selling price was 25 cents. Second hands also sold 38½-inch 60-48s at 13½ cents, but there was little reason to believe that this price could not be shaded. For nearby 5.50-yard sheetings 13 cents was paid, while for 48 square four-yards the best price reported was 16¾ cents. Second hands were quoting fine-yarn goods on the basis of 27½ cents for 40-inch 88-80 combed lawns.

Interest in Vivaudou, Inc., Sold.

The United Drug Company has arranged for the sale of its stock holdings in the Vivaudou, Inc., to a syndicate of local bankers, according to information obtained yesterday. A new company to absorb the latter, which is a concern manufacturing perfumes, was recently incorporated. The purchase price was in the neighborhood of $2,500,000, and, it is understood, the transaction is being managed for the syndicate by Schatzkin & Co.

FINANCIAL MARKETS.

The stock market yesterday was about what would be expected in the light of the previous drifting tendencies and the imminence of the special holiday. The professional trading element met with fair success in selling the industrial issues after a moderate improvement had occurred in early dealings. Some of the rails, too, were found vulnerable, although they were too inactive to permit any deductions from their price changes. Business generally was quieter than the day before and the increase of operations which occurred in the afternoon appeared to be due primarily to the covering of short contracts prior to the two-day recess. While there were net gains and losses of more than a point here and there through the list, at the close they were so evenly distributed as to make the market nothing more than irregular. Call money was abundant and the renewal rate of 4 per cent. for loans secured by mixed collateral was the lowest seen in several months. Time money was offered at 6 per cent. with supplies larger than in earlier days of the week.

The renewed threat of a strike of Interborough Rapid Transit workers brought closer to the financial community consideration of the widespread unsettlement of labor, and the comment of bank and brokerage offices showed that labor conditions were one of the most important matters affecting the markets. There is no doubt that traders in stocks are attempting to weigh the effect which may be seen shortly in production in many lines if strikes continue to expand in number and in the number of hands involved. It is seen clearly enough that a slackening of output cannot help but work in an opposite direction to attempts to reduce prices in many necessary commodities, and such a conflict of forces promises to have adverse results in corporation earnings. It is not strange that new buying of securities is lacking in the power displayed a month ago when the factors of unsettlement in trade and industry are reviewed. The demand for goods is plain enough in mercantile reports and in surveys of separate industries, and until recently the speculative atmosphere was filled with impressions that manufacturing would deal for months to come with an activity limited only by existing facilities. Now it has become a serious question whether mills and factories can be kept working on an adequate scale, whether the prospect of an uninterrupted creation of new wealth through output can be realized.

The foreign exchange situation lends further doubt to the outlook for a steady expansion of industrial endeavor. Despite the handicaps of labor disturbances the production of goods, referring particularly to steel, copper and other basic commodities, is continuing at a rate, or could be stimulated to a level, which would leave large surpluses for a greater export movement than that now current were the exchanges favorable. Yesterday sterling resumed its downward trend, declining to 4.27¾ for sight drafts, which was close to the lowest quotation of the year. The lire rate of 9.22 showed a loss of 5½ centimes for the day. The German mark for check transfer reached a new low level of 4¾ cents apiece, compared with the normal quotation of slightly less than 24 cents. The weakening of German exchange seemed to have a direct connection with a fall of mark rates in Switzerland and the shrinkage of sterling was said in banking quarters to be the product of an equivalent movement in London before business hours opened here. Francs were relatively steady. The question becomes more pointed all the time as to when credit arrangements are to be arranged here for the foreign countries which want them, either with or without Government backing.

Market Irregular.

Trading on the Stock Exchange yesterday was more restricted than in several months and the tone was irregular. There was some evidence of strength early in the session but the last hour saw a revival of selling pressure just as has been the case all through the week. This repeated last hour selling has savored of the professional. It would be a bit illogical to presume that out of town selling would be centered against the market each day during the last hour. On the other hand it contributes to professional profits to follow such a course. The leading issues of the standard variety have moved over a narrow range this week. Whether liquidation, has, for the time being, run its course is a matter for debate. There are many who still adhere to the bull side and just as many it seems who believe that prices will go lower.

Foreign Securities Absent.

All the talk of foreign securities coming to this market to make it something approximating the London market is as yet not productive of the actual securities. There has been no listing of foreign securities on the New York Stock Exchange since the signing of the Armistice. Investment trusts are apparently something for the distant future rather than the present. The United States is suffering from the very fact that its financial condition is so sound.

Tel. and Tel. Stock Scarce.

An additional recovery in American Telephone and Telegraph stock yesterday led to confirmation of the belief that the recent break was attributable to a bear raid. The stock is apparently scarce with a sizeable short interest. Both factors probably contributed to the fact that it was lent yesterday at a 1.32 premium.

Cuban-American Sugar.

An advance which resembled some of those which were taking place during the height of the bull market was made yesterday by Cuban-American Sugar, the stock moving forward 29¼ points on a turnover of only 1,400 shares. No tangible reason for the upturn was advanced, but there were rumors that the company might shortly declare a stock dividend which would be of large proportions.

The Mexican Situation.

Pan American Petroleum and Mexican Petroleum were strong in the early trading, as was American Smelting and Refining, due to the firm stand taken by the United States in it most recent note to Carranza. In the case of Mexican Petroleum there was an easing off toward the latter part of the day. Whatever may have been the market action yesterday, the belief persists that the day when American enterprises in Mexico can be trampled upon ruthlessly, with their agents killed and their property stolen, has passed, and that the future will hold much better prospects. The Mexican oil law is still to be promulgated the Congress of that country, but oil men having property there are not in the least fearful as to the terms which will eventually be embodied.

The Shopmen's Strike.

An optimistic view as to the railroad shopmen's strike came from the West yesterday, J. J. Mitchell, President of the Illinois Trust Company, being reported as saying that the peak of the strike had been passed and that the next few weeks would see conditions improved.

Steel Conditions.

A fact indicative of the condition which prevails throughout the steel industry is the record of blast-furnace operations in the Youngstown section. Of the 462 furnaces credited to that district only six are idle.

Running True to Form.

The general apathy displayed by the investment market is attributed by bond men to the fact that this is the height of the vacation season, and investors are more interested in what boat or train they are going to catch, or the condition of the automobile they are going to tour in than they are in the attractive qualities of securities being offered. While it is admitted that there has been some recent selling of German-owned American securities here, attention was called yesterday to the fact that the Peace Treaty stipulates that such securities shall be pledged, and that the amount which has reached this market has been smuggled out of Germany and is necessarily very small.

The Railroad Situation.

Close attention is being paid to the forthcoming publication of the Cummins railroad bill. Many rumors have been circulated in railroad quarters regarding its import and few of them agreed. It was reported in some quarters that the Cummins plan calls for the creation of six competing trans-continental railway systems. In direct opposition to this was the rumor that the plan calls for the establishment of about twenty systems with the stronger roads forming the nucleus for the organization of these, all of which are to compete not only East and West, but North and South. It appears to be the concensus of opinion in banking circles that, while there will be a great deal of talk about different plans for the remedial legislation necessary to make the return of the carriers safe and sane, all of the plans will not be satisfied. At the same time it is believed that the final legislation, when enacted into law, will offer a real solution of the problem.

A Newcomer on the Big Board.

Shares of the Fisk Rubber Company made their appearance on the Stock Exchange yesterday for the first time and immediately gave a good account of themselves, moving into higher ground in the face of an uncertain market immediately after the opening. The stock closed with a fractional net gain.

Interborough Consolidated shares of both classes were weak yesterday as the result of the labor troubles threatening the company. The common stock sold off more than 1½ points in the course of trading in the stock market and there was some selling of the preferred. Brooklyn Rapid Transit was also inclined to seek lower levels, due to the uncertain situation. Public Service Commissioner Nixon's remarks in Washington on Thursday, while promising little for the traction companies in the immediate future, contained reference to the fact that unless relief was afforded them, they would all go into bankruptcy before the end of the year. In the financial district the fact that the Commissioner mentioned relief was interpreted to mean that there will be an increase in fares for the local traction lines before the end of the year. The turnover in Manhattan Elevated and Third Avenue yesterday was only a few hundred shares and neither issue reflected the news of the day.

U. S. Industrial Alcohol Rumors.

It was rumored in the financial district yesterday that when Directors of the United States Industrial Alcohol Company meet next week the regular 4 per cent. quarterly dividend will probably be declared. It is understood that the board will consider at the same meeting the question of new financing for the company's output of "Alcogas," a gasoline substitute. In this connection there were persistent reports yesterday that in the next quarter unfavorable dividend action may be taken.

WARNS CONGRESS IT MUST AID ROADS

WARFIELD PLAN AS CURE

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—The new advocates of the Warfield plan for settlement of the railroad problem, Forney Johnston, advisory counsel of the National Association of Owners of Railroad Securities, and Samuel H. Beach, President of the Savings Banks' Association of New York State, appeared before the Interstate Commerce Committee today. Mr. Johnston said that the Warfield plan was the one solution upon which all the conflicting elements in the situation could unite. Congress must give constructive relief, he said, or look upon the overwhelming of the present economic situation, the plunging of the railroads into bankruptcy or Government ownership.

Mr. Beach declared that 50,000,000 American investors in banks, trust companies, and other institutions which put their stocks into railroad stocks are directly interested in return of the railroads to private ownership on a basis that will afford adequate protection to security holders.

"We are entirely confident," said Mr. Johnston, "that the simplicity and stabilizing action of the proposals we submit will leave the advocates of drastic action without an issue. We are equally confident that without the remedies which we propose the railroads will show such hopeless disparity in returns and in service as to compel a continuation of the warfare between the management and organized shippers in the unsuccessful struggle for rates, followed by wholesale receiverships and also probability of Government ownership, with all of the sinister possibilities of that alternative.

"Of the railroads under Federal control, fifty railroads, including virtually all of the systems of New England, are not paying operating expenses. Only twenty are earning the standard rental based on the three-year pre-war period. Based on the figures for the first six months of 1919, the deficit for 1919 under the standard rental will be $600,000,000.

"We freely acknowledge the propriety of the main features of the Esch bill. The measure we formulated to make good the association's assurances to the Senate committee embodies substantially all of the advances proposed in the Esch bill, but accompanies them with the indispensable provisions necessary to protect American transportation from headlong bankruptcy.

"For every dollar invested in the average American railroad in cash since 1907 it has received a return of less than 4 per cent., if the income and investment of 1917 be compared with the income and investment of 1907. Congress cannot expect this result to continue."

Mr. Beach said:

"The only idea in the minds of many people regarding railroad securities is that they are mainly owned and held by the very wealthy. They do not stop to consider the fact that the major portion of the liquid wealth of the nation consists of the small accumulations of the many rather than of the larger holdings of the few, comprising in its membership 130 of the 141 mutual savings banks in the State. It is needless to say these banks are popular with the people. To be exact, there are 3,500,000 depositors in New York State who have to their aggregate credit the enormous sum of more than $2,000,000,000.

"Besides the savings bank depositors there are 33,000,000 citizens holding life insurance policies; and railroad securities form a large block in the investments of the companies by which these policies are issued. In addition to these are millions of small depositors in trust companies, national banks, and State banks; also hundreds of universities, thousands of trust estates, and individual investors, so that in all 50,000,000 people, a full half of all the people in the nation, comprising mainly the middle class—made up of business men, mechanics, clerks, laborers, the widow and the orphan—are vitally interested in having the railroads returned to private ownership under such terms and conditions as will render present outstanding bonds desirable to retain and future issues attractive as an investment."

SHORT COVERING SENDS COTTON UP

TRADING STILL ERRATIC

Upturn Amounted to 40 to 51 Points—Bad Weather Over Sections of the Belt.

Prices in the cotton market yesterday rallied to the extent of 40 to 51 points after another day of erratic trading tinged with nervousness. The opening was steady, with small advances for the near months and declines of from 3 to 10 points for the distant months, but the weakness in the Liverpool market found reflection here, and there was a sharp selling off in prices during the early trading, new lows for the present movement being made.

In some quarters the decline in Liverpool was attributed to hedge selling by Manchester and Liverpool interests. The reaction here amounted to 20 to 25 points on the near months and 15 to 20 points for the other active positions. October dipped to 30.25 and December to 30.40.

The break was followed by a wave of short covering on the part of those who have been on the bear side during most of the week, and prices moved forward briskly under the impetus of this.

The upturn amounted to from 40 to 50 points. The weather map also played a part in the advance, unfavorable reports coming from many sections of the cotton belt. Another wave of liquidation set in, due to selling pressure from the South, and prices reacted to something approximating their close of the preceding day. The late afternoon saw another reversal of position, a rally sending prices well above their previous close.

THE CONDITION OF TRADE.

The trade reviews for the week agree that there is less anxiety on the part of buyers to obtain goods than heretofore, and attribute this to the countrywide agitation for a cut in commodity prices. At the same time they stipulate that this hesitancy is not general and has become marked chiefly in the textile, leather and other leading lines.

Dun's Review says:

> That the country-wide price agitation has wrought a change in business, the full meaning of which cannot now be clearly determined, the week's advices have made plainer. Signs of hesitating markets do not appear in every quarter, but are unmistakable in textiles and hides and leather and some other leading lines, and certain commodities that for months had been conspicuous for their buoyancy have lately displayed yielding tendencies. The reversal of the price trend, following a rise to new high levels, has been reflected in Dun's list of wholesale quotations, which again discloses more recessions than advances, and not a few buyers who formerly were eager to operate at almost any figure are now holding off, awaiting further developments. Bank clearings continue to surpass all previous records for this period, the total this week at sixteen leading cities amounting to $7,359,898,630, or increases of 38.8 and 37.3 per cent., respectively, over this week in the two immediate preceding years. Gains of 53.2 per cent. over last year and of 31.9 per cent. compared with two years ago appear at New York City.

Bradstreets' says:

> In wholesale lines there is unquestionably more quiet in such lines as raw wool, cotton, and silk, and less anxiety as to future supplies is expressed. Leather markets, including hides, are quieter but strong, with stocks scant. In the iron and steel markets the tone is rather more distinctly strong.

$50,000,000 6½% Three-Year Credit, Due June 18, 1919

A very large proportion of the above securities has been deposited with this Committee, pursuant to the notice to holders of Certificates of Participation, dated July 1, 1919. In a considerable number of cases, however, an extension of time in which to make deposits has been requested of the Committee, owing to the fact that the certificate holders, because of absence from home on vacation, or for some other good reason, have been unable to make deposit on or before August 15, 1919, the date named in the notice; and it seems likely that many certificate holders who have not yet deposited their certificates are in this position. For this reason, the Committee has decided, pursuant to the power conferred upon it by the Protective Agreement, to extend the time for deposit thereunder to and including September 30, 1919. As stated in the previous notice, it is to the interest of certificate holders that certificates should be deposited promptly.

If you are looking for a safe and permanent investment we believe this 7 per cent stock will appeal to you. It is an old established business. The net earnings available for dividends after the Federal tax and all other taxes were paid during the past four years have averaged nearly four times the dividends on the preferred stock outstanding. W. L. Douglas name is known throughout the world. The trade mark is a very valuable asset worth millions of dollars, and is the property of the stockholders. It is one of the most valuable trade marks in the United States.

You would make no mistake to order at once as many shares of this stock as you can afford to buy, price $100.00 per share. If you care for more particulars fill out the coupon and mail at once. Application will be made to have this stock listed upon the stock exchange.

This company owns and operates 106 W. L. Douglas shoe stores located in the large cities. W. L. Douglas shoes are also sold by over 9,000 shoe dealers in the United States.

The past few years our shoes have been more extensively advertised than ever before. Stamping W. L. Douglas name and the retail price on the bottom of the shoes before they leave the factory has saved the wearers millions of dollars, and guarantees them the best shoes in style, comfort and service that can be produced for the price.

A great demand for W. L. Douglas shoes has sprung up in leading countries in Europe and Asia. Our domestic business has increased so that our sales have actually doubled in four years. In 1915 the sales were $8,069,628.41 and in 1918 $16,660,343.46. The past six months' business was at the rate of over $20,000,000 per year.

In common with other great businesses we need additional capital to meet the urgent requirements of increasing domestic and foreign trade. The new conditions of business also demand more capital. The cost of labor and material has nearly doubled so that twice the amount of capital necessary under the old business conditions is now required.

PROBLEM OF FOREIGN TRADE

National Park Bank Says Premium on Dollar Is Virtually Export Duty.

The Foreign Trade Department of the National Park Bank, discussing the foreign trade position of the United States, says that our strength lies in quantity production and that one might well compare the premium paid on the American dollar abroad with an export duty imposed upon our shipments to various countries.

"This premium," says the bank, "is a serious burden and adds just so much to the price paid by foreign countries for doing business with the United States. The difficulties in the way of overcoming exchange disparities are numerous, and it is apparent that the situation cannot be remedied at once. Although it is understood that the only solution lies in the direction of the establishment of credits in favor of foreign buyers, the variety of opinion as to the best way to proceed has not been conducive to prompt action.

"The situation calls for comprehensive relief measures along broad gauge lines, since piecemeal assistance will not answer to readjust exchange rates in a material way. At the same time an accurate estimate as to what the total requirements will amount to seems difficult to obtain. Several estimates ranging from $1,000,000,000 to $3,000,000,000 have been mentioned, and all seem to be based upon an authoritative study of conditions as they exist here and abroad. The magnitude of the movement has caused fears respecting our home money markets, which may be unduly disturbed by heavy borrowing for foreign account. However, it should not be overlooked that, to a large extent, American finances would have to carry the burden just the same if exportable merchandise could not be disposed of abroad."

Applicants must have reached their twentieth but not their fortieth birthday on the date of the examination.

Education Notes.

Public school children are cultivating gardens this Summer at seventy-five of the schools in the different boroughs. The gardens yield more than $100 worth of products daily.

Associate Superintendent Stauhenmuller gave up a part of his vacation time and was at some expense in attending to the school luncheon program. The Board of Education has voted to extend his vacation to make up for this loss and to reimburse him for the railroad fares he has had to pay to come from his Summer home in the Adirondacks.

The Board of Education has established classes for handicapped children in the following school annexes: Day Camp Rutherford, annex to P. S. 17, Brooklyn; Orthopaedic Hospital, annex to P. S. 42, Brooklyn; Metropolitan Hospital, Blackwell's Island, annex to Manhattan Trade School; Goodhue Home, annex to P. S. 47, Manhattan; St. Joseph's-by-the-Sea, annex to P. S. 30, Richmond.

In the estimate for the school budget for 1920 money is asked to make ten evening high schools comply with the Regents' requirements, so that the graduates will be able to enter college, having the same standing as graduates of the day high schools. This can be done by putting libraries and laboratories in each of the schools. The only evening high school in the city whose graduates now have the same standing as day high school graduates is the Brooklyn Evening High School. It has a library and laboratory. The plan is to put the other evening high schools in the same rank.

REAL ESTATE FIELD

On the belief that Madison Avenue in the vicinity of the Fifties is destined to become an important business thoroughfare in the near future, owing to the expansion of trade and the lack of space on Fifth Avenue, the George Bocker Construction Company yesterday purchased the northeast corner of Fifty-second Street and Madison Avenue as a possible site for a tall commercial structure.

The property, which was sold by the Berkshire Apartment Corporation, has a frontage of 100 feet on Madison Avenue and 95 feet on the street. It is covered with a ten-story remodeled apartment house the leases of which extend to 1922. Charles F. Shepard, President of the Berkshire Corporation, held the property at $750,000. N. A. Berwin & Co. negotiated the transaction.

9 CANDIDATES OUT OF PRIMARY FIGHT

Most of Brooklyn Insurgents Will Stick with Exception of O'Loughlyn, Carmody, and Finegan.

Only half a dozen candidates who were designated to run in the primary election on Sept. 2 by the various parties filed their declinations with the Board of Elections up to midnight last night, when the time for the filing of such declinations expired. The parties have until Tuesday, Aug. 19, to file the names of substituted candidates, and the various committees on vacancies will select the new candidates today or Monday.

Judge Richard H. Smith of the City Court, who was refused a renomination by Tammany Hall, but who, with Supreme Court Justice Joseph E. Newburger, was designated as an independent candidate in the Democratic primaries by a committee representing the Bar Associations of the city, filed his declination and announced that he would run only on the Republican ticket. An organization of independent Democrats to be formed later will probably designate him and Justice Newburger as its candidates in the November election.

In the 14th Assembly District Frank J. Baumgarten declined the Republican nomination for member of Assembly, while in the 3d Municipal Court District Anthony P. Ludden declined the nomination on the Republican ticket.

In Brooklyn Assemblyman Wilfred Earl Youker, who was designated for re-election by the Republican organization of the Twenty-first Assembly District, filed a declination saying he could not longer "afford to make the sacrifice which the holding of the office entails."

Most of the insurgent candidates named by the Democrats in Brooklyn opposed to the control of the organization by John H. McCooey decided to remain in the race, and the indications are that "Boss" McCooey will have a real fight on his hands this year. Should the insurgents be defeated in the primaries, it is their intention to run a third ticket at the general election. R. Percy Chittenden, who is on the insurgent ticket for the nomination for District Attorney, announced that he would stay in the fight and seek to defeat the McCooey candidate. Chittenden issued a statement in which he attacked McCooey for his alleged mismanagement of the Democratic Party in Brooklyn.

Morris L. Lewin, designated for Municipal Court Justice by the Republicans in the Fifth District, withdrew, and the Republicans have decided to support Justice Cornelius Furgueson, who was planning to make an independent contest at the election. Furgueson is the present Democratic incumbent on the bench, but was refused a renomination by McCooey.

E. T. O'Loughlin, James Finegan, and Francis X. Carmody announced definitely that they would not run on the insurgent ticket, although efforts to get them to do so were continued up to midnight. O'Loughlin, who was formerly leader of the Hearst forces in Brooklyn, and Finegan said their sympathies were strongly with the opposition forces and issued statements attacking McCooey. O'Loughlin's refusal to enter the race was taken to mean that McCooey would receive Hearst's support.

The failure of the Democratic and Republican leaders in the Twenty-second Senatorial District in the Bronx to bring about fusion this year may turn three of the Assembly Districts in the Senatorial District over to the Socialists at the November election.

Mrs. Mary M. Lilly, Democratic member of the Assembly from the Seventh Manhattan District, replied yesterday to the characterization by the law committee of the Citizens Union of her legislative record as "excellent attendance but poor record of votes." A copy of the criticism was sent Mrs. Lilly before publication with a request that she answer it, but she was out of the city and failed to receive it. On Aug. 12 she wrote Walter Arndt, Secretary of the Citizens Union:

"I find a criticism of me in the newspapers. When I wrote you on Aug. 6 I believed you were a just body of patriotic citizens, but your criticism of me is so inconsistent that to me it seems that the most stupid person in the world would not ask the question. How could a person 'attentive to duty' in the Legislature have a poor voting record? Of course, if you have some peculiar standard of the way votes should be cast, it seems to me that you should inform me at least, if not the public, what that standard is. I should be very glad indeed to know what the meaning of your criticism might be."

TEXAS DEMOCRATS DIVIDED.

Rebels Plan Nationalization Scheme—Bailey Leads Opponents.

FORT WORTH, Texas, Aug. 15.—Plans for nationalizing the new American Party, organized here yesterday by a group of Texas Democrats dissatisfied with their old party, will be put into effect upon appointment of a special committee for that purpose, it was stated today.

Meanwhile the other faction of Democrats, which determined yesterday on a campaign of reconstruction within the party, went ahead today with plans for a definite line of attack, under the leadership of former Senator Joseph W. Bailey.

Political observers declare the factions simply are divided as to the means to attain a common end.

Ezra Mundy Will Enter Race in New Jersey as an Independent.

Metuchen, N. J., Aug. 15.—New Jersey will have an 88-year-old candidate for Governor. He is Ezra Z. Mundy, of Metuchen, who says he is the oldest living graduate of Rutgers College, having finished in the class of 1852. He will run as an independent, but is Republican in politics.

Among the policies he will advocate in his campaign are: A four-mile speed limit for automobiles in all cities and fifteen miles in the open country; woman's suffrage; prohibition; increase in teachers' salaries; lower taxes; reduction of salaries of public officials; intercoastal ship canal.

In a statement issued today Mundy says it is his aim "to place on the shelf all partisan politicians whose only aim is personal reward; in particular to advocate, advance and help all plans and laws that may promise to promote the vast and higher interests of all the citizens, not the representative and tool of any political party."

SAYS WIFE LOCKED HIM UP.

On the ground that his wife locked him in his apartment at various times, keeping him imprisoned for hours, and subjecting him to other cruelties, Benjamin M. Steigman filed suit in the Supreme Court yesterday for a separation from Annette Wynne Steigman, whose residence is given as 149 East Sixty-seventh Street. Mr. Steigman states in his complaint that he was instructor in English in a Brooklyn high school, and lived at 169 Columbia Heights. Because of his imprisonment by his wife, he says, he was late for school and was reprimanded by the Board of Education and prevented from being promoted.

Steigman also alleges that on July 2, 1918, after he had been assigned to duty by the Government officials as English instructor at an army reconstruction camp, his wife locked him up again and he was two hours late at camp, which caused him to be censured. He states that, while living in Brooklyn and at Otisville and Eastview, his wife threw a flatiron and pieces of china at him, and struck him in the face with her fist. He alleges that her treatment has made him unfit to continue his work.

POET ACCUSES EX-FIANCEE.

Alleging that he was lured into making a proposal of marriage by a woman who already had a husband, and that he while under the spell of her pretended affection gave her money, jewels, and household furniture, William Frederick Cowen of 965 Greene Avenue, Brooklyn, yesterday in the Flatbush Police Court charged Mrs. Ella G. Buckley, 43 years old, of 1,193 Rogers Avenue, with grand larceny.

The complainant described himself as a poet, literary student, and a waiter. In his complaint he states that the defendant by manifestations of affection induced him to propose to her. She accepted, he asserts, and then he gave her a $200 diamond ring, a gold watch and chain valued at $200, household furniture worth $100, and some savings he had in bank. He later discovered that his charmer had a husband. He demanded his presents back, but she refused. Magistrate Reynolds paroled the defendant pending a hearing next Tuesday.

M'ALPIN MURDER VICTIM A SOLDIER

MAY HAVE BEEN POISONED

Blow on Head Not Sufficient to Cause Death—Companion on Night of Tragedy Still at Large.

The man who the police said had been murdered and robbed in a room on the fifteenth floor of the Hotel McAlpin, where he had registered with a companion at 2 o'clock on Thursday morning, was identified yesterday as Cecil E. Landon, a student at the Oregon University, who had recently returned from military service with the American Expeditionary Force in France. The identification was made by Sergeant Major Albert Vos of 547 West 158th Street, who served in the same unit with Landon. No trace has been found of Landon's companion, who fled from the hotel before the soldier's body was found on a bed in the room.

Vos said he and Landon were in the Quartermaster's Department in France. They returned with other members of their unit from Brest, France, on Aug. 1, on the transport Great Northern. When they arrived on Aug. 8 they were sent to Camp Mills at Mineola, L. I., where both men were discharged from the service on Aug. 12. Vos told Captain Arthur Carey of the Homicide Bureau that Landon had $300 or more. The police found only a few cents and several French coins in Landon's clothing.

"Landon came into the service from the Oregon University, where he was a student," said Vos. "His home was at 5,324 Eighty-ninth Street, Portland, Ore. Since our discharge at Camp Mills Landon and four other of our soldier friends had visited me at my home."

The companion of Landon registered as "P. J. Powerer." Vos could not recall any acquaintance of Landon's of this name nor was he able to give any clue to the identity of the missing man based on the description in the possession of the police. In the search for this suspect Detective Martin of the Homicide Squad went to Camp Mills last night to question soldiers concerning Landon's movements and visitors since he returned. While Captain Carey is convinced that Vos's identification is probably correct, he will verify it by fingerprints, which have been mailed to the War Department.

"I thought it best to make an absolute identification from the fingerprints before notifying the relatives of the soldier," said Carey. An autopsy was performed at the Morgue yesterday on Landon's body, which showed a fracture of the skull and lacerations and contusions on face and scalp. The police believed that Landon had been beaten to death with a blackjack, but the autopsy indicates that the blow that caused the fracture, which was about three inches in length, had not extended to a depth to injure the brain, and the investigation took a new turn to determin whether in addition to the visible marks of the attack the soldier's death was caused by administering poison to him.

"It does not seem possible that a strong, athletic soldier would have died ordinarily from the blow that fractured the skull, according to the results of the autopsy reported to me," said Captain Carey. "It is possible that he was both beaten and induced to drink something that caused his death. We have ordered the vital organs sent to Dr. Gettler at Bellevue Hospital for an analysis."

Mrs. A. C. Anderson's Estate to Sons

The will of Mrs. Augusta C. Anderson, who died July 13 leaving an estate of more than $100,000, bequeathes $500 to the Night Refuge for Homeless Women, 144 West Fourteenth Street; $200 to St. Andrew's One Cent Coffee Stands, 31 West Eighth street, and $100 to the Rev. George T. Linsley of Hartford, Conn. Her sons, P. Chauncey and Henry James Anderson, are to receive the remainder of the estate.

Elmer G. Story of Queens, as examiner in the Civil Service Commission and as an individual taxpayer, yesterday brought action in the Supreme Court, Brooklyn, to punish Charles L. Craig, Controller, Morris Cukor, President of the Municipal Civil Service Commission, William Brennan and Thomas R. Killilea, Civil Service Commissioners, and Thomas F. Murray and May B. Upshaw, Examiners of the Commission, for alleged contempt of court, claiming that they had violated an injunction issued last Spring by Justice Faber.

Mr. Story says that in 1904 Murray was appointed First Assistant Chief Examiner at a salary of $4,260 a year, and Miss Upshaw in 1902 was made Assistant Examiner at a salary of $3,660. Story brought an action against Murray and Miss Upshaw asking that they be restrained from holding their positions. The injunction was sought to prevent the Controller from certifying Murray and Miss Upshaw on the budget, Story alleging that they had been illegally promoted to their positions. Justice Faber issued the injunction and it was to remain in effect until the city argued the merits of the case.

Until yesterday the Corporation Counsel had made no move to present argument. In the argument yesterday counsel for the city contended that Murray and Miss Upshaw were doing the work of ordinary Examiners and their salaries were raised because of good work.

Story claimed that the injunction was violated in that Murray and Miss Upshaw while not holding the title to the positions to which they were promoted, are drawing the salaries of those positions, while only ordinary Examiners.

Justice Cropsey reserved decision.

Official Says Jersey Service Was Affected Temporarily by Storm.

Answering complaints of delays of telephone service to New Jersey, F. H. Bethell, First Vice President of the New York Telephone Company, issued a statement yesterday in which he denied that there had been any delay except that which was caused by the storm on Wednesday. He said that this storm had put temporarily out of commission approximately fifty trunk lines between New Jersey points, most of them being in Monmouth County.

He said that the toll traffic between New York and New Jersey had been much greater this year than last, and to take care of this increased business seventy new positions had been added to the Jersey tollboard during the yea. and that the operating force was being increased as rapidly as the workers could be trained. During the last few months, he said, forty-five additional operators had been put to work on the New Jersey switchboards.

"With these additions to our equipment and working forces," he continued, "we are able to handle all Jersey toll calls on a no-delay basis, despite the heavily increased traffic, and shall be able to do so except when sudden and overwhelming emergency demands for service are made."

BABY'S CRIES BRING HELP.

Policeman Finds Starving Mother and Infant on Doorstep.

A pretty young Spanish woman, who came to this country from Cuba about fourteen months ago, was found in a starving condition on the doorstep of an apartment house at 209 West 104th Street, yesterday, with a two-month-old baby in her arms. The woman was only semi-conscious, and it was the child's cries that attracted the attention of Patrolman Harry Smith. Dr. Walter Johnson of the Knickerbocker Hospital was called and the woman and baby were taken there.

The woman described herself as Manuela Guilera, 30 years old, of 210 West 121st Street. She had seven dollars in her possession but said she was too worried to eat. The woman said she had just returned from a vain trip to Washington, where she hoped to see the father of the child.

She became acquainted, she said, with a member of the Cuban Diplomatic Service in this country. The child was born June 20 at the New York Nursery, West Sixty-first Street and Amsterdam Avenue.

THREE TAKEN IN RAID HELD AS ANARCHISTS

PROPAGANDA PAPER SEIZED

Three Russians who were arrested on Thursday night in a police raid on the Russian People's House at 133 East Fifteenth Street, were held in $10,000 bail each by Magistrate Ten Eyck in the Yorkville Court yesterday on a short affidavit charging suspicion of seeking to foment criminal anarchy. These three men were aliens, as were eleven others who were detained by the police for several hours.

The raid was made by Inspector Joseph Faurot and police from the East Twenty-second Street Station under a search warrant issued by Magistrate William Sweetser in the Men's Night Court. Inspector Faurot and Police Captain John H. Post reached the People's House just as the party of aliens was leaving. The reserves surrounded the Russians immediately and, despite their protests, loaded them into a police wagon for a trip to Headquarters.

Hundreds of copies of a journal called Bread and Freedom were taken for the examination of the Lusk Committee, investigating seditious activities, and of the Extraordinary Grand Jury, called to act on evidence of criminal anarchy. Many other documents and journals were carted away. In one of its issues the paper, Bread and Freedom, advocated the seizing of power by revolutionists, the destruction of property, and the burning of police stations, barracks, and churches.

One sentence, said by the police to have been taken from the columns of the paper, was: "God is as much the sworn enemy of the people as the gendarme." The police said they found evidence that the men who had worked in the People's House were in sympathy with the aims of the Bolsheviki and the Russian Soviets, and were anxious to bring about such a system of Government in this country.

The men who were held by Magistrate Ten Eyck said they were Peter Branky of 316 East Fourteenth Street, Naum Stetanuk of 151 East Fifteenth Street, and Hyman Perkus of 239 East Twentieth Street. The fingerprints of the twelve other men were taken before they were released by the police. All were questiond for several hours by Alexander I. Rorke, the Assistant District Attorney, who is seeking evidence for the Extraordinary Grand Jury.

Mr. Rorke questioned two men at his office yesterday afternoon in connection with the investigation into acts of alleged criminal anarchy. He refused to discuss what evidence if any he had obtained, but declared that new leads had been discovered which it was expected would develop important matters in connection with anarchistic propaganda.

A man who described himself as Michael Cravchuk, a Russian, 36 years old, of 180 Avenue A, was locked up last night at Police Headquarters charged with circulating alleged anarchistic literature. He had been arrested earlier in the day by Detectives Murphy and Newman of the Bomb Squad, in front of the Criminal Courts Building, who charged him with "Editing and circulating literature advocating the overthrow of the United States by force and violence."

Increased Production a World Necessity—

Business men realize that the big, immediate problem is how to get capital and labor to co-operate more closely for greater production.

What plan will best insure this imperative co-operation between conservative labor and constructive capital, and how Advertising may help promote that plan, will be discussed by eminent leaders on both sides of industry at the fifteenth annual
